Ship Afire On Ocean Is Saved

Skipper And Crew On Elder After 26 Others Took To Life Rafts

By Leif Erickson

PEARL HARBOR, March 18—(AP)—The nervy skipper and crew men who saved the Navy net tender Elder from explosion and fire in a week-long ordeal in mid-Pacific, vowed today to see their charred little ship into harbor.

The Hawaiian sea frontier command, however, said present plans called for bringing them promptly to Pearl Harbor in another ship. It was interested in learning the particulars of the whole operation, including how a nearby transport passed them by four days before they finally were rescued.

All the Elder's crew of 40 were found safe late yesterday, 26 of them in life rafts into which the skipper, Lt. William F. Adams, had ordered them when the fire spread March 10.

Lt. Adams and 13 volunteers who had stayed aboard and snatched the Elder from doom after a long struggle, were located 17 miles away aboard their charred and helpless ship.

Admiral Commends

The Pacific fleet commander, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, today dispatched the traditional "well-done" signals to all hands involved.

But—the Navy also started organizing an inquiry to find out why a military transport sailed near the stricken Elder last Monday without responding to frantic signals that included gunfire and flares.

Lt. Adams in a radiophone interview was outspoken about his failure to attract attention of the transport General A. W. Brewster.

The transport is en route to Yokohama from San Francisco. When the Navy began inquiring about the overdue Elder on Wednesday, the transport reported sighting the missing ship Monday in no apparent distress 700 miles from its destination—the atomic weapons testing island of Eniwetok.

Confusion On Signals

Lt. Adams said the Brewster passed within two miles and was in sight for an hour and a half but did not heed signals.

"We signalled with flares, international distress flags, smoke signals and mirrors," said Adams.

"We signaled with everything we had aboard except our 3-inch gun. If we'd had ammunition left for that, we would have used it, too."

The ammunition had been jettisoned while fighting the fire, which started at 2 a. m. Friday and was finally extinguished shortly before the Brewster hove into view.

Formerly an Army transport, the Brewster recently was placed under Navy control along with all other transports in the military service. The Brewster has an all-civilian civil service crew.

The Brewster's message Wednesday to the Hawaiian sea frontier said the Elder had failed to respond to visual signals but that the signal officer believed the reflection of the sun may have prevented the Elder seeing them.

Adams said, "The Brewster flashed 'IMI', meaning 'repeat.' Then it flashed a signal we could not read and proceded on its way."

Adams, a 36-year-old veteran of 18 years in the Navy, declined an offer of manpower, saying, "I can manage my own ship with my own men."

Congratulated by Rear Adm. C. H. McMorris, commanding the Hawaiian sea frontier, Adams replied, "I was only one man aboard the ship, my men, all 13 of whom volunteered to stay on and fight the fire, worked tirelessly in extreme heat and flame to save the ship. All aboard did a wonderful job They should all have 30 days leave."

Adams theorized that the fire, which started with an explosion, was due to a faulty diesel injection system recently repaired at Pearl Harbor. Loss of the diesel electric engine knocked out the radio, making a distress call impossible.

The Weather

From Ireland On St. Patricks Day

Six Irish orphans, under the care of Miss Nora O'Sullivan, wait in the lounge at Idlewild airport in New York, March 17, after their arrival from Dublin by air. The orphans, wearing shamrocks and harp-shaped pins, just happened to arrive on St. Patrick's day, but for the four New York area families who will adopt them, their arrival was well-timed. Regime In Belgium Quits

Liberals Refuse To Back Return Of Leopold

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 18—(AP)—The Belgian government resigned today and thereby postponed King Leopold's chance to return to his throne.

The collapse of the government was caused by the eight liberal ministers, who refused to go along with the nine pro-Leopold Social Christians in calling a joint session of the two houses of parliament to end the regency and invite the 48-year-old monarch to return from exile in Switzerland.

May Bring Elections

One of the possible results may be new general elections.

The king, still in a jam because of his surrender to the Germans after only 18 days of fighting in 1940, will not be able to come back until Belgium has a government which agrees to call parliament into joint session. Parliament must then repeal a law of 1945 which bars Leopold from resuming his constitutional powers without its permission.

Prince Charles, brother of the king and regent since the liberation, began consulting political leaders this afternoon, after which he suspended further consultations until Monday.

In refusing to agree to call a joint session the liberals stood by their pre-plebiscite position that the king must obtain a majority of the votes in the French-speaking south and east (Walloonia) and the Socialist-dominated central Brussels area as well as the Flemish-speaking north and west.

In the advisory plebiscite of last Sunday, in which the people were asked whether they wanted the king back, 57.68 per cent voted "yes." Leopold won 71.09 per cent of the vote in Flanders. But he failed to capture the Walloon provinces where he received only 42.11 per cent, and the Brussels area, where he got only 48.17 per cent.

Harker Home Interior Is Ruined In Fire

Occupants Were Carried To Home Of A Neighbor

Firemen combatted flames for nearly an hour and half at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Harker, 707 West Pettis street, which was ablaze Saturday night at 8:52 o'clock, believed due to an overflow in a coaioil stove in the kitchen.

Damage to the house was estimated at $1,500 while loss to the furnishings was estimated at a thousand dollars. All five rooms of the house were left charred.

The blaze which started on the south side of the house, covered the house in a hurry. The strong north wind did, not keep the flames from spreading northward. When the firemen came upon the scene, the house was in a mass of flames. Neighbors had very little time to carry any household furnishings to the outside.

Mrs. Haymond Harker, an invalid, being completely paralyzed, except in one arm, was carried from her bed by a neighbor to the home of Mrs. Ida Paxton, across the street. Later, Mr. Harker was carried to the Paxton home in a canvas stretcher, rigged up by the firemen. He suffered a light stroke during the time his home was burning.

One line of hose was utilized in fighting the flames. Firemen worked for a brief interval in a downpour of rain.

Eleven Drown As Trawler Rammed

HALIFAX, N. S., March 18—(AP)—The trawler Gertrude De Costa was rammed and sunk early today after a hard luck cruise on the fishing banks and 11 men of her crew of 17 were drowned.

The inter-island steamer Connector, outbound for St. John's, Nfld., collided with the trawler in the darkness off Halifax harbor.

Both vessels are of Canadian registry. The 115-foot trawler was out of Yarmouth, N. S. All the dead were Novo Scotians except one from Grand Bank, Nfld.

Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier announced in Ottawa that an inquiry will be opened at once.

The Gertrude De Costa picked up only a light load of fish on the banks. Fishing has been poor this season. A few days ago a dory upset and one crewman was lost. His dory mate, Morton Tanner, was rescued. Tanner was one of the 11 who died today.

The trawler's skipper, Capt. Haslem Knuckle, also went down with the ship.

Blast And Fire At Statesboro

STATESBORO, Ga., March 18—(AP)—An explosion and fire demolished half a business block early today, leaving three persons injured and damage estimated at $300,000.

Firemen used blow torches, axes and saws to rescue two men trapped in the wreckage. One was in serious condition.

The blast, just at breakfast time rattled houses and shattered windows blocks away.

Fire Chief Hagen said nobody was certain just what caused the explosion, but that he assumed leaking gas exploded when a furniture company employe lit a heater.

"No Fear" By Frank Answers

President Calls For Cooperation Of Citizens In Coming Census

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

KEY WEST, Fla., March 18—(AP)—President Truman acted today to allay fears at home of the approaching census and back up Secretary Acheson's seven-point proposal for ending the cold war with Russia.

Mr. Truman assured all Americans that they need have "no fear" of giving frank answers to confidential questions asked when the taking of the 1950 census starts April 1.

His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, disclosed that the President was consulted in the drafting of Acheson's two California foreign policy talks, was in "hearty accord" with them and telephoned his congratulations to Acheson at Washington last night.

Meanwhile, Clark M. Clifford, former special counsel to the President, joined Mr. Truman at the "Winter White House" a day after disclosure that he has been hired as Washington counsel for Howard Hughes' Trans World Airlines.

Clifford flew down with Fred M. Vinson, chief justice of the United States, and long-time pal of the President's.

Resigns Counsel Post

Clifford resigned his $20,000-a-year post as presidential counsel Jan. 31 to seek greater remuneration as a private attorney.

Ross told questioning reporters there was "no significance in the visit of the chief justice and the former white house lawyer.

"They are coming in to spend a few days," Ross said. "It is no more than a social visit. That has nothing to do with anything but a vacation."

Ross made a point of discussing the President's telephone call to Acheson who this week laid down a seven-point list of requirements for ending the cold war. Each point calling for a major retreat by Soviet Russia.

He called for Russia to stop blocking German, Japanese and Austrian peace treaties, withdraw its military and police power from eastern European satellites, join in a search for real international atomic control and take other steps he thought necessary for the communist and non-communist world to live together.

Signs Proclamation

The President signed the official proclamation that calls for starting the 17th census on April 1.

In it, he said its sole purpose is to secure statistical information regarding the population, its characteristics, its homes and its farms.

There has been criticism of the authority of census takers to ask some individuals questions about their income.

"No person can be harmed in any way by furnishing the information required," the President's ploclamation said. He added information obtained from individuals will not be used for:

1. Purpose of "taxation, investigation, or regulation."
2. In connection with "military or jury service, the compulsion of school attendance."
3. The regulation of immigration.
4. The enforcement of "any national, state or local law or ordinance."

The President said census bureau employes face a heavy penalty should they disclose any answers to confidential questions.

In a "free democracy," the President said, the co-operation with the census takers is a requirement of "good citizenship."

Youth Goes To Sleep At Wheel

Ralph L. Shanahan, 23 years old of 1900 South Quincy avenue went to sleep at the wheel of his 1941 Chevrolet coach about 12:15 o'clock Saturday morning, six and a half miles southeast of Hughesville as he was returning home from his job as a pump station attendant in Houstonia. The Chevrolet apparently veered off the highway, hit a telephone pole and then into a ditch.

Passing motorists, William L. Fisher and Robert Cranfill both of Hughesville vincinity picked up Shanahan at the scene of the mishap and brought him to Bothwell hospital where he was treated for lacerations and a bruised back by Dr. Carl Siegel.

Shanahan said that he was going home from Houstonia, where he works and just dozed off. "It doesn't pay," he added.

Shanahan's car was badly damaged and state trooper Wayne Ailman estimated the damage to be around $250 or $300.

Winter Still Hanging On

Gales Delay Ships As Snow Strikes Northern States

By The Associated Press

Waning winter swung haymakers Saturday at the northeastern seaboard, the southern plains and the midwest.

Gales lashed the Atlantic, delaying inbound ships from one to two days. Heavy snowstorms struck Maine and upper New York state. In the heart of the nation, a third storm, laden with snow and swirling out of the southern plains boiled toward the midwest.

Three deaths attributed to the weather were recorded in upper New York and a fourth in Lawrence, Mass.

Winds up to 40 miles an hour struck New York city's Manhattan borough. LaGuardia Field, in the borough of queens, reported gusts up to 52 miles. Planes, however, continued to operate on schedule.

Two storms hovered over the Atlantic, one moving out to sea from Portland, Me. Another swept northeast over the ocean about 400 miles east of Newfoundland.

Ships scheduled to arrive in New York were reported one to two days late because of wild seas. The craft included the Queen Mary, the Franconia, the Italian liner Conte Biancamano, the Navy troopship General Maurice Rose, and the Holland-American liner Veendam.

Temperatures dropped in the ares from North Carolina to Kansas.

Maine had up to 14 inches of snow. In upstate New York falls up to four and a half inches were reported and two more inches were expected Saturday night.

In the plains states, southwest Kansas had a two inch snow fall that cheered wheat farmers. It was the first appreciable moisture in the region since October. Garden City, Kans., has had only a quarter of a ninch of moisture since Nov. 1.

Another widespread area of snow extended from western Kansas and eastern Colorado across western Nebraska to the western Dakotas and parts of Montana and Wyoming. Rapid City, S. D., has had nine inches of snow since Friday.

Heavy snowfalls were expected in northern Illinois and Indiana late Saturday night and Sunday.

In an experimental monthly forecast, Jerome Mamias, chief of the weather bureau's extended forecast section at Washington, predicted 30 more days of unusual cold for the eastern two-thirds of the country.

Mamias' long-range forecast was for about normal weather in the western third of the country. He expected rainfall heavier than usual for the south-central, southeastern, and northwestern sections of the country and about normal elsewhere.

Millions Must Answer In The Greatest Quiz Program

By Charles Molony

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—The greatest quiz program in history—the 1950 census—starts April 1 for a two-week run in the cities and three or four weeks in rural areas.

It will give an estimated 151,000,000, people in this country (and perhaps 4,000,000 more in U. S. territories and possessions) a once-in-ten-years chance to tell the government about themselves in the interests of prosperity and posterity.

To insure that they do, 140,000 question-primed census counters figure to ring 40,000,000 doorbells, knock on auto-trailer doors, board houseboats, make dog-sled visits to Alaskan igloos—and what-ever else is necessary.

For farmers, the big quiz starts a bit earlier—by mail.

Postal carriers in most farming sectors will begin next Wednesday a five-day delivery of the special agriculture census questionnaires.

The farmer is to write down what crops he raises, farm equipment he owns and so on, then turn in his answers when the census men come around in April with the population and housing questions to be asked farmers and city folk alike.

Penalties Provided

Anyone who refuses to answer could be fined $500 and jailed for 60 days. (Census takers who tattle what they're told can get $1,000 fines and two years in jail).

But census bureau officials don't expect trouble. Most people, they've found, are willing to talk about themselves. They are glad to cooperate for census purposes, at least once a decade. The census has been taken every 10 years since 1790.

The government wants to know your name, address, age, sex, race, martial status, occupation, working hours, income, whether you own your home, what bathing and toilet facilities it has, and so on. Even the kitchen sink gets into it—question: Do you have one?

Nobody will have to answer all the questions about population, housing or agriculture, and some needn't answer any: Mama or papa can speak for everyone in the family if they know the needed information.

There are no fixed hours for the census takers' daily rounds, but you can count on early-hour starts and late-hour finishes.

The counters, or "enumerators" as they're known officially, get paid on a piece-work basis, and the sooner they complete the count in their area the faster they've earned their money.

Move To Recapture Offensive

Acheson To Map New Campaign In The Cold War With Russians

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Dean Acheson returns to his state department desk tomorrow to map a new campaign to recapture the cold war offensive from Russia.

This may be the roughest and most critical stage of the world power struggle, certainly it poses for Acheson personally the most important task of his career.

Yet some of his aides, and many more remote observers, feel Acheson is undertaking this task against strong odds, with only one free hand—the other being occupied in fending off his critics. They also concede that much of the criticism is Acheson's own fault.

For whatever reasons, bi-partisan conduct of foreign policy has virtually ceased to exist since he became secretary of state 14 months ago: he has minimized his contacts with the public; he has permitted congressmen to think him high-hat.

Victory to Advisers

This week those Acheson advisers who have been telling him he ought to scout around the country and talk about his foreign policy won a victory. Acheson flew to California and made two major addresses. Other talks can be expected; Acheson will see less of the ivory tower and more of Main street.

The gist of his argument will be that the United States should do all it feasibly can to build up strength—economic, political and military—in non-communist areas of the world. He is convinced that this is the best way to win the cold war and avoid world war III.

As for his relations with congress, Senators report he is planning a meeting with congressional leaders next week to enlist support for a new administration policy in the Far East. He indicated in California that the United States may give limited economic and military aid to southeast Asian countries for halting the expansion of communism.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif), long a critic of administration Far East policy, said that in the California speeches Acheson laid the foundation for an effective policy. But Knowland said the secretary was still making a mistake in ignoring the Chinese Nationalists.

Beset by Some Critics

As Acheson gets back to his Washington labors after his western trip, he is beset by the following forces:

1. Those who charge he has been too friendly with communists or communist ideas. For example, there is Senator McCarthy's claim that the state department is riddled with Reds.

2. Those who contend he should right communism abroad more actively, while it has been denied on all sides, there is evidence that the real fight here is between Acheson and Secretary of Defense Johnson. Johnson reportedly sought more dynamic ac-

Twenty Years Term To Abel

U. S. Court Martial Convicts Him In Kidnaping Case

By G. K. Hodenfield

SALZBURG, Austria, March 18—(AP)—A 12-man U. S. army court martial sentenced two military policemen Friday to long prison terms for kidnaping a Romanian-born Austrian and delivering him to Soviet agents for a total of $560.

Cpl. Paul Abel of Bolivar, Mo., was sentenced to 20 years at hard labor and Sgt. John Frankey of New York City to 15 years.

Both also were ordered dishonorably discharged from the Army and to forfeit all pay and allowances.

The court deliberated for two hours and 10 minutes. The conviction and sentences were announced by Col. M. Tharr of San Antonio, Tex., president of the court.

The corporal and sergeant stood rigidly at attention and heard the sentences without show of emotion.

They were found guilty of abducting Oswald Eder and handing him over to the Russians last Nov. 11. The prosecution described Eder as a mysterious former soldier in the German army who has been suspected by several nations of spying.

Written Confessions

Both were convicted of common law kidnaping, false imprisonment, and illegal use of an army jeep. Abel was also convicted of stealing an army radio transmitter. The court dismissed a charge of communicating with a foreign power (Russia).

Written confessions that Abel and Frankey gave to army agents last month were entered in evidence.

They told how Abel was asked to kidnap Eder, who was wanted by the Russians supposedly as an army deserter. The confessions said Abel persuaded Frankey to help him. Eder was picked up in an army jeep at is home in the British sector of Vienna and taken to a rendezvous in the Russian zone, where five Soviet agents handcuffed him and drove away in another vehicle.

Abel and Frankey said they were paid 7,000 schillings (about $280) for the actual kidnaping and had also received another 7,000 schillings from the Russians.

The sentences are subject to review, first by Lt. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes, U. S. high commissioner in Austria, and then by the judge advocate general's office in Washington.

Pushes 'Barrow' Up Pike's Peak

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., March 18—(AP)—Larry Hightower, self styled world's champion wheelbarrow pusher, and his Irish buggy were guests of honor at a St. Patrick's Day ball Friday night.

The 49-year-old Ellensburg, Wash., man pushed his "barrow to the top of Pikes Peak Wednesday and made the return trip down the 14,110 foot mountain in a day.

He said he planned to rest here a few days before heading west—probably to Hawaii and the South Seas.

Should King Leopold Come Home? Question Splits Belgium Wide Open

LEOPOLD AND WIFE: In his native land, no middle ground.

By NEA Foreign Service

BRUSSELS—(NEA)— Belgium is split wide open—politically, geographically and sentimentally—on the question of whether or not King Leopold should be asked to return to his native land, his palace and his throne.

Leopold is still King of the Belgians in name, but since 1944 his brother, Prince Charles, has ruled as regent. It was Leopold's wartime behavior, when he surrendered the army to the Nazis after 18 days of fighting and later was accused of collaboration, that first barred his return.

* * *

Now there are other factors that opponents of Leopold are using as arguments. They say, for example, that his second marriage is illegal, that he exhibited definite pro-Nazi tendencies, and that his commoner wife is going back on her word that she never wanted to be queen.

Those who favor his return have but one argument, but it is a big one. He is the King, they say, and his place is on the throne in Brussels. The pro-Leopold faction bases all its appeals on the 120-year-old royal tradition.

The largest political party in Belgium, the Parti Social Chretien, or Catholic Party, is officially for his return. The next most important party, the Socialists, is officially against. The Liberal Party, the only other major one, is divided. The small but vocal Communist Party, of course, is violently opposed to Leopold's return.

* * *

Geographically, too, Belgium is divided on the question. The agricultural north, home of the Flemish, is pro-Leopold, while the Walloons, who live in the industrial south, are mostly anti-Leopold.

King Leopold himself is supposed to have said he will not come back, no matter what the Parliament does, unless he receives a commanding majority.

* * *

Leopold's second marriage, during the war, to Mlle. Mary Lelia Baels is one of the sore spots with the anti-returners. For one thing, her brother is considered something of a deserter, since he remained in a neutral country during the war and didn't enlist. And her father, too, had an unsavory war record.

For another, he flouted Belgian law by being first married in a religious ceremony, while the law insists a civil ceremony be held first.

When they married, Princess de Rethy, as she is now known, said she didn't ever want to be queen. But the Belgian Constitution insists that the King's wife is his Queen. If they return, she will be the queen, despite her previous assertions that theirs was a morganatic marriage.

There is no middle ground—only "fors" and "againsts." And in the words of one expert Belgian observer, "no matter what happens, it will be dangerous. The voting could divide the country for years."

Explosion And Fires Kill 15

By The Associated Press

Fifteen persons perished yesterday (Friday) in an explosion and a series of fires in scattered sections of the nation.

A mattress that burst into flames snuffed out the lives of six prisoners—five men and a woman—in the jail at Spray, N. C. Three were white persons and three Negroes. They had been charged with public drunkenness.

Police said there was a possibiltiy one of the six deliberately set fire to the mattress.

At Port Huron, Mich., a savage fire destroyed a concrete block home and wiped out a family of six. Dead were Kenneth Chase, 42; his wife, Phyllis, 32, an expectant mother; and their four children.

An explosion ripped through a small building at Picatinny arsenal in Dover, N. J., killing two men. The victims, identified as James E. Doyle, 50, of Dover, and Daniel H. Costello, 33, of Rockaway, were along in the building.

The building, used for blending and screening rocket powder, was demolished. Three other men, working nearby, were injured slightly.

Cause of the blast was not immediately determined.

Two-year-old Mary Nault of Manchester, N. H., died in a fire that swept the tenement home of her family.

Three other members of the child's family, including her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Nault, were injured. The fire followed an explosion of a stove oil tank.

Time Out To Sell Car On Way To Jail

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 18—(AP)—Although state highway patrolmen arrested Herman Lee Goad, Plattsburg, Mo., he had to agree they were accomodating.

They arrested him on a charge of careless and reckless driving whereupon Goad expressed this desire:

"I'd sure like to sell this car before I go to jail."

So enroute to jail here they stopped at a junk yard and stood by while he haggled over a price for the 1930 truck.

Goad finally sold the car for $20 and then went to jail to await appearance in magistrate court.

Mutilated Body In Two Bundles

CHICAGO, March 18—(AP)—Carpenters found two "bundles" in a snow-flecked ditch Friday that turned out to be the severed sections of a man clubbed, shot and cut in two.

Sheriff's police reported Friday night relatives identified the body as that of George Willis Baldwin, 54, of Terre Haute, Ind. Baldwin, the operator of a one-man window washing service, had been missing since Monday. He usually carried large sums of money.

The killing and mutilation appeared to be one of the most brutal in the city's history.

The victim's hands were bound in front with rope. A bullet had passed through his chest. There was a bruise on the head, indicating he had been blackjacked. The body was severed above the waist.

The upper part of the body was bundled up in a quilt that was tied over the head with ropes and wires. The belt on the lower half of the body was pulled so tight the trousers were closed, sack-like.

Police theorized the victim had been slugged and shot and that his body had been severed with a cleaver or a bolo knife and then brought to the place where the remains were found.

Sergeant William Jansma said an earlier theory that the body had been placed on the Illinois Central railroad tracks and cut in two by a train had been discarded. The tracks are a block and a half from the scene.

Sergeant Jansma said the body will be taken to Terre Haute and that Terre Haute police have been called into the investigation. Terre Haute is 177 miles south of Chicago.

Detectives Joseph Karns and Walter McCarthy said the victim's Navy blue belt bore the stenciled name T. J. Grob. A card in the pocket read, "Willis window cleaning service, fully insured, 218 Tune building, phone C-3760."

There is a Tune building in Terre Haute, where Baldwin operated the William window cleaning service. The Terre Haute phone Crawford 3760 is held by Mrs. Fred Wilkie, operator of a rooming house where Baldwin resided. The Rev. T. J. Grob operates good will industries in Terre Haute. Evelo said Baldwin may have brought the belt from that organization.

Shirtwaists Get Dramatic Treatment

By Kay Sherwood
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The light, soft silhouette of the sheer shirtwaist dress takes on more interest when the fabric used is given crisp handling or printed in unusual patterned effects.

Gossamer silk chiffon, for example, is stiffened by a lining of silk organza to define the silhouette of one trend-setting dress designed by Christian Dior. This two-piece dress has a skirt that follows the straight and narrow line to point up the casual, bloused shirtwaist top with full sleeves which are tightly cuffed above the wrists. Rose chiffon printed with black squares is backed by rose organza. Narrow black piping outlines the pointed collar and front closing as well as breast pockets and the tight cuffs. Cinching in the fullness of the top is a black calfskin belt.

One of the most unusual patterns shown in chiffon is a tweedy print which peps up styling details for another afternoon shirt waist sheer. Two layers of chiffon are used here. Beneath the floating, full skirted dress is a gray silk slip covered with another layer of the chiffon. Raspberry chiffon printed in the same tweed pattern is crushed into a sash. One end of the sash is left free to ripple down the skirt front. A black leather belt worn over the sash provides the sharp contrast needed to accent the misty layers of chiffon.

'Blackout' Before Coed Found Dead

IOWA CITY, Ia., March 18—(AP)—A police officer testified Friday that Robert E. Bednasek said he was playing a "game of blackout" shortly before a beautiful blond coed was found dead.

The officer was one of five witnesses called Friday as the state started introducing testimony in the murder trial of the 24-year-old University of Iowa psychology student. "Blackout" is a stunt in which unconsciousness is produced by holding the breath and squeezing the neck.

Bednasek is accused of choking to death pretty Margaret. (Gee-Gee) Jackson, 20, a psychology student who had been dating and was once "pinned" by Bednasek. Her body was found in a rooming house where he lived.

Earlier, in an opening statement, the defense told the court that Bednasek through treatment with the drug pentathol at University hospitals psychopathic ward could now remember what happened that fatal early morning of Dec. 11.

The defense said that until his treatment, the defendant could not recall what happened after he had playfully placed his hands on Miss Jackson's throat to show the proper way to choke a person.

Refuse Answer To McCarthy

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Citing a Presidential order, the Civil Service Loyalty Review Board tonight refused to answer questions by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) about the case of diplomat John S. Service.

Seth W. Richardson, the board chairman, wrote McCarthy that if he wishes to pursue the matter further he should take it up with President Truman.

McCarthy has charged that Service, foreign service officer assigned to India, is pro-communist and that the State Department has ordered "a complete and thorough whitewash" of his case. The department called McCarthy's charges "dead and discredited."

Service has been ordered back from India to testify personally before the department's loyalty board.

This was recommended by the Civil Service review board and today Chairman Richardson announced he was investigating to find out how McCarthy learned about the review board's recommendation before it was made public.

McCarthy sprang his information last Tuesday to a senate committee which is hearing his charges that the state department is riddled with communist sympathizers.

Earlier this week, in a letter to Richardson, McCarthy asked the board to answer four questions dealing with the review of Service's loyalty record.

Richardson, in his reply today, answered one of the questions and said regarding the others:

"I regret that the all-inclusive terms of the directive of the President under the date of March 13, 1948, in my opinion prevents me from disclosing to anyone not connected with the operation of the program, the contents of any report, record or file relative to the loyalty of employes. I think your questions 1, 3 and 4 fall within the language of the President's order."

PACIFIC LEADER— Vice Admiral Calvin T. Durgin (above), 57, has been named by President Truman as commander of the First Fleet, main naval force in the Pacific Ocean.

Ignore Proposed Chat By 'Phone

KEY WEST, Fla., March 18—(AP)—President Truman today ignored the New York Duncan-Paris American Legion Post's attempt to arrange a long distance telephone call between him and Premier Stalin.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters a member of the Duncan-Paris post made an effort to put through a call from New York at 1:30 p. m. (EST).

The caller, Ross said, was informed no one cared to take the call and to please discontinue efforts to put it through.

He told a news conference yesterday that the President would ignore the proposed telephone peace talk after American Legion headquarters denounced the Duncan-Paris post as "discredited."

Warning Given On Expulsions

PRAGUE, March 18—(AP)—The U. S. embassy warned all American citizens living in Czechoslovakia today they are subject to expulsion at a moment's notice and may be held incommunicado for a long time if arrested.

The embassy issued its warning in a circular letter mailed to all registered American citizens setting down "the facts of life" about the position of foreigners in this Communist-run state.

The letter apparently prompted by recent arrests of westerners in Russian dominated areas and more specifically by the growing number of expulsions here.

The exact number of Americans still in Czechoslovakia could not be determined since some are not registered with the consulate.

tion on Formosa late last year when it looked as if that island might fall quickly to Chinese communists. Washington is periodically filled with reports of a Johnson-Acheson feud.

3. Those who contend that he should favor some dramatic new approach to Russia for atomic weapons controls and world disarmament. Both Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), chairman of the joint atomic energy committee, and Senator Tydings (D-Md), chairman of the senate armed services committe, advocated spectacular moves, which would have forced a showdown with the Russians, Acheson vetoed them. To that extent he broke with McMahon and Tydings on basic policy.

4. Those who don't like Acheson's manner and are alienated by what they consider his occasional air of superiority. His friends—among them Mr. Truman—know him as a warm-hearted, story-telling companion who can be brilliantly charming—but that side of his character has not dominated his relations with congress.

5. Those who held Acheson responsible for the failure of the United States to keep China from going communist. Men like Rep. Judd (R-Minn) have been bitterly outspoken in their criticisms of the state department since Acheson took office. He has in fact had the job of liquidating the China failure and has borne the weight of such public disapproval as there has been for the whole affair.

Acheson himself had done things which aggravated his difficulties. A case in point was his statement that he would not "turn his back" on Alger Hiss, who was convicted of perjury for saying he had engaged in no communist espionage. Acheson's statement was so widely interpreted by his critics as a defense of the acts of which Hiss was accused that Acheson finally had to explain publicly that he meant only to express compassion for a friend in trouble.

Against his handcaps and difficulties Acheson has assets and points of strength. He is accounted by many the most brilliant man in the executive branch of the government; an expert of 10 years experience in foreign policy; a diplomat with a lawyer's skill in dealing with essential facts; a leader who supports his staff—and it has many top-notch men—to the limit.

Acheson's problems may be solved by his skills. But in the weeks just ahead, he is likely to make some new enemies—by trying to widen American markets for foreign goods.

Soviet Zone East Mark In Drop

BERLIN, March 18—(AP)—The Soviet zone's East mark plummeted in value to little more than two cents today. The collapse paralyzed trade in the Russian sector of Berlin.

Merchants held onto their goods rather than accept a currency which had gone down 30 per cent in 24 hours.

Rumors that the Russians would make their revalued ruble the monetary basis in the Soviet satellities, including east Germany touched off the panic. A denial by the East German bank of Emission failed to brake the slide.

The situation dramatized Germans' faith in the West Mark, which is backed by a European recovery and the reputation of the American dollar. It is worth 23.8 cents.

Fifty-two money exchange officers, where Berliners trade East marks for West marks and vice versa, were thronged with long lines of persons, trying to unload every east mark in their possession.

The exchange offices refused to handle any big amounts. They did business only with the small customers. They said they did not have enough West marks on hand to meet the demand.

The offices closed at noon—the usual hour on Saturday—with the official rate pegged at nine East marks to one West mark. The usually realistic black market hit ten to one. Banks indicated new official rates are a virtual certainty when business is resumed Monday.

Posse Captures Robber Suspect

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 18—(AP)—A posse, summoned on a rural party telephone line, captured a youth just 30 minutes after an elderly woman was robbed at her farm home southeast of here today.

State Highway Patrolman R. W. Dreher and W. W. Wood identified the youth as Lawrence Pasley, 22, of St. Joseph, recently released from the state reformatory.

The officers said Parsley admitted stealing a car here this morning and robbing Mrs. Frances Walkup, 85, of $3 or $4.

Mrs. Walkup said a man wearing a handkerchief entered her home and forced her into the living room where he took the money from her purse. Her son, Clarence Walkup, came in and grappled with the man, but the robber fled, leaving the stolen car in the yard.

The Walkups gave an alarm on the party telephone line. Six neighbors, armed with rifles and shotguns, hurried across fields and intercepted the fleeing man.

Parsley is being held in the county jail here for investigation. No charges have been filed against him.

Picked On Wrong Player To Lecture

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 18—(AP)—Branch Rickey picked on the wrong player to lecture today.

Watching one of his pitchers work out in the morning, the Brooklyn Dodger president pulled the youth aside and began a lecture on the finer points of the hurling art. Warming up to his subject, Rickey drew a few diagrams.

The pitcher looked uncomfortable, although he said nothing. Finally, one of Rickey's aides drew the chief aside and explained:

"That's Vincente Lopez, the kid from Havana. Can't understand a word of English."

The two schools have played 13 games together. Pitt won 10 of the tilts including the last which was in 1942.

Mrs. Thorpe Is After The Money

By Ted Meier

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—Jim Thorpe, named the greatest male athlete of the half-century in the recent Associated Press poll, is going to make $1,000,000.

You doubt it? Not if you would listen to Patricia Gladys Evelyn Woodbury Thorpe.

The vivacious Patricia told of her plans at the Manhattan hotel where she and her famous husband were staying.

"Jim is the greatest athlete in the world," she said. "But he needs someone to talk for him and see that he gets what is coming to him."

"From now on I'm doing the talking."

Big Jim, now in his 60's, but looking much younger, sat back and smiled at his dynamic wife.

"The other day," she went on. "Jim got a call from a person he has known for years. He wanted Jim to come to his town and tell some of his experiences. Jim said he would be glad to do it, then I got on the phone.

"I asked how much they planned to pay Jim. The reply was 'all expenses, of course.'

"I said Jim's fee will be $500 and expenses and that it was as low as that only because of Jim's friendship for him.

"Anyone who now wants Jim Thorpe to give a talk will have to meet a $1,000 fee and expenses. He's worth every penny."

Mrs. Thorpe also said plans are underway for a movie of Jim's career

Big Jim, who had plenty of downs in a career that has assumed legendary proportions, smiled again.

St. Louis Browns Beat Giants 9-8

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 18—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns made it two in a row over the New York Giants today, dropping the National League club 9 to 8.

St. Louis forced the Giants to use five hurlers in attempting to stem the tide, but got most of its help from poor New York field work.

Bobby Thomson let a ball roll through his legs and Jack Harshman played a scratch hit badly, allowing a St. Louis score in the fifth.

Clint Hartung started for New York, but yielded to Sal Maglie after giving up four runs in the second. Maglie strengthened his hold on a regular berth by giving up only one run in the next three frames.

Wes Westrum slammed a two-run homer in the second, and his Giant teammates pushed over three more on a four hit blasting of Cliff Fannin in the third.

Dick Adair, rookie hurler, yielded four runs, which iced the game for the Browns.

Ohio Buckeyes Beat DePaul In Basketball

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—(AP)—Ohio State's battling buckeyes, warming up for the N.C.A.A. tournament, tonight defeated DePaul 70 to 63 to take the rubber game in their third basketball meeting of the season. Ohio State led at half-time 40-33.

The Bucks take on City College of New York next Thursday in Madison Square Garden in the first game on the N.C.A.A. program.

The Chicago team topped Ohio State here 70-68 in December, in O.S.U.'s opener, but the buckeyes came back in January to take DePaul 70 to 62 in a game played in Chicago.

CCNY Beats Bradley For NIT Title

St. John's Over Duquesne For The Consolation Honors

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—The sizzling sophomores from CCNY staged a brilliant second half comeback tonight to defeat favored Bradley and capture the 13th National Invitational Basketball tournament, 69-61.

Thus CCNY, like San Francisco last year and West Virginia and Utah before that, wrote a Cinderella finish to the Madison Square Garden event that first staged in 1938.

It was the first NIT championship for the CCNY Beavers, and the fifth failure for Bradley—rated the nation's No. 1 team this season—to come through in this event.

Jittery and outplayed in the first half, Nat Holman's inspired Beavers came back with a rush to add the top-seeded Braves of Peoria, Ill., to their impressive list of tournament scalps.

Irwin Dambrot stoked the furnace for unseeded "dark horses" who were given a chance against the star-studded field that began firing exactly a week ago.

Only senior in the starting lineup, Dambrot tossed in 23 points, breaking Bradley's heart with an uncanny push shot from the keyhole area.

First Game

Bob Zawoluk, 6-6 center, hooked in a one-hander with five seconds left tonight to give St. John's of Brooklyn a 69-67 overtime victory over Duquesne in the consolation game of the National Invitation Basketball tournament.

The game, a prelude to the championship tussle between Bradley and CCNY was tied at the end of the regulation playing period, 62-all.

A crowd of 18,000 jamming Madison Square Garden for the windup of the thirteenth NIT event, saw the closest finish of the tournament. St. John's held a 36-35 advantage at halftime. The clubs were never far apart from start to finish.

10-Yard Victory For Don Gehrman

CHICAGO, March 18 — (AP) — Wisconsin's Don Gehrman ran away from G-Man Fred Wilt for a 10-yard victory in a Bankers Mile 're-match" of their famed Wanamaker mile deadlock before a record 17,683 at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

Gehrmann's time was 4:09.5, compared with the 4:09.3 Wanamaker time.

Gehrmann's unprecedented third straight Bankers' triumph came on a masterful-paced race. The spindly badger overtook Wilt at the beginning of the final turn and poured on a stretch kick the former Indiana star could not match.

Midway in the final turn, Gehrmann went flying past Wilt and with every stride in the spring to the tape Wilt faded further behind.

Villanova's John Joe Barry, the Tipperary trotter, set the middle pace, once leading by six yards, but wound up third, ahead of the fourth and last entry, Ohio State's Len Truex.

NEW YORK, March 19—(AP)—There is a great and growing religious revival in America.

Significantly, it is spreading widely among the youth of our post-war generation, the generation that is usually a prety to doubt, disillusion and syniscism.

Recently I received a letter from one of these young people—Miss Josephine Owens of West Helena, Ark.—that told of the happiness her awakened faith had brought her.

Her letter was simply written, artlessly sincere, fervent with a desire to help others. She said I could give her letter a wider audience if I wanted to, "because it is so important that people wake up."

Lenten Sermon

And so I will. Here is one girl's Lenten sermon—an old message from a young and zealous heart:

"Oh, if I could get everyone to become a Christian, what a blessing it would be—for them!

"I used to worry continually about money matters, then hydrogen bomb, etc. Now those things aren't important to all. Only God is important in my life. I only want to live so that I can serve him. He will keep me from harm—and also anyone else who will believe in him and trust and have faith.

"God has made me a 'fisher of men.' My purpose now is to win others for him. But people are hard. They don't want to know about God. But once they do, then they see what they have been missing.

Take Things for Granted

"God does many things for men which they take for granted. Think of the air, the sun and rain, the clothes we wear, the food we eat—and so many, many other things. God makes all these possible, but people take them for granted. If they don't get them they raise all kinds of cain about the Senators, the President and the Governors—when, if it weren't for God's good hand, these things would never even be.

"Think how wonderful he has been to America! We don't have a wartorn country like Europe and Asia. We have just about every possible comfort and joy, and yet we turn our backs on the Saviour.

"You say it is difficult to be a Christian? Well, dear people, once the loving Savious has truly touched your hearts, you won't want to do wrong. You will only want to do the Lord's will.

Christ Most Important

"The other day I asked a poor, crippled Negro man who was begging on the street, 'are you a Christian?' And he replied, 'ye'm, for 40 years.' Just think, that pour soul, crippled and having to beg for a living, giving 40 years to Christ!

"Once people know Christ they never want to leave him. There is so much he can do for you—if you will only let him. He is more important than anything or anybody. And the sooner people find this out, the better off they will be.

"Oh, dear people, wake up! Know and accept Christ as your Saviour. Give your heart to him. Serve him and he will truly bless you. Repent of your sins. Confess your sins, believe in him, obey his will, and you will receive a greater joy than any you have ever known."

Japanese Canaries With Truman Family

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP) Two Japanese canaries are making themselves at home with the Truman family in the Blair house.

They recently won a contest staged for bird fanciers of Kyushu Island and were given to the Trumans by a bird club of Dukuoka. They made the trip from Japan by airplane.

White House staffers say they warble just like American canaries. If mates, they porbably will be called "Harry" and "Bess."

D. W. Hodkin Fatally Injured As Cars Collide

KANSAS CITY, March 18—(AP)—Denzel W. Hodkin, 32, Webb City, Mo., was injured fatally Friday in a head-on collision of two cars on U. S. highway 71 in southern Platte county.

He died in an ambulance en route to Kansas City.

Mrs. Rosa M. Wells, 49, Kansas City, and Ernest Wesley Sears, 60, Kansas City, Kas., occupants of the other car, were injured.

Hodkin, employed at setting up window displays, had been working out of St. Joseph, Mo., recently.

Gen. Fairchild Dies At Ft. Myer

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Gen. Muir S. Fairchild, 55 vice chief of staff of the United States Air Force, died unexpectedly Friday night of a heart attack while at his quarters at nearby Fort Myer, Va.

Gen. Fairchild was a native of Bellingham, Washington.

He entered the service as a second lieutenant in the aviation section of the signal officers reserve corps in 1918. He reached the rank of major general in 1942.

During the First World War he served in Italy and later on the French front with the French Air Forces.

Gen. Fairchild was pilot on a goodwill flight by U. S. planes around South America in 1926-1927.

He held a number of decorations, including the distinguished flying cross and the croix de guerre.

Gen. Fairchild became a four star general upon his appointment as vice chief of staff on March 27, 1948.

Mrs. Fairchild was with her husband when he was fatally stricken about 9:15 p. m. EST tonight.

Two weeks ago the general had undergone a thorough check at the Hot Springs, Ark., Army and Navy hospital and had been reported in good condition, Air Force officials said.

Americans ate an everage of 80 pounds of beef, 70 pounds of pork and six of lamb and mutton in 1948.

GIRL SCOUTS

Brownie

The annual Tea, commerorating the Birthday of Girl Scouting in the United States was held at the Elks Club Saturday afternoon, from two o'clock until five o'clock. Girl Scouts, Brownie, Intermediate and Senior Scouts, with their leaders, troops from all parts of town were guests of the Sedalia Council of Girl Scouts, during the afternoon.

The Juliette Low representatives from each troop presented the troops donation to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund.

This function has two purposes: To keep alive the memory of the Founder of Girl Scouting in the United States and to assist in the promotion of Girl Scouting and Girl Guiding throughout the world as the movement's contribution to world peace and good will. To carry out this second purpose, contributions are raised for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. The world friendship work gives real meaning to the fourth Girl Scout Law, "A Girl Scout is a friend to all and a sister to every other Girl Scout," and reflects our country's growing awareness to its international responsibilities. Mrs. Philip McLaughlin and Mrs. J. M. Bailey were co-chairman of the Tea. The Leaders and Girl Scouts from Broadway and Whittier, arranged the decorations for the Tea.

FINGERPRINTS Don't Lie

By Rupert Hughes

Copyright 1950 by Rupert Hughes
Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Refusing to believe that fingerprint evidence is conclusive that her fiance Paul Moody killed her father, Azalea Palmer has engaged private detective Martin Queripel to investigate the case. After Azalea tells her story to the detective, she makes a few careless comments on the police investigation which at once arouses Queripel's interest.

• • •

XVIII

WHEN a weary twig of a tree released its fruit and let an apple thump to the ground at the feet of Sir Isaac Newton, it sent his mind along a path which led to the discovery of the law of gravity. It was thus that Azalea Palmer's next words gave the detective Martin Queripel what his French ancestors called "furiously to think."

Yet Azalea laughed more with scorn than humor when she said:

"What's to prevent that fingerprint man from saying that he found those fingerprints of mine on the telephone, and then accusing me of murdering my own father? It wouldn't be any more ridiculous than accusing Paul of it."

The young lawyer, Harley Kenyon looked at Queripel and smiled at Azalea's quaint notion; but Queripel's intense meditation changed to a look of startled wonder when Azalea added lightly:

"Why, didn't that very fingerprint man, when he finished with us and was leaving the room—didn't he call out to somebody in the room where my father's body was lying—didn't the fingerprint man shout at somebody: "Kelso, I told you to keep away from that telephone!"

Queripel winced as if struck, and said:

"You didn't tell me that before!"

"I never thought of it till just now when we were talking of that fingerprint man. Is it important?"

"It might be," said Queripel, not daring to tell her, hardly daring to imagine how important it might be.

To confuse the confusion—and it is out of confusion that order arises—Timothy O'Hea blundered in.

"Is it 'Kelso'—the man's name you're just after mentionin', Miss?"

"Kelso," she assented. "He was all over the place. He came in later and told Detective Fleming about how he'd found out that certain people had seen Paul go into the house, and force his way through the door in spite of my father's trying to keep him out. It was Kelso who was sent to arrest Paul. If you could have seen his ugly face light up when he got word to go arrest Paul at his studio! And Kelso took along the fingerprint man, who had sworn at him for touching that fatal telephone the murderer used to kill my father."

O'Hea interposed. "That Kelso is as bad as they make 'em. When the big blow-up comes in the police department, he'll be one of the first and worst. He's one of the vice squad graduates. And he goes about with a woman as bad as he is—Nelda Croft, she calls herself."

AT the mention of that name, Azalea flung up her head and seemed to be listening. And she was listening—to her memory.

"Nelda Croft?" she 'hought aloud. "I remember hearing the name when my father was talking to the butler once. The butler said, 'You're wanted on the telephone, sir, by Miss—Miss Croft.' I was in another room but I couldn't help hearing my father say: 'Remember this. I'm never at home—never! when you get a call from that blackmailing—'" She paused.

When Queripel and Kenyon and O'Hea exchanged glances now, it was almost as if their eyes were billiard balls caroming off one another for an important shot.

They had no theories as yet, but dancing about in their brains were the glittering elements of which theory is made.

There was so long a silence that Azalea rose and said:

"I've taken too much of your time. I'd better leave you a chance to use your brains. Could I ask what's the first thing you plan to do?"

• • •

QUERIPEL answered for Kenyon: "I imagine that the first thing for your lawyer to do will be to get himself accepted and recorded as Paul Moody's lawyer. He'll have to see Paul, of course, and get his consent to our working for him."

"Tell him it was my wish, and the only thing that will make me happy. I couldn't be happy while he is in danger. Tell him it is the only thing that will save me from despair. Shall I write it?"

"If he won't take our word," said Queripel, "I'll ask you to do just that. But I think we can make him listen to reason. Once we have his permission, I think that, while Kenyon here is mapping out the legal steps he has to take, I'll go over and see that fingerprint man in the Crime Laboratory, and look into his collection. I'll ask him about this man Kelso. I still believe that fingerprints don't lie. But it's just possible that they might be misquoted."

Azalea put out her hand to Queripel across the desk and he clasped it in both of his. It was like steel in velvet. She gave her hand to Kenyon, and he barely saved himself from bending over to kiss it. When she put out her hand to O'Hea, he stared at it in surprise and handled it as if it were a little bird. He fell over his feet as he rushed to the door to open it for her.

St. Patrick's Day Tea At J. Lamy Home

A St. Patrick's day tea was given Friday afternoon by the Council of Sedalia Garden clubs, at the home of Mrs. John E. Lamy, 814 West Fourth street, from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock.

Guests were members of the nine garden clubs and were received by Mrs. Lamy, hostess, Mrs. Oscar DeWolf, president of the council, Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, Mrs. Herbert Seifert, Mrs. J. C. Saunders, Mrs. F. M. Nicholas, Mrs. A. B. Potts, Mrs. H. L. Netherton, Mrs. Leonard Williams, Mrs. R. S. Haggard, Mrs. E. C. Cline, Mrs. Paul Read, Mrs. E. C. Martin and Mrs. Nathan Jones.

Huckleberry was used effectively in decorating the home. In the dining room the large round table was covered with an imported linen cloth, with a deep lace design around the edge. The center of the cloth was also lace and between was a wide band of exquisite cutwork. The table and cloth both had been given Mrs. Lamy by her grandmother, the late Mrs. C. E. Messerly, and the cloth had been made especially for the table. The table was centered with an arrangement of white snapdragons, white iris and fern in a silver bowl around which were tall lighted tapers in silver candelabra forming a V shape. In front of the flowers was a large punch bowl filled with lime punch. Carrying out the St. Patrick color scheme were tea cakes decorated in green and green mints. On the buffet huckleberry was used in tall silver vases.

Presiding at the punch bowl were Miss Lucy Bothwell, Mrs. Gilbert Jones, Mrs. W. J. Frost, Mrs. Carrie Hieronymus, Mrs. W. W. Murphy, Mrs. D. W. Heckart, and Mrs. Winston Ream.

Mrs. Frank Coffman was in charge of the dining room and was assisted by Mrs. C. H. Joy, Mrs Roy I. Coplen, Mrs. G. W. Walk and Mrs. Al Schreiner.

Music for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. J. W. Maunders and Mrs. Dan Robinson presided over the guest book.

Arrangements for the tea were made by Mrs. L. H. Hodges, chairman of the social committee and Mrs. Carrie Hieronymus, chairman of the program committee.

The tea was attended by about one hundred garden club members.

Mo-Pac Women to Have Tea Monday Night

The Missouri Pacific Women's club will have a membership tea in the women's lounge of the Elks home Monday night, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

All women members of all Missouri Pacific employes are invited.

Women Plan to Coordinate Activities

Plans for co-ordinating the activities of the various Missouri Pacific Women's clubs were a principal topic of discussion at the annual conference of Missouri Pacific Women's Club presidents which was held at Monroe, La., March 13 and 14, according to Mrs. Frank Hanigan, who represented the Missouri Pacific Women's club of Sedalia at the conference.

"Presidents of 36 clubs from cities in the 11-state area served by the Missouri Pacific Lines were at Monroe," said Mrs. Frank Hanigan, "and a thorough exchange of ideas gave all of us a keener insight into what our clubs can accomplish for our communities and thereby further the interests of our railroad."

A Common Interest

Each Missouri Pacific Women's club is entirely autonomous, Mrs. Frank Hanigan pointed out, but each has a common interest in that membership is drawn from among wives, sisters or mothers of Missouri Pacific employes, as well as from the ranks of the railroad's feminine workers. The annual conference is held to cement the bonds of friendship between the various clubs and to provide a forum to which each club may bring its problems for solution and, in turn, exchange ideas with each other.

In addition to the purely business sessions, all of which were held in Monroe, the entertainment feature of the two-day conference was a trip to nearby Natchez, Miss., where the annual garden pilgrimage is in progress. A tour of ante bellum homes and lush and colorful gardens was a feature of the trip.

HOSIERY HINTS

by Airmaid Clark

Do you have an Achilles heel? Maybe you never thought of it that way, but if you wear hosiery that stands out from your heel, and bunches in your shoes (especially your sling pumps), then you've got an Achilles heel! It's your weak spot, hosiery-wise.

Airmaid Nylons have the answer in their Right-Angle Heel, a careful plan of construction. Airmaids cling to the contour of your heel, keep smoothly beautiful and comfortable always. There is added strength, too, in this ingeniously devised heel, for it is not constantly pulled out of line.

Style Guide for today's woman

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

SUITS ARE THE TALK OF THE TOWN—and why shouldn't they be? There isn't anything more practical or comfortable to wear—provided you get the right type that has the lines that will do the most for you. The boxy lines have been perfected this season in such a way that they are more flattering than ever, and the coat can double as a topper. Most of them have just one button at the neck.

For those of you who prefer the fitted suits, there are some beautiful styles and you will naturally be wanting a topper to go with them.

Spend time and thought in selecting your accessories. They can make or ruin your suit you know. There is a gala array of colors and although it sometimes takes time to match them, it is time well spent. Easter is only a few weeks away and the longer you wait to make your selections, the less you will have to choose from.

Laughs will be frequent when the Pettis Players, Sedalia's own community theatre group, repeat their three-act comedy, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," on Wednesday night at Smith-Cotton Auditorium.

The role of Sheridan Whiteside, "the man," is taken by Michael J. Bogutski, who scored a hit when the play was first given on March 1st. Whiteside, an eminent man of letters, is on a lecture tour of the midwest when he injures his hip on the icy doorstep of his dinner hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Stanley, played by Otis W. Wiley and Mrs. Ted Gardner. The kindly Stanleys taken their distinguished guest back into their home and provide him with a doctor and nurse—whereupon he proceeds to disrupt the whole household.

Story of the Play

Repaying their hospitality in what his secretary, Maggie Cutler, played by Mrs. C. W. Stephenson, assures him of his "usual charming manner," Whiteside takes over the lower floor of the Stanley home, and even forbids the family to use the telephone or the front stairs. His constantly insulting remarks, his eccentric behavior and his equally eccentric stream of guests, soon drive the Stanleys to the breaking point. Conniving to break up a romance between his secretary and Bert Jefferson, a local newspaperman played by Frank F. Evans, Whiteside calls in the services of a glamorous actress, Lorraine Sheldon, played by Mrs. Ben Klein, and a famous English playwright and composer, Beverly Carlton, played by Scott Webber. The manner in which Lorraine is finally disposed of by Banjo (Jack Meyers), who can only be a prototype of one of the Marx Brothers, provides one of the highlights of the play.

Directors of Play

The play was directed by Mrs. John Metcalf and Michael Bogutski, and the supporting cast includes Bettye Ellsworth, Donald Harrison, Gayle Scruton, C. E. Alden, Mrs. William Ward, Mrs. Fred Rose, Ted Gardner, Marilyn Williams, Finney Bryant, Dusty Wiley, Bob Younger, Bob Fisher, Dick Riker, Jim Clevenger, Bill Taylor, W. D. Bruce and William Ward. The parts of choir boys are taken by Robert Rialti, James White, Albert Fox, Richard Shoemaker, James Satterwhite, Jerry Fox, Harry Lynn Satterwhite and Donald Hofheins.

The production is sponsored by the Sedalia Kiwanis Club.

Lots of Rules for Long Life Given by Aged Persons

By Elliott Chaze

DENVER, March 18—(AP)—With science bent on abusing and fusing the atom you perhaps have wondered at one time or another about your chances of living to a ripe old age.

So, barring the possibility of your being baked by a sunlike bomb, destroyed by germ warfare, or mowed down by unfriendly Martians, here are some tips on how to reach the age of 90 and upwards:

Mrs. Elizabeth Myers of Denver, 101 years old, is a disciple of the early-to-bed-early-to-break-fast school.

She lost her sight about five years ago, but is able to walk unassisted about her daughter's home, likes all kinds of food, drinks an occasional highball with the family. Her skin and hair are remarkably lovely and she says: "I never did much in the way of fussing over myself."

She believes a good code for living long and well is that of investing "a lot of love in your family—and not worrying any more than you have to."

Belives in Bees

Mrs. Mary Ferrier, 93, also of Denver, thinks that the fact somebody gave her a swarm of bees for a wedding present back in 1875, has helped keep her healthy.

"I like milk and honey and think they're wonderful health foods," she says.

Mrs. Ferrier, a teetotaller, lives alone and does all her own housework and cooking. She's a bit sheepish that during a minor illness she once drank a teaspoonful of wine each day for a week "to settle my stomach."

Jose Nicherson, 92, who runs a small ranch near Pagosa Springs, Colo., and who still mends fences and rides a cow pony, has been less careful of his stomach.

Chronic Pipe Smoker

The wiry, blue-eyed Nickerson, is a chronic pipe smoker and takes a nip "whenever I want it." He says that in his younger days he conducted a number of strenuous experiments with hard drinks and doesn't think he's any the worse for it. As for food, he favors plenty of raw beef, bloodsausage and bread.

"I've done a lot of my eating and sleeping outdoors," Nickerson says. "I think food goes down better and sleep does you more good in the fresh air."

Or take Mrs. Mary Lathrop, attorney at law, who frowns on cake and pie and coffee and tea, never had a smoke or a highball and sleeps seven or eight hours every night.

Mrs. Lathrop, who is only 85 and has practiced probate and real-estate law here just a little more than a half-century, perhaps doesn't belong in this survey at all. But if you're willing to discount her junior status, her advice is that "being raised in a Quaker family is a very healthy thing. My parents ate and lived simply—and I grew up that way."

Isn't Critical of Some

Another Denver woman, 99-year-old Mrs. Margaret Sharp, doesn't drink or smoke, but isn't critical of the habits of younger generations. Her observation on the modern way of life: "I think morals are getting worse because folks are getting smarter."

Lewis Cavender Kees, 93, of Englewood, Colo., smokes several cigars a day, walks a lot and on most days drinks one glass of beer at a neighborhood pub. He reads at least one verse in the Bible every night.

Mrs. Addie West, 90, of Denver, is convinced that parsnips played no mean role in bringing her through the years with a minimum of damage. She raises her own parsnips in the back yard, likes them with ham, sausage, bacon or fish. She walks to church every Sunday, thinks "it's nice to be a good walker."

If the Atoms Don't Get You

So, in summary, if you want to live a long time remember that you must:

(1) Smoke—or not smoke.
(2) Drink—or not drink.
(3) Eat simply — or eat anything you wish.
(4) Spend most of your time either outdoors or indoors.

If you follow this advice closely, and if your ancestors were a long-lived group, and if you haven't fallen heir to some chronic malady, you really have a fine chance of reaching 90.

That is, of course, if the atoms don't get you.

Great Minds Run In the Same Rut

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Great (movie) minds run in the same rut: three films, Republic's "State Police Patrol," Lippert's "Highway Patrol" and Columbia's "Prowl Car" all went into production on the very same day.

And further on the subject of names, RKO cast actress Sally Coroner as a hospital patient near death in "The Wall Outside."

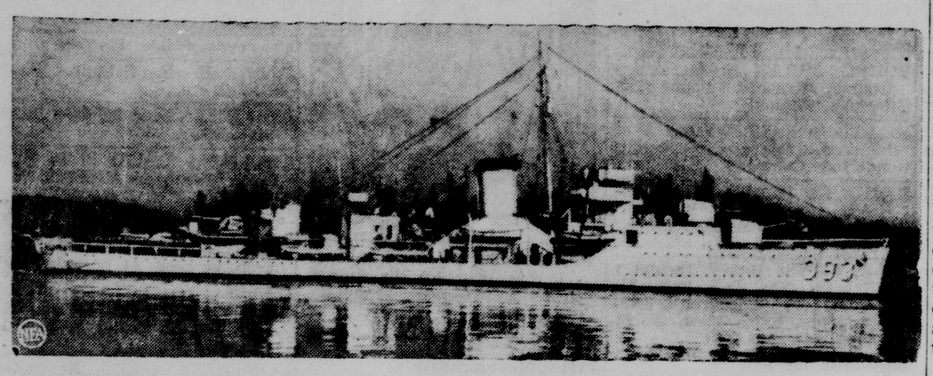
After 7 Years, an Obit for U.S.S. Jarvis

Battered But Brave, She Sailed From Guadalcanal In 1942 to an End Now Told for the First Time



THE DESTROYER USS JARVIS: A profile like the Achilles was a brave ship's Achilles' heel.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—The mysterious disappearance of the only U. S. surface warship unaccounted for at the end of World War II has at last been cleared up on the Navy's records.

After seven years of patient detective work, Navy historians announce they have solved the riddle of the destroyer USS Jarvis, which sailed off into space Aug. 9, 1942, from the Coral Sea southwest of Guadalcanal, following the sea battle of Savo Island.

A Navy flier from the carrier Saratoga was the last friendly person to see the Jarvis, limping along in the pre-dawn haze bound for Australia. Six weeks later a terse Navy communique announced that intensive air and surface searches had failed to reveal any trace of her. Next of kin of the 246 officers and men on board were notified.

Ordinarily, a surface ship going down would have been sighted, would have left flotsam, or there would have been survivors to give an accounting of their ship. The Jarvis' position was well established in a small ocean area which was meticulously scanned by aviators and seamen. Yet she vanished without a trace. Up to now that's been all anybody knew.

* * *

The Jarvis was part of the task force assigned to the invasion of Guadalcanal. During the attack she purposely took a Jap torpedo in her side to protect the cruiser Vincennes. Her skipper, 39-year-old Lt. Comdr. William W. Graham, of Palmyra, N. J., refused to abandon ship although she was stopped dead and flames spurted and swept the forecastle.

In a few hours her crew had put out the fire and patched the enginer. The destroyer Dewey towed the Jarvis to a shallow water anchorage. A check showed 14 men missing and seven wounded. As Comdr. Graham was putting the seven wounded aboard the flagship MacCawley, he told one of them he would head for Sydney, Australia, for repairs that night—Aug. 8—to avoid the almost certain Jap aid attack the next day.

Despite a 50-foot gash in her side, the loss of all her radio gear and many of her guns, it was felt sure the cripple could make Sydney. The mine sweeper Hover was ordered as escort, but was never able to rendezvous with the Jarvis. With his radio gone, it is assumed Comdr. Graham might not have been informed the Hovey would be his escort and left without it.

A few hours before the Saratoga scout plane saw the Jarvis for the last time, she was spotted by the destroyer Blue. The Jarvis refused aid proffered by the Blue and sailed on.

* * *

No successful clue to what happened after that was turned up until this year when a Navy historian who had been working on the problem for years, decided to re-examine the log book of a Jap torpedo squadron based on Rabaul.

Battle reports by several Jap pilots for that date made references to an "Achilles-type" cruiser having been "blown to bits" and "sunk instantly." The historian established that the Jarvis, in profile, had a striking resemblance to the small New Zealand cruiser Achilles. With that new information here is how the unknown final hours of the Jarvis have now been pieced together:

Before being sighted by the Blue, the Jarvis had been attacked by a Jap destroyer that was part of a big enemy force. She escaped without further damage, which is probably why she didn't ask for help from the Blue. But the Jap destroyer had radioed the Jarvis' position and course to the Rabaul torpedo squadron.

* * *

At noon of the ninth, according to the Jap reports, torpedo planes and 16 "Zero" fighters attacked the Jarvis. Sixteen torpedoes were fired at her while the fighters strafed her decks. The final Jap report made no mention of survivors. But the first torpedo the Jarvis had taken at Guadalcanal had blasted away all life rafts and life boats.

An official Navy account now says:

"If the Japanese had not elected to throw nearly all of their available planes at the Jarvis they certainly might have done so at Admiral Turner's ships (off Guadalcanal) still frantically unloading troops and precious supplies for the Marines.

"There is also the possibility that, failing to find the Jarvis, the Japanese airmen might have continued on their course and attacked our few precious carriers, which had withdrawn to refuel. Thus, the Jarvis did not die in vain."

Intense Heat Fails To Consume Synthetic Cat

MINERVA, O., March 17—(AP)—A synthetic cat came out of a brick kiln today with its rear-end scorched, but still a bundle of flesh and fur.

It thereby, experimenters said, proved the greatest hot-foot story in the history of Minerva:

The tale of Miracle, a real cat which survived 36 hours in a kiln heated to 900 degrees.

Miracle's prefabricated counter—a sirloin steak wrapped in a sealskin hat—was submitted to a similar odreal. At the end of 36 hours, the steak still was juicy and the hat fur soft.

One end was charred. That was the end farthest in the furnace, where the tail of the real cat presumably once lay. An inch and a half a Miracle's tail was burned off.

"Now," exclaimed the brick plant superintendent as the test was concluded, "maybe they'll believe we're not a bunch of liars."

The superintendent, Joe Bucola, was the first person to relate the tale of Minerva's fire-resistant cat. He was there, he said, when she staggered out of the kiln March 5 after locked in accidentally.

Miracle, minus part of her tail, also had singed fur, and her paws were badly burned.

Bucola and Dr. William Orr, a Minerva veterinarian, both stoutly defended the story of Miracle. Dr. Walter R. Krill, dean of the Veterinary College at Ohio State university, ridiculed it.

The doubting Thomases inspired Mrs. Twila Carman to devise the pre-fabricated cat. She is the Minerva correspondent for the Canton Repository, who related the tale to the world.

Said Mrs. Carman after examining the steak-and-fur cat today:

"I think this was a very severe test. for the cat is living tissue and living tissue would withstand the heat much better than the materials used in the test."

"Besides, I put the synthetic cat a good six inches into the kiln. The real cat could have hovered beside the door and acquired fresh air by bumping the door. This time, we had the door sealed."

Miracle's story prompted get-well cards and catnip.

"Miracle," herself, also took two positions on the whole thing: She either laid on her back, or sat on her burned-off tail and held all four feet in the air.

Underwriters Meet Monday

The Sedalia Association of Life Underwriters will hold a special dinner meeting Monday night, starting at 6:30 o'clock in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell hotel, at which time a large crowd is expected. This meeting is being held for members and their invited guests, such as farmers, Sedalia business men, etc.

The principal speaker will be Robert E. Bray, instructor of Economics in Business at the University of Missouri. His topic will be based on the Chartered Life Underwriters Program, at which time he will discuss the C.L.U. program now being given at the university.

A film, "For Some Must Watch," dealing with life insurance will be shown.

Underwriters arranging the program are the following public relations committee: Dick Sklar, chairman, George Yeaman and John G. Crawford.

The annual festival of Up-Helly Aa in the Shetland Islands is believed by some to go back to Viking days.

Cantor Started in Show Business 40 Years Ago

By Mark Barron

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—Forty years ago today Eddie Cantor, the man with the banjo eyes and the big heart, started in show business. It was on March 18, 1910 when Cantor made his first paid stage appearance at the notorious miner's Bowery theater in the then roughest section of New York's tenderloin. Cantor felt he was a success because he got $5 cash for his performance and he did NOT get chased from the stage under a barrage of bottles and other missiles which the Bowery audience was in the habit of throwing at other performers.

On next Tuesday night Cantor will celebrate his 40th anniversary when he plays at Carnegie Hall where he will present a cavalcade of songs and anecdotes. It will be a personal revue presented in his own hilarious, particular and sentimental. He'll sing and dance the many favorite numbers which have made him a star in every entertainment medium from the "Ziegfield Follies" to the television and talking pictures of today.

Principal Guest

Principal guest at Cantor's Carnegie Hall performance, one of many that the 57-year-old comedian is making for students at universities and at concert performances throughout the country, will be Miss Catharine Luddy of 135 Baker street, Jersey City, N.J. Miss Luddy, Cantor told us the other day, was his school teacher at public school number one, on New York's lower east side.

"She is the only teacher I can remember who taught me in a proper school and she taught me everything I know in the way of education," Cantor said. "The education I learned from her is the reason that I can continue on my tour of these colleges and other institutions of higher learning. And I'm starting again on April 3 when I begin at William and Mary College in Norfolk, Va."

In his 40 years of show business, Cantor has gone through almost everything that an entertainer, a public spirited citizen, a comedian could experience.

Orphan at Age of Two

He was an orphan at the age of two and his grandmother managed to have him sent to Surprise Lake Camp, a summer outdoor place for youngsters. In his later years Cantor has spent his efforts to keep that same camp on a solid basis to benefit other city children who need outdoor life.

When Eddie was 14, he met Ida Tobias, "the belle of Henry street," and eight years later they were married although her family didn't approve. They became the parents of five daughters: Marjorie, Natalie, Edna J., Marilyn and Janet. They became grandparents when daughter Natalie gave birth to a son in 1939.

Cantor's comedy on radio and television combines tears and smiles, and he is an able, sure-fire ad libber. He thinks an insult is a primary basis for a laugh, as when he told the late Alexander Woollcott, the fat, erudite critic-commentator, that he should observe the rule of "chins up, old boy."

Was a Singing Waiter

One of the first jobs of the banjo eyed comedian was as a singing waiter in Coney Island where he shuffled dimes off the floor while Jimmie Durante played the piano.

In his philanthropic activities, Cantor is the man who organized the "March of Dimes" which gathers contributions for the Warm Springs, Ga., fund for polio victims. He is the founder and sponsor of a camp committee which sends poor and undernourished boys to the country for outdoor vacations. He is active in both Jewish and Christian charities, appearing in more than 100 benefit concerts every season.

And now this star comedian, celebrating his 40th anniversary on the stage, is touring 40 colleges and universities throughout the nation while he lectures and performs for the youthful students—for whom he feels he has both a message and entertainment.

IT'S SILA-TEX!
ONE COAT WORKS WONDERS
Now! A new kind of wall paint solves two decorating problems with one easy application. It's SILA-TEX, the "texture" paint that seals cracks or wallboard joints as you brush it on. Leading decorators enthusiastically endorse this paint as an economical answer to wall decorating problems . . . and for beautiful smooth, glazed or stippled effects.
SILA-TEX can be brushed on walls to a thickness of 1/32 to 1/16 of an inch. If you want a textured or stippled finish, apply it thick; if you want a smooth finish, mix powdered SILA-TEX with water into a thinner paste. For a glossy effect, or two-tone highlighting, apply tinted glazing liquid, which makes it washable.
EASY TO APPLY
SILA-TEX is easily applied with a paint brush over smooth plaster, varnished wood, sized walls, or painted surface—or to any type of wallboard. (In applying to wallboard, it is advisable to tape joints.) You'll find SILA-TEX brushes with little effort, covers completely. Walls can be stippled immediately without fear of having your paint run, fall or sag.

Boys Turn Up A Fugitive

Killer Had Been Hunted For A Three Years Period

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 18—(AP)—Schoolboy detectives today turned up a fugitive killer whom the nation's police had hunted for three years.

A keen memory, coupled with boys' liking for play in out-of-the-way places, did the trick.

The result is that William Raymond Nesbit, described by the FBI as one of the most dangerous criminals alive, again is behind bars. He had been sought since Sept. 4, 1946, when he escaped from the south Dakota penitentiary. He was serving a term for the murder of a fellow gangster who had threatened to squeal.

The St. Paul dispatch carried a story last Thursday about the hunt for Nesbit. The FBI had provided a picture of the man.

James Lewis, 14-year-old eighth grader in the Van Buren school, read the story. There was something familiar about the photograph. Wasn't it, he asked himself, the picture of that man he had seen living in the cave on Warner road, the one along the Milwaukee railroad tracks, just below the Indian mounds? He and the other kids had played around there many times.

James confided his suspicions to his chum, James Radek, 13. They were a little dubious at first. The picture was of a fatter man than the one they knew as Ray. Radek squeezed on the sides of the clipping, trying to make the face seem slimmer. The paper buckled. That did it. They boys decided Ray was the fugitive. The police were notified. Nesbit was arrested. He said he had lived in the cave for six months.

Stuffed Snow In Pipe

When Lewis went to the cave today to make a definite on-the-spot comparison of the man he knew as Ray, James Radek was not in the group of young investigators.

The cave dweller was not in sight when Lewis and his pals arrived. The question was, how to get him to come out? They had to compare his features with the picture Lewis had clipped from the paper. Lewis had the answer. The boys stuffed snow down the smokestack sticking through the cave's roof.

Nesbit came out to see what was wrong. The boys made their identification and ran for a neighboring tavern to telephone police. The officers came on the double quick. Nesbit was arrested. Although he carried a hunting knife, he offered no resistance.

Meanwhile, Radek was on his way to the cave with another group of boys. They arrived in time to see the police lead the quarry away.

Police found Nesbit's hide-out had a running spring inside. It could be closed off against the cold. It was well stocked with food.

The boys probably will split a $100 reward offered by the South Dakota penitentiary for information leading to Nesbit's capture.

Nesbit was committed to the South Dakota prison May 28, 1937. He had been sentenced to life imprisonment following conviction of murdering Floyd H. Parker of Los Angeles on Dec. 31, 1936. On Feb. 18, 1946, his sentence was commuted to 20 years. He escaped Sept 4, 1946. He was a trusty at the time, working in the home of a deputy warden.

Woman Dies On An Airliner

AMARILLO, Tex., March 18—(AP)—A woman died aboard an airliner today after writing careful instructions to the hostess on how to feed the baby son in her lap.

The woman, Mrs. Clifford Snow 32 was found dead when the plane landed here.

She also left a note for her husband, who works in the Kansas City Union station baggage department, telling him "this seems best." The 10-month-old boy was their only child.

Dr. Guy Owens, who was called to the airport, was quoted by the justice of the peace as saying he "surmised" that she swallowed an overdose of sleeping pills.

The woman's mother-in-law, Mrs. Harry T. Snow of Kansas City, and a sister, Miss Vernita Bowlin of Kansas City, said the victim long had suffered from sleeplessness and nervousness and had been under a physician's care in the past for overuse of sleeping pills.

Mrs. Snow was en route from Phoenix to Kansas City. She had been visiting a sister, Mrs. Beryl Fairbanks, for several weeks.

Mrs. Ivy Wilkinson, justice of the peace, indicated that she would not return a coroner's verdict until tomorrow.

The child was placed in charge of Mrs. Wilkinson. At the husband's request, Trans World Airlines arranged to send the infant home in care of a hostess tonight.

Discovery of the death caused a delay of nearly two hours and the plane was late arriving in Kansas City.

Mrs. Snow's mother-in-law said her son went to the air terminal to meet the plane at the scheduled time not knowing his wife had died.

They had been married for 13 years.

K. Of C.'s Going To Montrose

A Knight of Columbus group of officers of the Knight Sedalia Council 831 will go to Montrose this afternoon to confer the first degree of the order on a number of candidates of Montrose and surrounding territory.

Montrose is in the 12th district along with Sedalia and other communities in this vicinity. The District Deputy, Frank Mehl and the State Deputy, Bernard Gillis of Kansas City will be at this meeting.

The degrees will be conferred by the Sedalia teamed headed by Grand Knight Claude L. Boul.

All members of the Knights of Columbus are invited to attend the meeting. The group will leave Fourth street and Ohio avenue at 12:45 o'clock. The group is expected to return to Sedalia about 6:00 p. m.

Husband Slayer To Appeal Case

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 18—(AP)—Mrs. Yvette Madsen's attorneys said tonight they would appeal her sentence of 15 years in an American prison for shooting her airforce husband.

The Brooklyn beauty was convicted and sentenced by a U. S. court here today. The appeal will be made to the U. S. court of appeals in Nuernberg.

Mrs. Madsen, 22-year-old mother of two, asked her lawyer as they left the court:

"Will they let me see my babies before they take me away?"

The question went unanswered. The children are under the care of her mother in Brooklyn.

After breaking up several court sessions with hysterical outbursts of weeping and fainting, Mrs. Madsen was surprisingly calm at the verdict.

She was pale and thin. She trembled. But she held herself erect, and she walked dry-eyed out of the courtroom from which she had to be carried several times during the two-week trial.

A room filled to overflowing, mostly with American women, heard the verdict.

Mrs. Madsen shot her husband, Lt. Andrew E. Madsen of Oakland, Calif., the night of Oct. 20 when he followed her home from a party at which, the prosecution said, she angrily slapped their host for teasing her about her Brooklyn accent.

The defense never denied that Mrs. Madsen shot her husband. Her attorney entered for her a plea of innocent by reason of temporary insanity.

Mrs. Madsen herself objected to the testimony of a psychiatrist that she was psychopathic, exclaiming in court, "hang me if you want. Hang me. I don't care. But make him stop."

Stiffer Liability Rates To Young

BALTIMORE, March 18—(AP)—Liability insurance rates for automobile drivers under 25 years old will be increased about 20 per cent beginning Monday in 33 states, the District of Columbia and Alaska, the Baltimore Sun said in its editions for tomorrow.

And some older drivers will get a decrease in their payments of about 12 per cent, the newspaper said.

The increasing number of auto accidents involving young drivers was responsible for the hike in rates, as recommended by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters after a three-year survey, it said.

The states affected are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

Fired On Two U. S. Destroyers

SAIGON, Vietnam, March 18—(AP)—Daring Indochinese guerrilas last night hurled machinegun and mortar fire at two American destroyers anchored here, but did not score a hit.

The attack by the Communist-backed partisans punctuated reports that Ho Chi Minh's anti-French rebels are getting a flow of arms from Communist China and are preparing a major attack in an effort to overthrow the American-recognized regime of former Emperor Bao Dai.

As in Greece, Washington and Moscow are backing rivals in IndoChina.

Men of the U. S. destroyers, the Stickwell and Anderson, were called to battle stations during the half hour firing, but did not shoot a gun.

Visited Son at Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Rose, 1400 East Fourteenth street, have returned from Columbia where they were called by the illness of their son, Beverly, who is attending the University of Missouri.

He is confined to the Student hospital No. 2 with pneumonia. He is reported as somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Rose were accompanied to the hospital by Mrs. E. A. Rose, Beverly's grandmother.

Argentina averaged 260 pounds of meat per person in 1948, Uruguay 227.

Mr. Wolfel is instructing, and classes will be held each Tuesday and Thursday nights. This is in preparation for the opening of the new swimming pool. Mr. Wolfel and Mrs. Lawrence Wolf will give a First Aid Demonstration for the 4-H Club at VanNatta School, Monday night, March 20.

Wanted! Volunters for the re-activated Red Cross motor service! Mrs. Roy Kirchhofer, chairman is asking for volunteers to assist in transportation in connection with the Blood Program. Donors frequently need transportation to and from the hospital, and to answer this call will be to give a great service, not only to Red Cross itself, but to your community.

The following letter was received by the Chapter from the Pettis County Tuberculosis Association, Mrs. Alice Crawford, Secretary: "We are again indebted to your Staff Aides and Gray Ladies for their valuable help in our recent X-Ray project. Please express the gratitude of the Pettis County Tuberculosis Association and my own personal thanks to those who gave so generously of their time and effort." The Red Cross stands ready at all times to assist other organizations who are working for the betterment of humanity.

Throng At Variety And Style Show

A capacity crowd filled the Smith-Cotton high school auditorium again Friday night for the second night of the Variety and Style Show sponsored by the Smith-Cotton Parent Teacher Association in cooperation with local stores.

"The Gay Nineties" was repeated by the Smith-Cotton high school students.

A very entertaining program was presented by pupils of the Harper School of Dance. A wide variety of dances were given with beautiful and appropriate costumes for each number, and several acts included both singing and dancing.

The spring styles were shown by Sedalians modeling fashions for men, women and children from Mrs. Human's Art Shop, Thrifty Shop, Russell Brothers, Flowers, Levi Strauss and Company, Drolich's St. Louis Clothing Store, and Jack's Mens Wear. Fashions included a wide range of attractive clothes for the Easter parade.

Bob Van Horn was master of ceremonies and music was by the Rhythmaires.

Ushers were high school girls in colorful formals. Those ushering Friday night were Bobbie Ann Dale, Carold Pile, Sherry Edwards, Norma Lee Woolery and Mary Ann Young, and on Thursday night were Carolyn Lance Marilyn Reed, Hazel Burkhalter and Jean Crecelius.

Mrs. A. J. Gregory, chairman, stated that this year's show was one of the most successful ever presented by the P. T. A.

Big Papers In South In Merger

ATLANTA, March 18 — (AP) — Two of the south's largest newspapers—the Atlanta Journal and the Atlanta Constitution—announced today they have agreed to merge.

Front page statements were published in both newspapers.

These said economic reasons figured largely in the move. Financial details were not disclosed.

The Journal is an afternoon and Sunday paper and the Constitution a morning and Sunday paper. They are the only dailies of general circulation in Atlanta.

The editorial policies will remain independent. Both newspapers will continue to publish and transact all business in their present plants.

To Raise Fund For Mercy Slayer

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 18—(AP)—Folks in the tiny suburban community of Coplay are going to make a door-to-door canvass to raise a defense fund for Harold Mohr, accused mercy slayer.

Mohr is the 36-year-old extannery worker who says he shot his blind, cancer-ridden brother, Walter, 55, because he pleaded to be put out of his misery. The victim had been hopelessly blind for 15 years. His face had wasted away until only his lips remained.

August Hobel, Jr., Coplay coal dealer and lifetime friend of the defendant, has called a meeting at town hall for 9:30 p.m. (EST) Monday night. Most of the community of 3,000 people is expected to attend.

Town-Country Defer Making Handbags

Have Several Reasons For The Decision Made

A decision was reached this week by the management of Town & Country Shoes not to enter into manufacture of handbags at this particular time. The company believes that it has made a very wise decision for several reasons.

This past week, William C. Mathieson, vice-president of the company, made contacts with several handbag manufacturers located in the east. He says that in every case, sales and production for these companies has declined drastically in the past few months, and it appears that the downward trend in volume for handbags has not, as yet, run its full course. A simple explanation for this trend according to Mr. Mathieson is that handbags are a luxury item, and women today are finding out that they can do without an extra handbag, whereas, they will buy an extra pair of shoes. Many tanners of upper leather who supply the handbag trade, as well as several of the large retailers who are volume users of Town & Country Shoes, all reaffirmed this trend, the local manufacturer reports.

Not Time to Expand

Town & Country definitely does not wish to start manufacturing handbags in Sedalia, and, after the venture may have achieved a good start, see it taper off into an operation of small consequence for the community, is the decision of the management. The company believes that with all facts taken into consideration, today is not the proper time to expand with the making of an article that unquestionably would be one of the first to be affected if retail sales in general should decline in the months ahead.

Instead, every attention will be directed to the manufacture of good shoes, and every effort continued to insure full time employment and production at the T & C shoe factory. Town & Country enjoyed a record year in 1949, having run through on full production schedule of over 40 hours a week without interruption or shut down, which is substantially ahead of the average work week and production schedules for some 44 factories in Missouri reporting to the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics for the same year.

Club Meets At Patrick Home

Mrs. Ellis Garrett entertained the Champion Striped College club Friday with Mrs. Lester Patrick, Mrs. Elmer Garrett as assisting hostesses. A contributive dinner was served to 22 members with Shamrock decorations and a favor for each.

The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Mrs. M. T. Dabner, in absence of the president, Mrs. Ernest Biggs. Mrs. C. E. Leiter led the group in singing "Song of Peace." Roll call was answered with "A buying habit that is costly." Mrs. Robert Rapp gave an interesting talk on "Pepper Uppers for Dull Meals." The club voted to give $5.00 to the Red Cross fund.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Erwin Shirley April 14th.

Commissioners In Condemnation Action

Three commissioners were appointed Saturday morning in circuit court for the city in relation to a petition filed by the city of Sedalia against Frank Adams and Venettie Adams for condemnation of right-of-way easement over lands.

The commissioners appointed were: R. M. Johns, Kennie Miller and J. W. Neal.

The plaintiff alleges it is necessary for public use that a right-of-way be obtained for the purpose of laying a 96-inch sewer line underground, which is a part of the improvement of the Public Sanitary Sewer System of City of Sedalia.

Cumberland Gap was the first route to the west.

Some 20,000 pioneers pushed through Cumberland Gap in one season shortly after it was opened.

States Secret Orders Given

From Lewis Says Ousted Official Of The UMW

CANTON, Ill., March 18—(AP)—An ousted local official of the United Mine Workers asserted Friday that John L. Lewis secretly ordered his miners to ignore the Feb. 11 court order to end their nationwide coal strike.

Lloyd H. Sidener, 44, said Lewis passed the word down through his chain of command until it reached him.

Sidener said he received the order by telephone from Bernard Beasley of Canton, chairman of sub-district 2 of the Illinois UMW district. Bealey denied tshis.

Sidener was removed March 7 as president of local 7445, Canton. He charged in a complaint to the National Labor Relations Board that the union fined his $50,000 and in effect barred him from working. He said this was punishment for his efforts to get other miners to obey the court's no-strike injunction.

Sidener said in an interview that Lewis directed his 380,000 striking miners to disregard not only the court injunction but Lewis' own telegraphed plea for a resumption of coal digging. Lewis sent telegrams ordering the miners back to work after he was served with the court injunction.

Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech found the union innocent of contempt of court March 2. He said the government failed to present evidence to upport its charge that the union was responsible for the strike of its members.

"Passed to Rank and File"

Sidener said Lewis secretly passed a continue-strike order to state UMW presidents, who in turn notified sub-district board members, who passed it on to mine local presidents for the rank and file.

Sidener said Beasley telephoned him at 2 p. m. Feb. 11 and said: "John L. Lewis said the whistle blew once for Monday Feb. 13). Pull everybody. There'll be no maintenance and pumping crews at the mines."

Sidener said it was the policy at his mine that one blast of the whistle meant no work the next day and that three blasts meant the mine would operate.

Beasley denied he received or passed along any secret orders fro.1 Lewis or other union officials or urged a continuation of the strike. He said:

"I appeared at mass meetings as well as before individual meetings at which time the financial secretaries of the various locals read the (Lewis) telegrams. I addressed these assemblages and told them these were orders of the international union and the men should go back to work. They in turn told me they wouldn't do so without a contract."

Lewis could not be reached for comment. However, in a March 3 interview by Arthur Krock of the New York Times, he was quoted as saying any use of secret signals in his union was "nonsense." "If there were, why has no one in the industry, with spies all about, been able to detect and expose them," Lewis was quoted as saying.

"Even the greenest miner knows that when Lewis announces he wants the miners to end a strike 'forthwith,' he is just making a show," Sidener said. "The miners know they must wait the word of their locals and district officials, who get the word from Lewis or what Lewis really wants."

Slaughter Hearing Set For April 17

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Former Rep. Roger C. Slaughter (D-Mo) will go on trial here next month, charged with violating the lobbying registration act.

Trial was set Friday for April 17 in federal district court.

Slaughter has said the charges were "politically inspired" and that they grew out of a feud between he and President Truman.

Slaughter failed to win renomination to the House in 1946 after Mr. Truman came out publicly for his opponent in the Missouri Democratic primary.

A grand jury in November 1948 alleged that after Slaughter lost his congressional seat he lobbied for the Chicago, Kansas City and Minneapolis Grain Exchanges without registering with Congress.

Slaughter has claimed he served only as a lawyer and thus was not required to register under the lobbying act.

Earlier this week, Federal Judge H. A. Schweinhaut refused to dismiss the indictment, overruling Slaughter's contention that the lobbying act is unconstitutional. Judge Schweinhaut also denied Slaughter's request for permission to examine the minutes of the grand jury which indicted him.

Hundred Dollar Week Man Asks Aid

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 17—(AP)—A man who paid an income tax last year on earnings of $100 a week came to the courthouse Friday to ask for financial help.

His last pay check was for $16 and he told officials he had used $13 of that to pay what he owed on his 1949 earnings.

His wife said he didn't have enough money left for breakfast this morning.

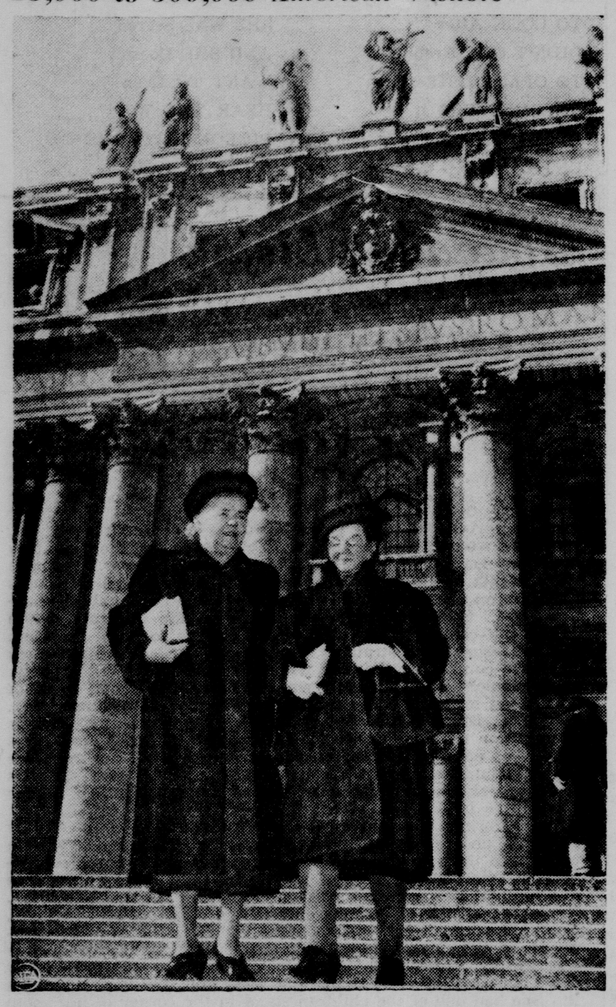
U.S. Pilgrims Set a Record In Rome

Holy Year Estimates Run From 15,000 to 300,000 American Visitors



PILGRIMS: In Rome to observe Holy Year, American visitors Mrs. Katherine Sheridan (right) of Pasadena, Calif., and Mrs. Kathleen Walsh of Los Angeles walk down the steps of St. Peter's, first of four basilicas each pilgrim must visit.

By NEA Foreign Service

ROME, Italy—(NEA)—Rome is already alive with pilgrims, here to observe Roman Catholicism's 25th Holy Year. The celebration is held once every 25 years, and is expected to attract 2,000,000 visitors from every part of the world.

What each of the pilgrims must do is visit the four great churches of Rome. First, he goes to St. Peter's, where he crosses the threshold of the Holy Door, walled up by a slab of white marble between Holy Years. This act symbolizes that the pilgrim has stepped into a new, cleaner life.

Most pilgrims go, in order, from St. Peter's to St. Paul's-Outside-the-Wall to St. John Lateran and finally to St. Mary Major. In each of these four basilicas, the penitent must say three Our Fathers, three Hail Mary's, and repeat three times the prayer, "Glory Be to the Father, to the Son and to the Holy Ghost. As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be, world without end. Amen."

* * *

Americans are more numerous in Rome this Holy Year than they were in 1925, the last Holy Year. In December, 1924, when the Holy Door was opened to symbolize the beginning of the Holy Year of 1925, there was not a single American present at the observance. Last December, however, when the Holy Year of 1950 was officially inaugurated, 166 Americans were witnesses.

Similarly, Americans, particularly women, are flocking to the city. They range in age from children to women like Mrs. Katherine Sheridan, an 80-year-old grandmother from Pasadena, Calif. Mrs. Sheridan traveled to Italy on a slow freighter, making the voyage from California in 27 days.

The Catholic Travel League of the American Express Company, which is organizing pilgrimages, estimates that 15,000 Americans will visit Rome in '50.

"That may sound small," says David Lee of the League, referring to other estimates that have ranged as high as 300,000, "but bear in mind that that would still be the all-time high as far as American pilgrims are concerned."

Another big travel agency, Thomas Cook & Son, places the figure at 50,000, and adds that the only thing that will hold the number down is lack of space. Practically all existing ship space on boats to Europe this summer, says a Cook spokesman, is booked up. And space is getting increasingly tight, already, for boats scheduled to sail in the fall.

* * *

Besides ship travel, hundreds of pilgrims are coming to Europe by plane. One airline, Air France, has inaugurated special flights which permit pilgrims to stop over in France, where they can see France's religious shrines, on their way to Rome. Air France also will begin special thrice-weekly flights from Paris to Lourdes on April 6.

Hotel reservations in Rome, naturally, are at a premium. Authorities are erecting hostels—tent cities—in outlying sections, but the probability is that few Americans will want such rugged accommodations.

A central committee, controlling hotel space, hase been careful to keep price increases at a minimum, guarding against gouging of desperate pilgrims. At a medium-priced hotel, a visitor can obtain food and lodgings for 2800 lire ($4.50) a day.

But, at some of Rome's exclusive hotels, prices range as high as $15 to $20 a day, with the service typically continental and luxurious.

Art Pieces To be Sold

CHICAGO, March 18—(AP)—The 20,000 art and antique pieces acquired by the late Linda Bell Titus Knox was described Thursday as "the largest and most varied collection ever put together by one person anywhere in the world."

The collection will be sold at a series of auctions, the first sale to be held April 5.

Mrs. Knox, a widow and recluse, had spent 60 years and a fortune in collecting the treasure. She died Nov. 9 at the age of 94.

Investigators digging through the collection which filled three houses and additional warehouse space said it ranged from 1,000 carats of diamonds to carefully preserved rugs of Oriental and Caucasian weave, valuable paintings and large pieces of antique furniture.

Richard Levy, board chairman of a Chicago auction firm, said the estate will amount to "well over a half million dollars."

"It's safe to say," he added, "That it's still the largest and most varied collection ever put together by one person anywhere in the world."

Some of the items already listed include unopened gifts the woman received in 1915 when she married Sydney Knox, a real estate dealer and her second husband. He died in 1948.

Crossroads Comment

by G. H. S.

By now every taxpayer in Sedalia has had opportunity to review the "TIME" brochure of the City of Sedalia, mailed to them from the office of Mayor Julian H. Bagby who is concluding his term.

This is a most attractive and informative description of the city's accomplishments, prepared by William Hert, the mayor's representative. He spent many weeks obtaining pictures which so vividly portray to the taxpayers what they are getting in service for their tax money.

There have been four years of progress under the present administration. Pictures tell a positive story. Many services are too often taken for granted but this brochure presents the accomplishments for all to read. It is a novel presentation that no doubt will be copied by other towns.

Running the business of a $17,000,000 corporation is not an easy job. To be mayor is not an honorarium to be passed about by the voters nonchalantly. To be a real mayor requires more than political brains. Many have belabored Mayor Bagby as a staunch Democrat; and he is strictly that. But Mayor Bagby is more than a Democrat; he is a keen business man successful in private enterprise; and the City of Sedalia has profited by his ability.

Some of us have not always agreed with Mayor Bagby on projects he has undertaken. But what business man over a four year period in his own establishment has had 100% agreement of the stockholders? Will one please step forward to claim the crown.

Viewing the past four years in broad perspective, Sedalians can scarcely deny that Mayor Bagby's past term has been one of achievement. The record of "TIME" is in each household today for all to read.

—O—

Women will play a major role in the city campaign, judging from the manner in which fair-sex Republicans spark-plugged a precinct meeting at Mark Twain school on the eve of St. Patrick's Day.

The affair was planned almost overnight but those attending found a well-arranged program awaiting them; reception committee passing out shamrocks; refreshment committee serving delicious chili, a variety of pies, coffee; musical and recitation program.

And the best talks were made by the women. They just ran the show—and it was good.

City Chairman George Miller by his remarks indicated that the Republicans were going to appeal to the women and young voters of the city, not so much from a party standpoint but from that of good government. He believes the Republican party's candidates can deliver good government to the people of Sedalia.

The tone of this meeting suggested that Republicans were going to appeal to the intelligence of the voter rather than stage a fire, brimestone and character-assassination campaign against anyone suspected of being a Democrat.

This should be encouraging to the voters—keeping a campaign on the level of decency.

—O—

There's almost universal acceptance of the conclusion John L. Lewis won a major victory in settlement of the coal strike. Another conclusion just as acceptable is the fact that with all the gains obtained for the hard-working miners they'll have to work four or five years before they regain the pay losses suffered by periodic work stoppages the past year.

—O—

Coach John L. Lewis is the hero today. His team won. The cheering section is unconcerned over the crippled players who will nurse their injuries for many months to come. The team won, that's the thing. In the meantime the spectators are going to have the price of their coal season tickets raised.

—O—

Collegiate athletics should take a tip from Lewis' scheme. Every time the team wins, raise the admission price.

Of course it's silly to contemplate such a racket because sponsors of athletic performances would soon price themselves out of business. Yet Lewis and the coal miners don't seem to realize such a thing could happen to them. Nevertheless it is happening; and not only in the coal business. Even a nation can price itself out of business.

—O—

To reach a desired destination, it is not always wise to follow a by-pass. A recent Florida-bound road experience substantiates in part an old truism: "He who would arrive at the appointed end must follow a single road and not wander through many ways."

—O—

I never thought much about living long enough (until 2000 A.D.) to participate in the wondrous prosperity and $12,000 salaries predicted for the next century. But the family informs me one of our great-great-grandparents lived to be 104.

So I began figuring maybe I could extend my own longevity if I started now to moderate my immoderations.

But, having established this goal, I failed to take into account the discouraging predictions of a famed Harvard anthropologist, Earnest A. Hooton who in a recent Redbook magazine article, takes a sharp look at the human body of 2000 A.D. Says he:

"In 2000, apart from the horde of proliferating morons, the commonest type of normal male will be taller and more gangling than ever, with big feet, horse-faces and deformed dental arches. The typical women will be similar—probably less busty and buttocky than those of the present generation. These spindly giants will be intelligent, not combative, full of humanitarianism, allergies and inhibitions. There will also be a strong minority of towering heavy-weights—melon-shaped, with knock-kneed shanks, small hands and feet and sociable dispositions."

What a prospect! This puts one into a state of confusion whether to strive to become a horse-face in 2000 A.D. or just be satisfied living in the present jack-ass era which doesn't require too much self-abnegation.

—O—

While emphasis is on the political phase of the April 4 election, voters should remember other measures up for consideration. One is increase in the school levy for the teachers' fund for two years. The need for this has existed a long time, and has been explained repeatedly.

Another is the proposed new road law for Missouri which will require a two cent gasoline tax increase. It should be approved by a "Yes" vote April 4. This law will provide many city and rural road benefits and not tap the motorists' pocketbook as much as he might think.

A two-cent gasoline tax increase will cost only about 3 cents a day if you are an average motorist and drive about 10,000 miles a year. Many do not drive that much. The average motorist gets about 15 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and 10,000 miles thus would consume 667 gallons. A 2-cent tax would total $13.34. Traveling over broken down highways will cost you more than that in repair bills.

A peculiar thing I noticed on a recent trip to Florida was the price of gasoline in the various southern states. It was four or five cents higher there than in Missouri which has a two-cent state tax; yet the southern states have a state tax of 6 and 7 cents, and in Louisana NINE cents.

In Arkansas where regular gas was selling for only 23 cents, the state tax is 6½ cents which means Arkansas motorists pay 4½ cents more state tax than in Missouri yet pay one cent less for regular than in Missouri.

This week, however, in Sedalia the price of regular gas was reduced one cent from 23.9 to 22.9 which could be interpreted as a generous gesture on the part of the oil companies meeting the public half way on the anticipated two cent tax increase.

As it stands now, if the people vote a 2 cent increase it will only cost 1 cent more. Maybe by the time the new road law is passed the gasoline price will be reduced another 1 cent and the public won't pay any more tax at all.

Revolutionary War Hero at Long Last Will Be Immortalized

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—A forgotten hero of the Revolutionary War, an unspectacular money lender, will soon be immortalized not far from Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson. He was Haym Solomon, the little Jewish patriot who raised the money to fight the Revolution but died penniless without ever receiving a dime back from the government whose freedom he financed.

Now, after all these years, a memorial is about to be erected in Solomon's honor. This was authorized by Congress 12 years ago upon a motion by Guy Gillette, then Congressman but now Senator from Iowa.

It was left up to private citizens, however, to raise the subscriptions, so the project lay dormant until this year. Now a Haym Solomon memorial society has been formed to raise the money, and the chief thing remaining is to have the commission of fine arts approve a design.

NOTE—At one time George Washington pulled Solomon out of a synagogue to scrape up the cash to meet the army payroll. Solomon also paid Jefferson's and Madison's board bills so they could attend the first continental Congress.

Senator on Rampage

Stormiest figure on Capitol Hill is North Dakota's fearless Senator "Wild Bill" Langer who roars at the Senate like an enraged bull moose, is not afraid of the political odds and kicks his heels at Senate tradition.

No one can predict what Langer will do next, but the Democrats are still burned up over his latest surprise. Out of the clear blue, Langer recessed the Senate the other day right in the middle of its proceedings.

Since the Democrats are steering the Senate, it is majority leader Scott Lucas of Illinois who is supposed to set the quitting time—not Langer, who is a lone-wolf Republican. For a moment, however, not a Democrat was on the floor. And Langer, glancing in both directions, saw his chance to move for a recess. As no one objected there was nothing the presiding officer could do but recess the Senate.

As the bells rang out this news, Lucas stormed into the Senate chamber where Langer was grinning like a boy who had let school out early. Ignoring Langer, Lucas marched up to Senator Pat McCarran, Nevada Democrat, who had just poked his head in the door to see what was happening. As judiciary chairman, McCarran was in charge of the pending legislation, and it was his responsibility to keep a watch on it.

"I have told you at least six times that you should have somebody on the floor at all times to watch this," Lucas stormed at McCarran. "Your committee is in charge of this legislation."

"Don't you think it would be a good idea if we had a majority leader present once in awhile?" McCarran snorted back.

Angrily, Lucas stalked off. "I guess I'll have to sit here 24 hours a day," he muttered.

Fantastic Soviet Radio

The American embassy staff listening to the radio in Moscow hears a fantastic story about what goes on in the U.S.A.

The radio report gives a version of life in the United States which the Kremlin hopes the Russian people will believe. Here are a few samples:

"In the American towns, one man in seven is starving, and three-quarters of the population do not make a minimum income and cannot make ends meet. . . The position of the unemployed is most ghastly. . . Millions of American farmers are leading an impoverished life, wandering about on the roads of the United States. . . The impoverished U.S. masses are turning to Soviet Russia. . . Tens of millions of American people live in terrible slums. . . Only the rich can afford proper medical care in the United States. . . Enormous unemployment, stark misery and the specter of hunger compel thousands of Americans to travel up and down the country all the time to find occasionally some menial work."

This is an accurate sample of Soviet broadcasting as picked up by American intercepts.

Inside story behind this fantasy is that the Kremlin is desperately trying to take the minds of the Russian people off their own low standard of living and create distrust of the fabulous United States.

Even with the Soviet's new price cuts, the Russian worker must labor 117 hours before he can buy a pair of shoes that would cost $5, or the equivalent of half a day's work by an American workman. Low-grade stewing beef that costs 19 cents a pound in an American chain store goes for $5 a pound in the Soviet—above the reach of the low and middle classes.

Other price comparisons are: A man's suit that sells for $27 in the U.S. costs $277.25 in the Soviet; a woman's dress, $8.95 here and $111 there; a table radio $38.95 here and $272 there; women's shoes, $5 here and $87.50 there; and a wrist watch, $30 here and $100 there.

Ironically, in this Soviet "workers' Utopia," a loaf of black bread, the staple of life, still costs 2-½ times what it did in 1940, though luxury items like caviar and good vodka have dropped to prewar price levels.

God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea;

Though the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. Selah.

There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God, the holy place of the tabernacles of the most high.

God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved; God shall help her, and that right early.

The heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved; he uttered his voice, the earth melted.

The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.

Come, behold the works of the Lord, what desolations he hath made in the earth.

He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire.

Be still and know that I am God; I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth.

The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.

"God is Our Refuge"

130

Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O Lord.

Lord, hear my voice; let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplications.

If thou, Lord, shouldest mark iniquities, O Lord, who shall stand?

But there is forgiveness with thee, that thou mayest be feared.

I wait for the Lord, my soul doth wait, and in his word do I hope.

My soul waiteth for the Lord more than they that watch for the morning; I say, more than they that watch for the morning.

Let Israel hope in the Lord; for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption.

And he shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities.

Music Modes

It must be conceded that music can and does many wonderful things to our emotions and their related elements. It soothes a troubled mind, it brightens many a heart and it gives birth to thousands of different feelings and attitudes. Music is ever present in this complex society that we now live in. It is heard on the millions of radios every hour of the twenty-four day and its continuously surging and thriving in the hearts and minds of millions of the earth's peoples.

Music is becoming now in this era more than just art. It has that distinction, to be sure, but it is surely occupying more an unpredictable place in the very lives of the world's stockholders.

Treasured Memories

The old familiar tunes that were popular years ago bring back treasured memories. The French song, "Lili Marlene," no doubt brings to mind the days and months of the World War I for many a veteran of that world conflict. This is only one example of such musical recollection. The long months that went together to fill the chronological years of World War II also bring back to mind the things that were taking place about that time. Then of course every human being of average age has something very important and dear to him that he can and does connect with some musical composition. It is also strange and indeed gratifying to learn that some one else has had the same emotional feelings that you have experienced, and it is expressed in a musical sense.

A short but comprehensible glance at the parade of popular songs that have thrived in the past years can offer substantial pictures of the attitudes that were in vogue in the corresponding years. Let's start back at the beginning of that vibrant, bouncing, two beat toddling child of American jazz, Dixieland music. This New Orleans product was the honest and sincere expression of the people that originated it. It was happy and carefree music sometimes and then sad and melancholy at other times. It was a music that flowed directly from the hearts of the people that played it and to the people that loved it.

On Through the Years

And so it has been on down through the years. The music of this year (excluding "Mule Train," 'The Call of the Wild Goose" and other such musical monstrosities) reflects the feeling, the emotions that are churning in our hearts and in our souls and in our lives.

In an actuality the musical interpretations and the contributions that are offered up by the hundreds of composers are the musical representations of the sensations of the composers or arrangers feelings.

This can be simply exemplified in the example of Sigmund Romberg and his near classical works in the never filled field of semi-classical music. Romberg's tunes can be readily recognized by an average music lover. There is something that Romberg possessed in his musical make-up that tabbed his works identifiably similar. It was that something that gave Romberg's compositions that made them easy to associate with the composer. It is remarkable that such an element could be present and so varied in so many musical authors.

As it has been averred here music runs a parallel with the attitudes of the respective times. But the biggest mystery of the present time is what emotional and musical value is there in some concoctions over the nation's networks of radio stations. Certainly there must be variety, but there must be an incessant pounding and cracking of bull whips and then have the audacity of calling it music. For music to be of any value it must be creative and must have the basic and essential component called emotion.

THE WILL TO BE WELL

Yesterday we saw that the first step toward deliverance from fears and anxieties was to desire to be free. We may subconsciously desire the attention and sympathy which our maladies bring. If some people couldn't talk about their ills, just what would they talk about? You remember, the definition of a bore as "a man who talks about his rheumatism when you want to talk about yours." Talking about one's maladies focuses attention on one's self, even though that self is a shabby, shattered self. Still, the center of interest is the self; and when one is self-centered, he will use any means to gain attention.

So Jesus went straight to the heart of self-centeredness when He confronted the sick with this question: "Wilt thou be made whole?" "Do you really want to be well? If not, I cannot do a thing for you." The will to be well had to be there. Dr. Everett C. Drash of the University of Virginia told me that he operated on a schoolteacher for tuberculosis, and she died. But there was no apparent reason for her death until her relatives found among her papers a statement to a friend that she was convinced she would die. Her lack of faith had killed in her the will to live.

That brings us to the third step: (3) Will to be well. Throw your will on the side of deliverance. Just as there is a will to believe, so there is a will to be well. In contrast to the schoolteacher who died for lack of will to be well, there is the case of a mother who died of tuberculosis and left six small children. Her sister stepped in to take care of the children, and she, too, caught the infection. She, too, was slated to die, for this happened in the days before modern science had begun to cope successfully with this plague. Instead, she willed to live and raise that family. It was her life task, and she would perform it. She had one of the children stand in the corner of her room each day, so that she could see the child and say to herself, "I must live to raise this family." She did live, and she raised the family, and today is one of the most radiant and useful persons I know. Whether you seek deliverance from illness or from fear, will to be well.

My Father, I cannot will to be well unless I am reinforced at the center of my being. For I am inwardly flabby. Help me, then, to take the strength of Thy will into the weakness of my own. In Jesus' name. Amen.

The Sermon on the Mount

"Judge Not, That Ye Be Not Judged"—

Fourth of a five-part Lenten series reprinting Christ's Sermon on the Mount.)

Mat. 6:16-34; 7:1-5

Moreover when ye fast, be not, as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance; for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

But thou, when thou fastest, annoint thine head, and wash thy face;

That thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.

Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal:

But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt and where thieves do not break through nor steal.

For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

The light of the body is the eye; if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light.

But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the light is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness!

No man can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?

Behold the fowls of the air; for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?

Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit to his stature?

And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin:

And yet I say unto you, That even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?

Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed?

(For after all these things do the Gentiles seek:) for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things.

But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.

Take therefore no thought for the morrow; for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

Judge not, that ye be not judged.

For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye?

Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

Soil Preparation Is Key to Success

You can't bake a prize cake with poor ingredients and it's just about as difficult to have a successful garden without proper preparation of the soil. So here are some tips learned in long years of experience. The first step—spading up the ground—sounds simple. But there's a right way and many wrong ways to do it. First, spade DEEPLY, using a straight-edged spade or fork. A pointed spade leaves scalloped depressions in the ground, where water collects. Second, spade systematically in straight lines, rather than haphazardly. Avoid turning the soil over completely. Old grass or weeds thus turned under form a layer of insulation" that prevents new plant roots from getting food from the soil beneath them. Turn your soil over at an angle of about 45 degrees. After thorough spading, your ground should have a good dose of organic fertilizing material. This can be manure, compost or peat moss. Whichever you use, work it in well. Besides enriching the soil the fertilizer helps break up the lumps, which interfere with root growth. If you are working on a bed for flowers or vegetables. avoid packing a solid layer of organic material on the bottom of the bed. Next step in preparing your ground is to apply a top dressing of some complete chemical fertilizer, such as 4-12-4; 4-8-7; 5-8-7 or 5-10-10. Consult your garden supply dealer on this, as soil requirements differ in various areas. Chemical fertilizer can generally be applied at the rate of five pounds to 100 square feet of garden area. A little goes a long way. Finally, rake over newly spaded areas to eliminate roots, stones, air pockets and to provide a good, smooth and seed bed for the germination and growth of your plants. You'll get the pay-off on all this preliminary work later in the season.

LaMonte Baptist Church Brotherhood Met

The Brotherhood of the LaMonte Baptist church held an open meeting, Tuesday night at the church. A contributive supper was served before the meeting. Rev. Clyde Faulkner had charge of the meeting and introduced Jesse Shephard of Warrensburg, who led in the song service, after which he gave a short talk on the work of the Brotherhood. Rev. Harvey, pastor of the Warrensburg church discussed the choir of the Bible work at Columbia.

After a special number, the meeting was closed by prayer. There were 33 members and 9 guests present.

Coal Production On the Increase

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Bituminous coal production jumped to 13,200,000 tons in the first week after the United Mine Workers went back to the pits with a new contract March 6 the National Coal Association estimated Friday.

Production in the corresponding week of 1949 was 10,682,000 tons.

In the week ended March 4 this year, with the miners on strike, production was only 3,075,000 tons.

The 13,200,000 figure for the week ended March 11 was the highest since the week ended Nov. 19, when it was 14,150,000.

Fixing Furniture Damage

REFINISHING DETAILS

BY BOB SCHARFF
Written for NEA Service

In every home there is a piece of furniture that is basically good enough to deserve refinishing. But not all surface damages require refinishing.

A scratch in a varnished surface can be removed by putting a little turpentine in it with a sharpened match end or a fine brush. Special furniture "scratch sticks" of a wax-like compound shaped like a pencil are available and do a good job of hiding scratches.

White spots caused by water or hot dishes, don't require a refinishing job. They may be removed by rubbing lightly with a piece of flannel dampened with spirits of camphor or a drop or two of ammonia.

Dents in wood can be reduced to some extent by first removing the finish from around the dented area with turpentine and then laying on a bit of damp wool cloth or blotting paper for several hours.

Heat (not too much) should be applied to the paper or cloth with a warm iron. Sandpaper the area when dry and finally, varnish or other finish should be applied, followed by wax or polish.

Deep burns in furniture should be erased by sandpapering. Then to fill the indentation thus caused, use stick shellack softened with heat. A steel knife may be used to spread the shellac smoothly, and a razor blade to smooth it off. Sandpaper and refinish. Defects and other holes can be treated in the same manner.

For a complete refinishing job, the old finish must be removed, the wood sanded smooth, and new finish applied. To remove an old varnish surface, apply a thin coat of paint-and-varnish remover with the grain, using a cheap two-inch brush. Cover an area 1½ to 2 square feet at a time.

When the varnish bubbles up, scrape it off with a three-inch scraper. For cleaning curved surfaces, use a stiff wire brush and piece of burlap. After the old finish has been removed, clean the entire surface with denatured alcohol.

Shellac surfaces can be removed with alcohol applied with a cloth.

When the surface is dry, sandpaper it completely smooth. If the wood is open-grained and tiny holes are visible, fill the pores with pastewood filler applied according to manufacturer's directions. When purchasing the filler, be sure to get a color that will blend with the wood.

To apply the new finish, the varnish is brushed on with long, smooth strokes, directly from the can. Leave the furniture piece in a dust-proof place, allowing at least 24 hours to dry.

When dry rub down with a cloth saturated with linseed oil and then dipped into powdered pumice. Rub with the grain until the gloss is gone. Repeat varnishing and rubbing two more times. Then apply varnish for the fourth time, and when dry, rub gently with cloth dipped into linseed oil and then into powdered rottenstone.

Continue rubbing until surface is smooth. Finally, apply several coats of furniture wax or polish.

Q—What can be used to take wax off furniture?—A. J. S.

A—You can use either turpentine or naptha, remembering of course that naptha is more inflammable than turpentine.

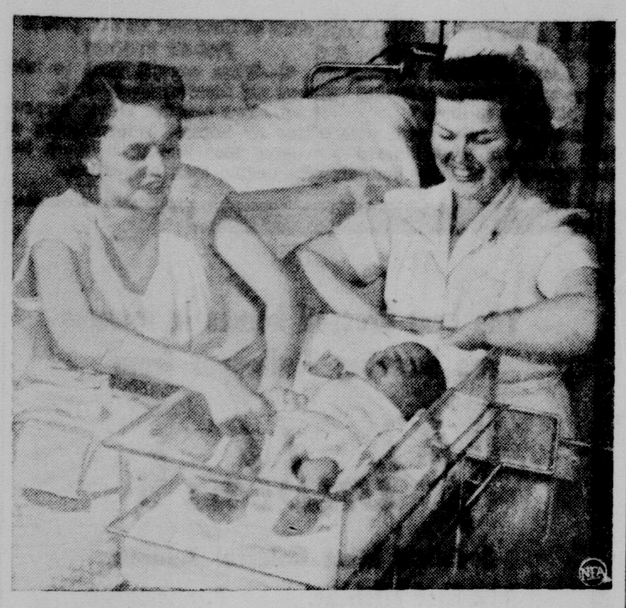
Hospitals Copy Idea from Grandma's Day; Mothers and New Babies Now 'Rooming In'



AT HOME IN THE HOSPITAL: Mrs. Jean Norton shares her bed with junior when she slides over the table-top basinet in the "rooming in" unit at Franklin Hospital, San Francisco.

By NEA Service

SAN FRANCISCO —(NEA)— Maternity care is taking a step back to grandmother's day, when babies were born at home and shared life with mother almost from birth.

The difference is that the hospital is replacing the home with "rooming-in" units, in which mother and child share the same quarters throughout the confinement period after the first 24 hours.

This return to old-fashioned theory actually represents one of the newest practices in obstetrical care and is beginning to gain acceptance across the nation. It is typified at Franklin Hospital in San Francisco, where the fifth "rooming-in" unit in the U.S., just opened, is attracting the interest of many other West Coast hospitals.

* * *

Far more scientific than home methods, the new unit is a streamlined ward decorated in pinks and blues and partitioned off into glass cubicles. A nurse at her desk in the center of the ward is able to observe each mother and child at all times.

In keeping with the "natural approach," babies are fed on demand rather than according to an arbitrary schedule; many doctors now concede there is strong relationship between natural feeding and an infant's emotional development.

Most of the time, junior is right next to his mother's bed in a transparent, bed-high table basinet. The basinet slides on runners to facilitate diaper changing and bathing operations which are performed by the mother rather than in a "dormitory" type nursery.

There is also a sound-proof "banishment chamber" in which the baby can test his lungs without disturbing anybody.

* * *

"Rooming in" is a break for fathers, too. No longer need he wait in the corridor for a momentary peek at his child through the plate glass of a nursery window. In the new-style units, he washes his hands, dons a sterile gown, and takes his place at the head of the family during visiting hours in the temporary glass house.

In praise of the new theory, Dr. Philip A. Reynolds, a noted Los Angeles obstetrician, reported to the California Medical Association:

"Under former routines, the mother of a first-born baby . . . leaves the hospital without acquiring any of the skills and experiences needed for its care at home, and without having become accustomed to the physical and emotional reaction of her baby. In rooming-in she becomes well-acquainted . . . with a multitude of things so easily taken for granted by nurse and physician, but which to her are tremendous mental hazards. The transition from hospital to home is easy."

Donnell Files For Reelection

JEFFERSON CITY, March 18—(AP)—U.S. Senator Forrest C. Donnell made it official Friday. He filed for renomination to a second term on the Republican ticket.

Donnell announced last fall he would be a candidate. His campaign manager, Frederick Stueck of St. Louis, brought his formal declaration of candidacy to the secretary of state's office today.

So far Donnell has only nominal primary opposition. There have been no indications that he will have any serious challenge. Two perrennial candidates —William McKinley Thomas and Herman Heiman Grosby, both of St. Louis — are the only other Republican candidates.

The Republican situation is in sharp contrast with the tangled Democratic primary race for senator. There the president's candidate, state senator Emery W. Allison of Rolla, is competing with Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., Franklin E. Reagan and James W. Hopkins, all of St. Louis. All but Reagan have paid their $100 filing fees.

City Officials Attack Bill

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—A bill to limit government control over natural gas was attacked by officials of 10 cities Friday as a "billion dollar windfall for oil millionaires."

They spoke out as Republicans and Northern Democrats in the senate teamed up in an effort to defeat the bill, now up for debate.

Mayors of Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, St. Louis, Denver and Birmingham joined with officials from Chicago, New York, Detroit and Lynchburg, Va., in the fresh assault on the legislation.

Used State Car For Own Use

SANTA FE, N. M., March 18—(AP)—The latest exploit of ex-Missourian Ingram Pickett brought him a suspended jail sentence and a $50 fine.

The seven-foot State Corporation Commissioner was charged with using a state-owned motor car for personal use.

Pickett, who is campaigning for the Democratic nomination for governor, had invited the charge.

He told District Judge David W. Carmody he deliberately took a state car from Santa Fe to Aubuquerque for his wedding March 11 "to prove to the people that state cars can be and are used for private purposes.

In suspending the 30-day jail sentence and the fine, Judge Carmody warned the former Bethel, Mo., man not to make public comment on the case.

Pickett brought national attention to himself several weeks ago when he established himself at the capitol so as to be the first in line to file for the Democratic nomination.

Proposed Road Law Endorsed

KANSAS CITY, March 18—(AP)—The Highway Engineers Association of Missouri Friday unanimously endorsed the rural road law upon which Missourians will ballot in a referendum election April 4.

The action was taken at the closing session of the organization's 42nd annual convention.

In addition to "definitely, determinably and unequivocally" endorsing the proposal, the organization took a slap at opposition to the measure.

The resolutions declared that "the organizations responsible for this opposition to this road law, namely: The Automobile Association of Missouri, the Missouri Petroleum Association and the Bus and Truck Association of Missouri are motivated by selfishness and greed and are palpably and culpably displaying disloyalty to the great state of Missouri and its citizens and their allegations are positively false and they are definitely guilty of intentionally broadcasting misinformation."

Not one but three romances highlight the melody and mirth of the new technicolor multi-star musical, "On The Town," which starts today at the Fox theatre. Here are Frank Sinatra with Betty Garrett, Jules Munshin with Ann Miller, and Gene Kelly with Vera-Ellen in the lilting story of three gobs and their gals on a song-and-dance spree in New York town.

John Garfield and Jennifer Jones in a scene from "We Were Strangers." Co-hit on the same program is "Bomba on Panther Island." This program starts today at the Uptown Theatre.

The Weaver Brothers and Elviry return to the Liberty screen today in one of their happiest hillbilly hits, "Jeepers Creepers." Roy Rogers is also featured. The second mountain mirth and melody feature is "O, My Darling Clementine" which stars Roy Acuff with his Smoky Mountain Boys, The Radio Rogues, Happy "Pappy" Cheshire and a host of radio favorites.

Mackenzie's Column

By Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Soviet Prime Minister Stalin, first deputy vice prime minister Molotov and other prominent members of the Moscow hierarchy have been preaching the gospel that, after all, it is possible for Communism and Capitalism to live together in peace and harmony.

They have hammered at this thesis persistently despite the fact that it is in direct contradiction of one of the cardinal tenets of Lenin's own creed. He said there isn't room enough for both isms in the world and that capitalism must be killed.

There has been vigorous tub-thumping in the Red camp. Clearly they have been trying to attract the attention of the western world.

Well, they've attracted it. So on the basis that only fools and dead men never change their minds, let's assume for the sake of analysis that Moscow isn't trotting out another wooden horse to sell us. Let's assume that Bolshevism may have changed its views on this matter (though I don't believe it has) and that it feels there still is room in the world for non-Communist governments.

Fish or Cut Bait

If this assumption were correct it would mean that the Muscovites want to end the cold war and get peace. If they wanted peace they obviously would be prepared to make concessions and cooperate with the democracies in establishing peace.

Yesterday U. S. Secretary of State Acheson made a major statement of American policy at the University of California, telling Russia exactly how she could achieve peace. In effect he called on Moscow to fish or cut bait in this matter.

At the same time he told his audience bluntly:

"I fear, however, that I must warn you not to raise your hopes.

"No one who has lived through the post-war years can be sanguine about reaching agreements in which reliance can be placed and which will be observed by the Soviet leaders in good faith."

Acheson's Requests

Among the steps which Acheson called upon Russia to take was joining with the western allies in drawing up peace treaties for Japan, Germany and Austria, without trying to make them satellites. Russia should stop using her military forces to maintain Red governments in the satellites.

The Soviet Union should quit its obstruction in the United Nations so that the organization could function normally. And Moscow should join in establishing atomic control and limitation of armaments.

The secretary dealt with one of the chief bones of contention when he declared that Russia must stop using Communist apparatus to overthrow established governments "with which the Soviet government stands in an outward state of friendship and respect." Acheson didn't specify. But this obviously would include all countries which are suffering from the fifth column activities —America, Britain, France, Italy and where not.

Must Treat Diplomats Better

Russia also must quit kicking American diplomats about and treating them as "criminals." And moreover there must be a halt to Moscow's scheme of distorting the picture of the outside world to their own peoples. Here Acheson condemned the Soviet propaganda which pictures capitalist encirclement and "a United States craftily and systematically plotting another world war."

That's strong mustard for Moscow to swallow. Small wonder that Secretary Acheson isn't sanguine about reaching agreements "which will be observed by the Soviet leaders in good faith."

There is no real evidence, as far as I can see, that Moscow has any intention of halting the drive to communize the world. It is the essence of present day Communism.

Moscow's attitude toward Acheson's statement will illuminate this point.

Labor Party Member Dies

LONDON, March 18 — (AP) — Adam S. McKinlay, a labor party member of the House of Commons, died of a heart attack Friday at his home in Dumbartonshire, Scotland.

His death cut to five the overall majority of the Attlee government in the house elected February 23. It will force the first by-election — election to fill a vacancy—of the new session of parliament.

South Abell Club Meeting

The South Abell 4-H Club met at the Community Hall on March 8. The meeting was opened by the leader, Howard Brown, who led the members in the National 4-H Club Pledge.

Demonstrations were given by Joan Riley, Ruth Ellen Riley and Elinor Van Dyke. The project meetings were then held, after which the meeting was adjourned for recreation.

Refreshments were served by Ed Schwartz and Frank Van Dyke families.

In addition, Nancy is conducting a cooking demonstration each Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock on the Ninth floor of the o'clock on the Ninth floor of the Power & Light building. Radio Theatre, Monday evenings at 8 o'clock over KMBC, this week has an added inducement for Kansas City area residents. The story is "Father Was A Fullback," and stars Paul Douglas, Maureen O'Hara, and Kansas City's own Betty Lynn. Betty attended Southwest High and Junior College about four years ago, and has skyrocketed to movie fame. Hope you'll tune in Monday evening.

Sam Molen has lined up three basketball play-by-play presentations for this next week. On Monday evening at 10:30 p. m., Sam will be on hand with his description of the Kansas University—Bradley U. game. And, on Friday and Saturday nights this next week, Sam will present play-by-play of the two nights of play in the Western NCAA play-offs at Municipal Auditorium. Broadcast time for both Friday and Saturday nights will be at 10:30 p. m. Tune in Sam's vivid description of these thrilling games, if you aren't among the lucky ticket holders.

"Our Miss Brooks" starring Eve Arden as the romantic high school English teacher, will be presented at a new time next Friday evening on KMBC. The program will be presented at 8 o'clock each Friday night. It's a delightful half-hour comedy program built around the events at Madison High school, and we'd like to recommend the program for the entire family's listening pleasure.

Liner Has Garage Service

NEW YORK —(AP)— Motorists going abroad may now drive their cars aboard an ocean liner, park them in a garage and drive ashore on the other side of the Atlantic. The garage on the motor liner Batory of the Gdynia American Line is reached by a special ramp from the dock. The usual practice in shipping cars abroad is to lift them with a derrick.

Raised rear axle and offset final drive give you high clearance for tall crops, yet hug-the-ground stability of sturdy, low-set drive wheels. Weight of both the transmission and differential over the rear axle plus non-freezing liquid in rear tires give traction enough to match the big 125-cu. in. engine.

We Owe You An Apology

MR. H. C. L. JACKSON!

CROSLEY SHELVADOR

the refrigerator that puts convenience first

It's all our fault, Mr. Jackson. The new 1950 Shelvadors are so popular that we thought you—and all other good people—knew all about them. We should have told you that these modern Crosley refrigerators banish the old-fashioned game of "Ice Box Checkers." We should have shown you how the Shelvador stores twice as much food where you want it.....in front—in sight—in reach . . . how it keeps bottles, eggs, fruit, jars and all those "hop-skip-and-jump" items right at your finger tips! We should have made it clear that here is the most convenient refrigerator in the world. Its advantages are exclusive. There's nothing like it! We're sorry. We apologize. We thought you knew. But if you'll come in and give us a chance to square ourselves, we'll show you how a really modern refrigerator acts—and looks! Come in and see our handsome new 1950 Crosleys—and bring your friends!

"In front, in sight, in reach" storage —that's the Shelvador secret

Milk, cream, fruit, cheese, eggs, dressing—keep them all within easy reach on the door shelves of this smartly designed refrigerator. And for added convenience, arrange the interior shelves to best suit your family's needs. Store a variety of delicious frozen foods in the generously sized freezer. Many of the Shelvadors include a Butter Safe that keeps butter at desired spreading temperature; handy vegetable crispers. Add to all this the steel, welded construction, the gleaming baked-on enamel finish—and you'll agree—the Crosley Shelvador is a step-saving winner.

Full width freezer holds 42 pounds of frozen foods. 4 ice trays. 2 crispers. An all-around favorite! 299.95

Look—H.C.L.—it can't happen here!

See what we mean? The Shelvador doubles your "front-row" space for storing all that stuff right at your fingertips!

That's why the easy-on-the-budget Shelvador is built to give up to 23% more space—in the same size cabinet!

We know what you mean! But Crosley's extra space is in the door—not way at the back—not down on the floor!

Did you say "iron-hard" butter? Man...Crosley's Butter Safe automatically keeps your butter at exactly the right "spreading" temperature!

In this refrigerator, H.C.L. you simply rearrange the crispers and lift out a shelf—and nestle your watermelon all by its lonesome!

Chart? There's none needed here. There's a place for everything—and everything in its place!

If you really mean that, H.C.L. just call all your "kitchen-snatching" husbands to Detroit's Crosley Dealers...and bring yourself along! Let us show you a modern refrigerator!

The Drafted Game Of Ice Box Checkers

By H. C. L. JACKSON

LAST EVENING WHEN, on hushed feet, we hied us to the refrigerator, and opened the door, in search of some sort of succulent little snack to save us from 10 p.m. starvation—what happened?

H.C.L. Jackson

Out sprang a pint of milk. We managed to catch it before it bashed Mrs. Mame's well-washed floor, but the shock was so great that, having returned the dinged-busted bottle to the refrigerator, we shut the door again, and went in the living room and sat down in our favorite chair, the appetite just plain scared out of us. But:

As we sat there, we rather mumpily considered several phases of that drafted game you might call Ice Box Checkers.

Obviously, the purpose of Ice Box Checkers is to try to jump two quarts of milk, a bottle of stuffed olives, a half pint of cream, a jar of mayonnaise, and get at the bottle of coke cowering back there in the King Row.

If you can do it without breaking anything, you win. If you do break anything, believe us, you lose. Now:

* * *

THERE MAY BE families in this world with wallets so rotund that they can afford refrigerators big enough so the game of Ice Box Checkers doesn't have to be played by a mere male on larceny bent, but.—

We doubt it.

We remember a man who kept buying bigger and bigger refrigerators for his wife, but he dolorously told us that even though he had one large enough so he could stand in it—and he was six feet tall—and keep cool on a blistering summer day—he couldn't, because his wife had had it just as crammed full as the wee-bit one with which they started their married life.

Consequently, the average one-car, one-horse refrigerator-family has to keep on playing Ice Box Checkers:

When you fill the lower section of the refrigerator with milk, cream, French dressing, maraschino cherries, ginger ale, and those mysterious dishes—usually with a knob on top—which contain the leavings of recent family meals and are lurking there before they reappear on the table under some other guise, and—

When you have to jump over and past and around them to get at whatever tidbit you seek—and it always is at the back—there's a checker problem even Einstein would flunk.

* * *

THERE ARE PARTICULAR phases to this indoor pastime that are particularly irksome to particular persons:

Hap, for example, confesses that he howls a properly suppressed howl when he reaches to the rear of the refrigerator for a bottle of beer and scoops up on his cuff, some of that currant jelly that quivered on last evening's menu.

Sam breaks out in resentment against modern efficiency each time he starts scooping for a bit of old cheese and finds he's gotten himself a hunk of iron-hard butter.

Pete silently explodes—one of the horrors of Ice Box Checkers is that, due to the fact that it is played without the knowledge of the Lady of the House, no audible plaints are possible—Pete silently explodes when he exhumes a likely-looking dish only to find it partly filled with what once was creamed salmon. But:

* * *

AS WE CONSIDERED these phases last evening, we were gracious enough to give thanks that, at least, this isn't the worst season of the year in which to play Ice Box Checkers and that

The Watermelon Season!

We know of nothing so truculently against being stabled in a refrigerator as a watermelon. Put one of those things in storage and right away it goes berserk. And worse than that!

It even brings out the evil in the nature of the other things with which it is housed. Why, a little half-pint cream bottle, usually gentle and amiable, if cuddled against the curving side of a watermelon, becomes a menace! Oh, well, we spend too much time on this subject, we fear.

What the average man should have is a clear and comprehensive chart by which he could steer a moderately safe course between the Scylla of fresh eggs and the Charybdis of a piece of lemon pie to that remote and restful haven where lurks the object he's seeking. Only—

No chart is possible. Because the obstacles keep changing their positions from day to day. Even from hour to hour!

What, yesterday, was at the port side, front, today is on the starboard side, half way back and what was firmly anchored in the front row now is balancing nervously amidships.

It all depends on the most recent whim of the Little Woman.

We know that what we've said sounds pretty baffling, but we'll call every kitchen-snatchin' husband in creation to support our statement that it isn't half as baffling as the game of Ice Box Checkers, itself!

Ship Afire On Ocean Is Saved

Skipper And Crew On Elder After 26 Others Took To Life Rafts

By Leif Erickson

PEARL HARBOR, March 18—(AP)—The nervy skipper and crew men who saved the Navy net tender Elder from explosion and fire in a week-long ordeal in mid-Pacific, vowed today to see their charred little ship into harbor.

The Hawaiian sea frontier command, however, said present plans called for bringing them promptly to Pearl Harbor in another ship. It was interested in learning the particulars of the whole operation, including how a nearby transport passed them by four days before they finally were rescued.

All the Elder's crew of 40 were found safe late yesterday, 26 of them in life rafts into which the skipper, Lt. William F. Adams, had ordered them when the fire spread March 10.

Lt. Adams and 13 volunteers who had stayed aboard and snatched the Elder from doom after a long struggle, were located 17 miles away aboard their charred and helpless ship.

Admiral Commends

The Pacific fleet commander, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, today dispatched the traditional "well-done" signals to all hands involved.

But—the Navy also started organizing an inquiry to find out why a military transport sailed near the stricken Elder last Monday without responding to frantic signals that included gunfire and flares.

Lt. Adams in a radiophone interview was outspoken about his failure to attract attention of the transport General A. W. Brewster.

The transport is en route to Yokohama from San Francisco. When the Navy began inquiring about the overdue Elder on Wednesday, the transport reported sighting the missing ship Monday in no apparent distress 700 miles from its destination—the atomic weapons testing island of Eniwetok.

Confusion On Signals

Lt. Adams said the Brewster passed within two miles and was in sight for an hour and a half but did not heed signals.

"We signalled with flares, international distress flags, smoke signals and mirrors," said Adams.

"We signaled with everything we had aboard except our 3-inch gun. If we'd had ammunition left for that, we would have used it, too."

The ammunition had been jettisoned while fighting the fire, which started at 2 a. m. Friday and was finally extinguished shortly before the Brewster hove into view.

Formerly an Army transport, the Brewster recently was placed under Navy control along with all other transports in the military service. The Brewster has an all-civilian civil service crew.

The Brewster's message Wednesday to the Hawaiian sea frontier said the Elder had failed to respond to visual signals but that the signal officer believed the reflection of the sun may have prevented the Elder seeing them.

Adams said, "The Brewster flashed 'IMI', meaning 'repeat.' Then it flashed a signal we could not read and proceded on its way."

Adams, a 36-year-old veteran of 18 years in the Navy, declined an offer of manpower, saying, "I can manage my own ship with my own men."

Congratulated by Rear Adm. C. H. McMorris, commanding the Hawaiian sea frontier, Adams replied, "I was only one man aboard the ship. my men, all 13 of whom volunteered to stay on and fight the fire, worked tirelessly in extreme heat and flame to save the ship. All aboard did a wonderful job They should all have 30 days leave."

Adams theorized that the fire, which started with an explosion, was due to a faulty diesel injection system recently repaired at Pearl Harbor. Loss of the diesel electric engine knocked out the radio, making a distress call impossible.

The Weather

Snow flurries and colder Sunday, strong northwesterly winds, diminishing in afternoon, highs in 20s; Monday cloudy, warmer west and north.

Joint Meeting Of Lions Of Region Four

Visitors From A Dozen Cities Attend Dinner–Dance

Lions of Region Four of District 26-C met in a joint dinner-meeting of the two Zones of the Region at Bothwell Hotel, Saturday night, with District Governor Harold Gibson, North Kansas City, Mo., in charge of the induction of three members into the Sedalia Lions Club as part of the evening's program.

Governor Gibson inducted W. C. Askew, John Ellison and Joe Elliott into the Sedalia Club and presented the three with their certificates of membership. The governor also gave a brief talk in the presentation on Lionsism.

Short talks were also given by Don Robie, Maryville, and Ellis Tyler, both Past District governors and now International Counsellors of Lions. Others who gave brief talks were Wade Maupin, Cabinet Secretary of District 26-C, Deputy District governor Charles Baumli of Maryville and D. Kelly Scruton of Sedalia.

W. H. Hannah, Zone 1 chairman, Lexington, Mo., was introduced and conducted a brief business meeting following the dinner.

Visitors From Several Clubs

There were more than ninety visiting Lions and their wives in attendance at both the dinner and dance following the meeting, which was presided over by A. W. Haller, president of the Sedalia Lions Club.

Also to the International convention which will be held in Chicago in July. He stated reports from other Districts indicated one of the largest state conventions held by the Lions of Missouri.

President Haller in his introduction of the various officers announced that Sedalia's Lions member and the present Deputy District Governor, D. Kelly Scruton, was being sponsored as the first governor of a new district which is to be formed immediately following the state convention.

Student Fatally Hurt In Crash

CARTHAGE, Mo., March 18—(AP)—A Tulsa, Okla., aeronautical school student from South America died here late today of injuries suffered this morning in an auto accident seven miles north of here.

Four of five other occupants of the car were seriously injured.

Alfredo Ortega, about 20, of Baranquila, Colombia, died in a hospital here of head injuries sustained in the accident.

Injured seriously were Jaime Charry, also from Colombia; Fred Espendez of Puerto Rica; Albert Gutierry and Hernando Errea, also of Colombia.

Marcel Penen, Tulsa, an employe of the Spartan school of aeronautics where the others were student, was slightly injured.

Penen told authorities the party was en route to Kansas City for the week-end.

Trooper Tom Loy of the state highway patrol said the car carrying the students collided with a car driven by Harry R. Martin, Jasper, Mo. Both cars overturned. Martin escaped with minor injuries.

Regime In Belgium Quits

Liberals Refuse To Back Return Of Leopold

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 18—(AP)—The Belgian government resigned today and thereby postponed King Leopold's chance to return to his throne.

The collapse of the government was caused by the eight liberal ministers, who refused to go along with the nine pro-Leopold Social Christians in calling a joint session of the two houses of parliament to end the regency and invite the 48-year-old monarch to return from exile in Switzerland.

May Bring Elections

One of the possible results may be new general elections.

The king, still in a jam because of his surrender to the Germans after only 18 days of fighting in 1940, will not be able to come back until Belgium has a government which agrees to call parliament into joint session. Parliament must then repeal a law of 1945 which bars Leopold from resuming his constitutional powers without its permission.

Prince Charles, brother of the king and regent since the liberation, began consulting political leaders this afternoon, after which he suspended further consultations until Monday.

In refusing to agree to call a joint session the liberals stood by their pre-plebiscite position that the king must obtain a majority of the votes in the French-speaking south and east (Walloonia) and the Socialist-dominated central Brussels area as well as the Flemish-speaking north and west.

In the advisory plebiscite of last Sunday, in which the people were asked whether they wanted the king back, 57.68 per cent voted "yes." Leopold won 71.09 per cent of the vote in Flanders. But he failed to capture the Walloon provinces where he received only 42.11 per cent, and the Brussels area, where he got only 48.17 per cent.

Anniversary In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, March 18—(AP)—Mexico celebrated today the twelfth anniversary of the expropriation of nearly all foreign oil companies here. Mexicans call it "the day of economic liberation."

Harker Home Interior Is Ruined In Fire

Occupants Were Carried To Home Of A Neighbor

Firemen combatted flames for nearly an hour and half at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Harker, 707 West Pettis street, which was ablaze Saturday night at 8:52 o'clock, believed due to an overflow in a coaloil stove in the kitchen.

Damage to the house was estimated at $1,500 while loss to the furnishings was estimated at a thousand dollars. All five rooms of the house were left charred.

The blaze which started on the south side of the house, covered the house in a hurry. The strong north wind did not keep the flames from spreading northward. When the firemen came upon the scene, the house was in a mass of flames. Neighbors had very little time to carry any household furnishings to the outside.

Mrs. Haymond Harker, an invalid, being completely paralyzed, except in one arm, was carried from her bed by a neighbor to the home of Mrs. Ida Paxton, across the street. Later, Mr. Harker was carried to the Paxton home in a canvas stretcher, rigged up by the firemen. He suffered a light stroke during the time his home was burning.

One line of hose was utilized in fighting the flames. Firemen worked for a brief interval in a downpour of rain.

Eleven Drown As Trawler Rammed

HALIFAX, N. S., March 18—(AP)—The trawler Gertrude De Costa was rammed and sunk early today after a hard luck cruise on the fishing banks and 11 men of her crew of 17 were drowned.

The inter-island steamer Connector, outbound for St. John's, Nfld., collided with the trawler in the darkness off Halifax harbor.

Both vessels are of Canadian registry. The 115-foot trawler was out of Yarmouth, N. S. All the dead were Novo Scotians except one from Grand Bank, Nfld.

Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier announced in Ottawa that an inquiry will be opened at once.

The Gertrude De Costa picked up only a light load of fish on the banks. Fishing has been poor this season. A few days ago a dory upset and one crewman was lost. His dory mate, Morton Tanner, was rescued. Tanner was one of the 11 who died today.

The trawler's skipper, Capt. Haslem Knuckle, also went down with the ship.

Blast And Fire At Statesboro

STATESBORO, Ga., March 18—(AP)—An explosion and fire demolished half a business block early today, leaving three persons injured and damage estimated at $300,000.

Firemen used blow torches, axes and saws to rescue two men trapped in the wreckage. One was in serious condition.

The blast, just at breakfast time rattled houses and shattered windows blocks away.

Fire Chief Hagen said nobody was certain just what caused the explosion, but that he assumed leaking gas exploded when a furniture company employe lit a heater.

"No Fear" By Frank Answers

President Calls For Cooperation Of Citizens In Coming Census

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

KEY WEST, Fla., March 18—(AP)—President Truman acted today to allay fears at home of the approaching census and back up Secretary Acheson's seven-point proposal for ending the cold war with Russia.

Mr. Truman assured all Americans that they need have "no fear" of giving frank answers to confidential questions asked when the taking of the 1950 census starts April 1.

His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, disclosed that the President was consulted in the drafting of Acheson's two California foreign policy talks, was in "hearty accord" with them and telephoned his congratulations to Acheson at Washington last night.

Meanwhile, Clark M. Clifford, former special counsel to the President, joined Mr. Truman at the "Winter White House" a day after disclosure that he has been hired as Washington counsel for Howard Hughes' Trans World Airlines.

Clifford flew down with Fred M. Vinson, chief justice of the United States, and long-time pal of the President's.

Resigns Counsel Post

Clifford resigned his $20,000-a-year post as presidential counsel Jan. 31 to seek greater remuneration as a private attorney.

Ross told questioning reporters there was "no significance in the visit of the chief justice and the former white house lawyer.

"They are coming in to spend a few days," Ross said. "It is no more than a social visit. That has nothing to do with anything but a vacation."

Ross made a point of discussing the President's telephone call to Acheson who this week laid down a seven-point list of requirements for ending the cold war. Each point calling for a major retreat by Soviet Russia.

He called for Russia to stop blocking German, Japanese and Austrian peace treaties, withdraw its military and police power from eastern European satellites, join in a search for real international atomic control and take other steps he thought necessary for the communist and non-communist world to live together.

Signs Proclamation

The President signed the official proclamation that calls for starting the 17th census on April 1.

In it, he said its sole purpose is to secure statistical information regarding the population, its characteristics, its homes and its farms.

There has been criticism of the authority of census takers to ask some individuals questions about their income.

"No person can be harmed in any way by furnishing the information required," the President's proclamation said. He added information obtained from individuals will not be used for:

1. Purpose of "taxation, investigation, or regulation."

2. In connection with "military or jury service, the compulsion of school attendance."

3. The regulation of immigration.

4. The enforcement of "any national, state or local law or ordinance."

The President said census bureau employes face a heavy penalty should they disclose any answers to confidential questions.

Youth Goes To Sleep At Wheel

Ralph L. Shanahan, 23 years old of 1900 South Quincy avenue went to sleep at the wheel of his 1941 Chevrolet coach about 12:15 o'clock Saturday morning, six and a half miles southeast of Hughesville as he was returning home from his job as a pump station attendant in Houstonia. The Chevrolet apparently veered off the highway, hit a telephone pole and then into a ditch.

Passing motorists, William L. Fisher and Robert Cranfill both of Hughesville vicinity picked up Shanahan at the scene of the mishap and brought him to Bothwell hospital where he was treated for lacerations and a bruised back by Dr. Carl Siegel.

Shanahan said that he was going home from Houstonia, where he works and just dozed off. "It doesn't pay," he added.

Shanahan's car was badly damaged and state trooper Wayne Ailman estimated the damage to be around $250 or $300.

Winter Still Hanging On

Gales Delay Ships As Snow Strikes Northern States

By The Associated Press

Waning winter swung haymakers Saturday at the northeastern seaboard, the southern plains and the midwest.

Gales lashed the Atlantic, delaying inbound ships from one to two days. Heavy snowstorms struck Maine and upper New York state. In the heart of the nation, a third storm, laden with snow and swirling out of the southern plains boiled toward the midwest.

Three deaths attributed to the weather were recorded in upper New York and a fourth in Lawrence, Mass.

Winds up to 40 miles an hour struck New York city's Manhattan borough. LaGuardia Field, in the borough ot queens, reported gusts up to 52 miles. Planes, however, continued to operate on schedule.

Two storms hovered over the Atlantic, one moving out to sea from Portland, Me. Another swept northeast over the ocean about 400 miles east of Newfoundland.

Ships scheduled to arrive in New York were reported one to two days late because of wild seas. The craft included the Queen Mary, the Franconia, the Italian liner Conte Biancamano, the Navy troopship General Maurice Rose, and the Holland-American liner Veendam.

Temperatures dropped in the ares from North Carolina to Kansas.

Maine had up to 14 inches of snow. In upstate New York falls up to four and a half inches were reported and two more inches were expected Saturday night.

In the plains states, southwest Kansas had a two inch snow fall that cheered wheat farmers. It was the first appreciable moisture in the region since October. Garden City, Kans., has had only a quarter of a ninch of moisture since Nov. 1.

Another widespread area of snow extended from western Kansas and eastern Colorado across western Nebraska to the western Dakotas and parts of Montana and Wyoming. Rapid City, S. D., has had nine inches of snow since Friday.

Heavy snowfalls were expected in northern Illinois and Indiana late Saturday night and Sunday.

In an experimental monthly forecast, Jerome Mamias, chief of the weather bureau's extended forecast section at Washington, predicted 30 more days of unusual cold for the eastern two-thirds of the country.

Mamias' long-range forecast was for about normal weather in the western third of the country. He expected rainfall heavier than usual for the south-central, southeastern, and northwestern sections of the country and about normal elsewhere.

Move To Recapture Offensive

Acheson To Map New Campaign In The Cold War With Russians

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Dean Acheson returns to his state department desk tomorrow to map a new campaign to recapture the cold war offensive from Russia.

This may be the roughest and most critical stage of the world power struggle, certainly it poses for Acheson personally the most important task of his career.

Yet some of his aides, and many more remote observers, feel Acheson is undertaking this task against strong odds, with only one free hand—the other being occupied in fending off his critics. They also concede that much of the criticism is Acheson's own fault.

For whatever reasons, bi-partisan conduct of foreign policy has virtually ceased to exist since he became secretary of state 14 months ago: he has minimized his contacts with the public; he has permitted congressmen to think him high-hat.

Victory to Advisers

This week those Acheson advisers who have been telling him he ought to scout around the country and talk about his foreign policy won a victory. Acheson flew to California and made two major addresses. Other talks can be expected; Acheson will see less of the ivory tower and more of Main street.

The gist of his argument will be that the United States should do all it feasibly can to build up strength—economic, political and military—in non-communist areas of the world. He is convinced that this is the best way to win the cold war and avoid world war III.

As for his relations with congress, Senators report he is planning a meeting with congressional leaders next week to enlist support for a new administration policy in the Far East. He indicated in California that the United States may give limited economic and military aid to southeast Asian countries for halting the expansion of communism.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif), long a critic of administration Far East policy, said that in the California speeches Acheson laid the foundation for an effective policy. But Knowland said the secretary was still making a mistake in ignoring the Chinese Nationalists.

Beset by Some Critics

As Acheson gets back to his Washington labors after his western trip, he is beset by the following forces:

1. Those who charge he has been too friendly with communists or communist ideas. For example, there is Senator McCarthy's claim that the state department is riddled with Reds.

2. Those who contend he should right communism abroad more actively, while it has been denied on all sides, there is evidence that the real fight here is between Acheson and Secretary of Defense Johnson. Johnson reportedly sought more dynamic ac-

Millions Must Answer In The Greatest Quiz Program

By Charles Molony

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—The greatest quiz program in history—the 1950 census—starts April 1 for a two-week run in the cities and three or four weeks in rural areas.

It will give an estimated 151,000,000, people in this country (and perhaps 4,000,000 more in U. S. territories and possessions) a once-in-ten-years chance to tell the government about themselves in the interests of prosperity and posterity.

To insure that they do, 140,000 question-primed census counters figure to ring 40,000,000 doorbells, knock on auto-trailer doors, board houseboats, make dog-sled visits to Alaskan igloos—and what-ever else is necessary.

For farmers, the big quiz starts a bit earlier—by mail.

Postal carriers in most farming sectors will begin next Wednesday a five-day delivery of the special agriculture census questionnaires.

The farmer is to write down what crops he raises, farm equipment he owns and so on, then turn in his answers when the census men come around in April with the population and housing questions to be asked farmers and city folk alike.

Penalties Provided

Anyone who refuses to answer could be fined $500 and jailed for 60 days. (Census takers who tattle what they're told can get $1,000 fines and two years in jail).

But census bureau officials don't expect trouble. Most people, they've found, are willing to talk about themselves. They are glad to cooperate for census purposes, at least once a decade. The census has been taken every 10 years since 1790.

The government wants to know your name, address, age, sex, race, martial status, occupation, working hours, income, whether you own your home, what bathing and toilet facilities it has, and so on. Even the kitchen sink gets into it—question: Do you have one?

Nobody will have to answer all the questions about population, housing or agriculture, and some needn't answer any: Mama or papa can speak for everyone in the family if they know the needed information.

There are no fixed hours for the census takers' daily rounds, but you can count on early-hour starts and late-hour finishes.

The counters, or "enumerators" as they're known officially, get paid on a piece-work basis, and the sooner they complete the count in their area the faster they've earned their money.

Twenty Years Term To Abel

U. S. Court Martial Convicts Him In Kidnaping Case

By G. K. Hodenfield

SALZBURG, Austria, March 18—(AP)—A 12-man U. S. army court martial sentenced two military policemen Friday to long prison terms for kidnaping a Romanian-born Austrian and delivering him to Soviet agents for a total of $560.

Cpl. Paul Abel of Bolivar, Mo., was sentenced to 20 years at hard labor and Sgt. John Frankey of New York City to 15 years.

Both also were ordered dishonorably discharged from the Army and to forfeit all pay and allowances.

The court deliberated for two hours and 10 minutes. The conviction and sentences were announced by Col. M. Tharr of San Antonio, Tex., president of the court.

The corporal and sergeant stood rigidly at attention and heard the sentences without show of emotion.

They were found guilty of abducting Oswald Eder and handing him over to the Russians last Nov. 11. The prosecution described Eder as a mysterious former soldier in the German army who has been suspected by several nations of spying.

Written Confessions

Both were convicted of common law kidnaping, false imprisonment, and illegal use of an army jeep. Abel was also convicted of stealing an army radio transmitter. The court dismissed a charge of communicating with a foreign power (Russia).

Written confessions that Abel and Frankey gave to army agents last month were entered in evidence.

They told how Abel was asked to kidnap Eder, who was wanted by the Russians supposedly as an army deserter. The confessions said Abel persuaded Frankey to help him. Eder was picked up in an army jeep at is home in the British sector of Vienna and taken to a rendezvous in the Russian zone, where five Soviet agents handcuffed him and drove away in another vehicle.

Abel and Frankey said they were paid 7,000 schillings (about $280) for the actual kidnaping and had also received another 7,000 schillings from the Russians.

The sentences are subject to review, first by Lt. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes, U. S. high commissioner in Austria, and then by the judge advocate general's office in Washington.

Pushes 'Barrow' Up Pike's Peak

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., March 18—(AP)—Larry Hightower, self styled world's champion wheelbarrow pusher, and his Irish buggy were guests of honor at a St. Patrick's Day ball Friday night.

The 49-year-old Ellensburg, Wash., man pushed his "barrow to the top of Pikes Peak Wednesday and made the return trip down the 14,110 foot mountain in a day.

He said he planned to rest here a few days before heading west—probably to Hawaii and the South Seas.

Should King Leopold Come Home? Question Splits Belgium Wide Open

LEOPOLD AND WIFE: In his native land, no middle ground.

By NEA Foreign Service

BRUSSELS—(NEA)— Belgium is split wide open—politically, geographically and sentimentally—on the question of whether or not King Leopold should be asked to return to his native land, his palace and his throne.

Leopold is still King of the Belgians in name, but since 1944 his brother, Prince Charles, has ruled as regent. It was Leopold's wartime behavior, when he surrendered the army to the Nazis after 18 days of fighting and later was accused of collaboration, that first barred his return.

* * *

Now there are other factors that opponents of Leopold are using as arguments. They say, for example, that his second marriage is illegal, that he exhibited definite pro-Nazi tendencies, and that his commoner wife is going back on her word that she never wanted to be queen.

Those who favor his return have but one argument, but it is a big one. He is the King, they say, and his place is on the throne in Brussels. The pro-Leopold faction bases all its appeals on the 120-year-old royal tradition.

The largest political party in Belgium, the Parti Social Chretien, or Catholic Party, is officially for his return. The next most important party, the Socialists, is officially against. The Liberal Party, the only other major one, is divided. The small but vocal Communist Party, of course, is violently opposed to Leopold's return.

* * *

Geographically, too, Belgium is divided on the question. The agricultural north, home of the Flemish, is pro-Leopold, while the Walloons, who live in the industrial south, are mostly anti-Leopold.

King Leopold himself is supposed to have said he will not come back, no matter what the Parliament does, unless he receives a commanding majority.

* * *

Leopold's second marriage, during the war, to Mlle. Mary Lelia Baels is one of the sore spots with the anti-returners. For one thing, her brother is considered something of a deserter, since he remained in a neutral country during the war and didn't enlist. And her father, too, had an unsavory war record.

For another, he flouted Belgian law by being first married in a religious ceremony, while the law insists a civil ceremony be held first.

When they married, Princess de Rethy, as she is now known, said she didn't ever want to be queen. But the Belgian Constitution insists that the King's wife is his Queen. If they return, she will be the queen, despite her previous assertions that theirs was a morganatic marriage.

There is no middle ground—only "fors" and "againsts." And in the words of one expert Belgian observer, "no matter what happens, it will be dangerous. The voting could divide the country for years."

Electrocuted While Trimming Trees

TULSA, Okla., March 18—(AP)—Clarence Shackleford, 21, intended to quit tree trimming Saturday. He didn't get the chance.

Fellow workmen saw him slump suddenly and go limp against his safety belt Friday while reaching for a top branch. He was electrocuted when his head touched a high-voltage power line and died instantly, police said.

Shackleford came to Tulsa a year ago from Osage, Ark. Funeral services will be held at Berryill, Ark.

Explosion And Fires Kill 15

By The Associated Press

Fifteen persons perished yesterday (Friday) in an explosion and a series of fires in scattered sections of the nation.

A mattress that burst into flames snuffed out the lives of six prisoners—five men and a woman—in the jail at Spray, N. C. Three were white persons and three Negroes. They had been charged with public drunkenness.

Police said there was a possibiltiy one of the six deliberately set fire to the mattress.

At Port Huron, Mich., a savage fire destroyed a concrete block home and wiped out a family of six. Dead were Kenneth Chase, 42; his wife, Phyllis, 32, an expectant mother; and their four children.

An explosion ripped through a small building at Picatinny arsenal in Dover, N. J., killing two men. The victims, identified as James E. Doyle, 50, of Dover, and Daniel H. Costello, 33, of Rockaway, were along in the building.

The building, used for blending and screening rocket powder, was demolished. Three other men, working nearby, were injured slightly.

Cause of the blast was not immediately determined.

Two-year-old Mary Nault of Manchester, N. H., died in a fire that swept the tenement home of her family.

Three other members of the child's family, including her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Nault, were injured. The fire followed an explosion of a stove oil tank.

Time Out To Sell Car On Way To Jail

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 18—(AP)—Although state highway patrolmen arrested Herman Lee Goad, Plattsburg, Mo., he had to agree they were accomodating.

They arrested him on a charge of careless and reckless driving whereupon Goad expressed this desire:

"I'd sure like to sell this car before I go to jail."

So enroute to jail here they stopped at a junk yard and stood by while he haggled over a price for the '1930 truck.

Goad finally sold the car for $20 and then went to jail to await appearance in magistrate court.

Mutilated Body In Two Bundles

CHICAGO, March 18—(AP)—Carpenters found two "bundles" in a snow-flecked ditch Friday that turned out to be the severed sections of a man clubbed, shot and cut in two.

Sheriff's police reported Friday night relatives identified the body as that of George Willis Baldwin, 54, of Terre Haute, Ind. Baldwin, the operator of a one-man window washing service, had been missing since Monday. He usually carried large sums of money.

The killing and mutilation appeared to be one of the most brutal in the city's history.

The victim's hands were bound in front with rope. A bullet had passed through his chest. There was a bruise on the head, indicating he had been blackjacked. The body was severed above the waist.

The upper part of the body was bundled up in a quilt that was tied over the head with ropes and wires. The belt on the lower half of the body was pulled so tight the trousers were closed, sack-like.

Police theorized the victim had been slugged and shot and that his body had been severed with a cleaver or a bolo knife and then brought to the place where the remains were found.

Sergeant William Jansma said an earlier theory that the body had been placed on the Illinois Central railroad tracks and cut in two by a train had been discarded. The tracks are a block and a half from the scene.

Sergeant Jansma said the body will be taken to Terre Haute and that Terre Haute police have been called into the investigation. Terre Haute is 177 miles south of Chicago.

Detectives Joseph Karns and Walter McCarthy said the victim's Navy blue belt bore the stenciled name T. J. Grob. A card in the pocket read, "Willis window cleaning service, fully insured, 218 Tune building, phone C-3760."

There is a Tune building in Terre Haute, where Baldwin operated the William window cleaning service. The Terre Haute phone Crawford 3760 is held by Mrs. Fred Wilkie, operator of a rooming house where Baldwin resided. The Rev. T. J. Grob operates good will industries in Terre Haute. Evelo said Baldwin may have brought the belt from that organization.

Shirtwaists Get Dramatic Treatment

By Kay Sherwood
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The light, soft silhouette of the sheer shirtwaist dress takes on more interest when the fabric used is given crisp handling or printed in unusual patterned effects.

Gossamer silk chiffon, for example, is stiffened by a lining of silk organza to define the silhouette of one trend-setting dress designed by Christian Dior. This two-piece dress has a skirt that follows the straight and narrow line to point up the casual, bloused shirtwaist top with full sleeves which are tightly cuffed above the wrists. Rose chiffon printed with black squares is backed by rose organza. Narrow black piping outlines the pointed collar and front closing as well as breast pockets and the tight cuffs. Cinching in the fullness of the top is a black calfskin belt.

One of the most unusual patterns shown in chiffon is a tweedy print which peps up styling details for another afternoon shirt waist sheer. Two layers of chiffon are used here. Beneath the floating, full skirted dress is a gray silk slip covered with another layer of the chiffon. Raspberry chiffon printed in the same tweed pattern is crushed into a sash. One end of the sash is left free to ripple down the skirt front. A black leather belt worn over the sash provides the sharp contrast needed to accent the misty layers of chiffon.

'Blackout' Before Coed Found Dead

IOWA CITY, Ia., March 18—(AP)—A police officer testified Friday that Robert E. Bednasek said he was playing a "game of blackout" shortly before a beautiful blond coed was found dead.

The officer was one of five witnesses called Friday as the state started introducing testimony in the murder trial of the 24-year-old University of Iowa psychology student. "Blackout" is a stunt in which unconsciousness is produced by holding the breath and squeezing the neck.

Bednasek is accused of choking to death pretty Margaret. (Gee-Gee) Jackson, 20, a psychology student who had been dating and was once "pinned" by Bednasek. Her body was found in a rooming house where he lived.

Earlier, in an opening statement, the defense told the court that Bednasek through treatment with the drug pentathol at University hospitals psychopathic ward could now remember what happened that fatal early morning of Dec. 11.

The defense said that until his treatment, the defendant could not recall what happened after he had playfully placed his hands on Miss Jackson's throat to show the proper way to choke a person.

Refuse Answer To McCarthy

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Citing a Presidential order, the Civil Service Loyalty Review Board tonight refused to answer questions by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) about the case of diplomat John S. Service.

Seth W. Richardson, the board chairman, wrote McCarthy that if he wishes to pursue the matter further he should take it up with President Truman.

McCarthy has charged that Service, foreign service officer assigned to India, is pro-communist and that the State Department has ordered "a complete and thorough whitewash" of his case. The department called McCarthy's charges "dead and discredited."

Service has been ordered back from India to testify personally before the department's loyalty board.

This was recommended by the Civil Service review board and today Chairman Richardson announced he was investigating to find out how McCarthy learned about the review board's recommendation before it was made public.

McCarthy sprang his information last Tuesday to a senate committee which is hearing his charges that the state department is riddled with communist sympathizers.

Earlier this week, in a letter to Richardson, McCarthy asked the board to answer four questions dealing with the review of Service's loyalty record.

Richardson, in his reply today, answered one of the questions and said regarding the others:

"I regret that the all-inclusive terms of the directive of the President under the date of March 13, 1948, in my opinion prevents me from disclosing to anyone not connected with the operation of the program, the contents of any report, record or file relative to the loyalty of employes. I think your questions 1, 3 and 4 fall within the language of the President's order."

Ignore Proposed Chat By 'Phone

KEY WEST, Fla., March 18—(AP)—President Truman today ignored the New York Duncan-Paris American Legion Post's attempt to arrange a long distance telephone call between him and Premier Stalin.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters a member of the Duncan-Paris post made an effort to put through a call from New York at 1:30 p. m. (EST).

The caller, Ross said, was informed no one cared to take the call and to please discontinue efforts to put it through.

He told a news conference yesterday that the President would ignore the proposed telephone peace talk after American Legion headquarters denounced the Duncan-Paris post as "discredited."

Warning Given On Expulsions

PRAGUE, March 18—(AP)—The U. S. embassy warned all American citizens living in Czechoslovakia today they are subject to expulsion at a moment's notice and may be held incommunicado for a long time if arrested.

The embassy issued its warning in a circular letter mailed to all registered American citizens setting down "the facts of life" about the position of foreigners in this Communist-run state.

The letter apparently prompted by recent arrests of westerners in Russian dominated areas and more specifically by the growing number of expulsions here.

The exact number of Americans still in Czechoslovakia could not be determined since some are not registered with the consulate.

Move To Recapture Offensive

tion on Formosa late last year when it looked as if that island might fall quickly to Chinese communists. Washington is periodically filled with reports of a Johnson-Acheson feud.

3. Those who contend that he should favor some dramatic new approach to Russia for atomic weapons controls and world disarmament. Both Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), chairman of the joint atomic energy committee, and Senator Tydings (D-Md), chairman of the senate armed services committe, advocated spectacular moves, which would have forced a showdown with the Russians, Acheson vetoed them. To that extent he broke with McMahon and Tydings on basic policy.

4. Those who don't like Acheson's manner and are alienated by what they consider his occasional air of superiority. His friends—among them Mr. Truman—know him as a warm-hearted, story-telling companion who can be brilliantly charming—but that side of his character has not dominated his relations with congress.

5. Those who held Acheson responsible for the failure of the United States to keep China from going communist. Men like Rep. Judd (R-Minn) have been bitterly outspoken in their criticisms of the state department since Acheson took office. He has in fact had the job of liquidating the China failure and has borne the weight of such public disapproval as there has been for the whole affair.

Acheson himself had done things which aggravated his difficulties. A case in point was his statement that he would not "turn his back" on Alger Hiss, who was convicted of perjury for saying he had engaged in no communist espionage. Acheson's statement was so widely interpreted by his critics as a defense of the acts of which Hiss was accused that Acheson finally had to explain publicly that he meant only to express compassion for a friend in trouble.

Against his handcaps and difficulties Acheson has assets and points of strength. He is accounted by many the most brilliant man in the executive branch of the government; an expert of 10 years experience in foreign policy; a diplomat with a lawyer's skill in dealing with essential facts; a leader who supports his staff—and it has many top-notch men—to the limit.

Acheson's problems may be solved by his skills. But in the weeks just ahead, he is likely to make some new enemies—by trying to widen American markets for foreign goods.

Soviet Zone East Mark In Drop

BERLIN, March 18—(AP)—The Soviet zone's East mark plummeted in value to little more than two cents today. The collapse paralyzed trade in the Russian sector of Berlin.

Merchants held onto their goods rather than accept a currency which had gone down 30 per cent in 24 hours.

Rumors that the Russians would make their revalued ruble the monetary basis in the Soviet satellities, including east Germany touched off the panic. A denial by the East German bank of Emission failed to brake the slide.

The situation dramatized Germans' faith in the West Mark, which is backed by a European recovery and the reputation of the American dollar. It is worth 23.8 cents.

Fifty-two money exchange officers, where Berliners trade East marks for West marks and vice versa, were thronged with long lines of persons, trying to unload every east mark in their possession.

The exchange offices refused to handle any big amounts. They did business only with the small customers. They said they did not have enough West marks on hand to meet the demand.

The offices closed at noon—the usual hour on Saturday—with the official rate pegged at nine East marks to one West mark. The usually realistic black market hit ten to one. Banks indicated new official rates are a virtual certainty when business is resumed Monday.

Posse Captures Robber Suspect

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 18—(AP)—A posse, summoned on a rural party telephone line, captured a youth just 30 minutes after an elderly woman was robbed at her farm home southeast of here today.

State Highway Patrolman R. W. Dreher and W. W. Wood identified the youth as Lawrence Pasley, 22, of St. Joseph, recently released from the state reformatory.

The officers said Parsley admitted stealing a car here this morning and robbing Mrs. Frances Walkup, 85, of $3 or $4.

Mrs. Walkup said a man wearing a handkerchief entered her home and forced her into the living room where he took the money from her purse. Her son, Clarence Walkup, came in and grappled with the man, but the robber fled, leaving the stolen car in the yard.

The Walkups gave an alarm on the party telephone line. Six neighbors, armed with rifles and shotguns, hurried across fields and intercepted the fleeing man.

Parsley is being held in the county jail here for investigation. No charges have been filed against him.

Picked On Wrong Player To Lecture

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 18—(AP)—Branch Rickey picked on the wrong player to lecture today.

Watching one of his pitchers work out in the morning, the Brooklyn Dodger president pulled the youth aside and began a lecture on the finer points of the hurling art. Warming up to his subject, Rickey drew a few diagrams.

The pitcher looked uncomfortable, although he said nothing. Finally, one of Rickey's aides drew the chief aside and explained:

"That's Vincente Lopez, the kid from Havana. Can't understand a word of English."

Nebraska and Pitt Will Renew Their Grid Rivalry

PITTSBURGH, March 18—(AP)—The University of Pittsburgh and Nebraska will renew their football rivalry in 1953 after an 11-year truce.

Pitt Athletic Director Tom Hamilton said today the Cornhuskers and Panthers will wage gridiron wars on October 10, 1953, and November 13, 1954. Sites of the contests are undetermined.

The two schools have played 13 games together. Pitt won 10 of the tilts including the last which was in 1942.

Mrs. Thorpe Is After The Money

By Ted Meier

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—Jim Thorpe, named the greatest male athlete of the half-century in the recent Associated Press poll, is going to make $1,000,000.

You doubt it? Not if you would listen to Patricia Gladys Evelyn Woodbury Thorpe.

The vivacious Patricia told of her plans at the Manhattan hotel where she and her famous husband were staying.

"Jim is the greatest athlete in the world," she said. "But he needs someone to talk for him and see that he gets what is coming to him."

"From now on I'm doing the talking."

Big Jim, now in his 60's, but looking much younger, sat back and smiled at his dynamic wife.

"The other day," she went on, "Jim got a call from a person he has known for years. He wanted Jim to come to his town and tell some of his experiences. Jim said he would be glad to do it, then I got on the phone.

"I asked how much they planned to pay Jim. The reply was 'all expenses, of course.'

"I said Jim's fee will be $500 and expenses and that it was as low as that only because of Jim's friendship for him.

"Anyone who now wants Jim Thorpe to give a talk will have to meet a $1,000 fee and expenses. He's worth every penny."

Mrs. Thorpe also said plans are underway for a movie of Jim's career

Big Jim, who had plenty of downs in a career that has assumed legendary proportions, smiled again.

St. Louis Browns Beat Giants 9-8

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 18—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns made it two in a row over the New York Giants today, dropping the National League club 9 to 8.

St. Louis forced the Giants to use five hurlers in attempting to stem the tide, but got most of its help from poor New York field work.

Bobby Thomson let a ball roll through his legs and Jack Harshman played a scratch hit badly, allowing a St. Louis score in the fifth.

Clint Hartung started for New York, but yielded to Sal Maglie after giving up four runs in the second. Maglie strengthened his hold on a regular berth by giving up only one run in the next three frames.

Wes Westrum slammed a two-run homer in the second, and his Giant teammates pushed over three more on a four hit blasting of Cliff Fannin in the third.

Dick Adair, rookie hurler, yielded four runs, which iced the game for the Browns.

Ohio Buckeyes Beat DePaul In Basketball

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—(AP)—Ohio State's battling buckeyes, warming up for the N.C.A.A. tournament, tonight defeated DePaul 70 to 63 to take the rubber game in their third basketball meeting of the season. Ohio State led at half-time 40-33.

The Bucks take on City College of New York next Thursday in Madison Square Garden in the first game on the N.C.A.A. program.

The Chicago team topped Ohio State here 70-68 in December, in O.S.U.'s opener, but the buckeyes came back in January to take DePaul 70 to 62 in a game played in Chicago.

CCNY Beats Bradley For NIT Title

St. John's Over Duquesne For The Consolation Honors

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—The sizzling sophomores from CCNY staged a brilliant second half comeback tonight to defeat favored Bradley and capture the 13th National Invitational Basketball tournament, 69-61.

Thus CCNY, like San Francisco last year and West Virginia and Utah before that, wrote a Cinderella finish to the Madison Square Garden event that first staged in 1938.

It was the first NIT championship for the CCNY Beavers, and the fifth failure for Bradley—rated the nation's No. 1 team this season—to come through in this event.

Jittery and outplayed in the first half, Nat Holman's inspired Beavers came back with a rush to add the top-seeded Braves of Peoria, Ill., to their impressive list of tournament scalps.

Irwin Dambrot stoked the furnace for unseeded "dark horses" who were given a chance against the star-studded field that began firing exactly a week ago.

Only senior in the starting lineup, Dambrot tossed in 23 points, breaking Bradley's heart with an uncanny push shot from the keyhole area.

First Game

Bob Zawoluk, 6-6 center, hooked in a one-hander with five seconds left tonight to give St. John's of Brooklyn a 69-67 overtime victory over Duquesne in the consolation game of the National Invitation Basketball tournament.

The game, a prelude to the championship tussle between Bradley and CCNY was tied at the end of the regulation playing period, 62-all.

A crowd of 18,000 jamming Madison Square Garden for the windup of the thirteenth NIT event, saw the closest finish of the tournament. St. John's held a 36-35 advantage at halftime. The clubs were never far apart from start to finish.

10-Yard Victory For Don Gehrman

CHICAGO, March 18 — (AP) — Wisconsin's Don Gehrman ran away from G-Man Fred Wilt for a 10-yard victory in a Bankers Mile 're-match" of their famed Wanamaker mile deadlock before a record 17,683 at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

Gehrmann's time was 4:09.5, compared with the 4:09.3 Wanamaker time.

Gehrmann's unprecedented third straight Bankers' triumph came on a masterful-paced race. The spindly badger overtook Wilt at the beginning of the final turn and poured on a stretch kick the former Indiana star could not match.

Midway in the final turn, Gehrmann went flying past Wilt and with every stride in the spring to the tape Wilt faded further behind.

Villanova's John Joe Barry, the Tipperary trotter, set the middle pace, once leading by six yards, but wound up third, ahead of the fourth and last entry, Ohio State's Len Truex.

NEW YORK, March 19—(AP)—There is a great and growing religious revival in America.

Significantly, it is spreading widely among the youth of our post-war generation, the generation that is usually a prety to doubt, disillusion and syniscism.

Recently I received a letter from one of these young people—Miss Josephine Owens of West Helena, Ark.—that told of the happiness her awakened faith had brought her.

Her letter was simply written, artlessly sincere, fervent with a desire to help others. She said I could give her letter a wider audience if I wanted to, "because it is so important that people wake up."

Lenten Sermon

And so I will. Here is one girl's Lenten sermon—an old message from a young and zealous heart:

"Oh, if I could get everyone to become a Christian, what a blessing it would be—for them!

"I used to worry continually about money matters, then hydrogen bomb, etc. Now those things aren't important to all. Only God is important in my life. I only want to live so that I can serve him. He will keep me from harm—and also anyone else who will believe in him and trust and have faith.

"God has made me a 'fisher of men.' My purpose now is to win others for him. But people are hard. They don't want to know about God. But once they do, then they see what they have been missing.

Take Things for Granted

"God does many things for men which they take for granted. Think of the air, the sun and rain, the clothes we wear, the food we eat—and so many, many other things. God makes all these possible, but people take them for granted. If they don't get them they raise all kinds of cain about the Senators, the President and the Governors—when, if it weren't for God's good hand, these things would never even be.

"Think how wonderful he has been to America! We don't have a wartorn country like Europe and Asia. We have just about every possible comfort and joy, and yet we turn our backs on the Saviour.

"You say it is difficult to be a Christian? Well, dear people, once the loving Savious has truly touched your hearts, you won't want to do wrong. You will only want to do the Lord's will.

Christ Most Important

"The other day I asked a poor, crippled Negro man who was begging on the street, 'are you a Christian?' And he replied, 'ye'm, for 40 years.' Just think, that pour soul, crippled and having to beg for a living, giving 40 years to Christ!

"Once people know Christ they never want to leave him. There is so much he can do for you—if you will only let him. He is more important than anything or anybody. And the sooner people find this out, the better off they will be.

"Oh, dear people, wake up! Know and accept Christ as your Saviour. Give your heart to him. Serve him and he will truly bless you. Repent of your sins. Confess your sins, believe in him, obey his will, and you will receive a greater joy than any you have ever known."

Japanese Canaries With Truman Family

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP) Two Japanese canaries are making themselves at home with the Truman family in the Blair house.

They recently won a contest staged for bird fanciers of Kyushu Island and were given to the Trumans by a bird club of Dukuoka. They made the trip from Japan by airplane.

White House staffers say they warble just like American canaries. If mates, they porbably will be called "Harry" and "Bess."

D. W. Hodkin Fatally Injured As Cars Collide

KANSAS CITY, March 18—(AP)—Denzel W. Hodkin, 32, Webb City, Mo., was injured fatally Friday in a head-on collision of two cars on U. S. highway 71 in southern Platte county.

He died in an ambulance en route to Kansas City.

Mrs. Rosa M. Wells, 49, Kansas City, and Ernest Wesley Sears, 60, Kansas City, Kas., occupants of the other car, were injured.

Hodkin, employed at setting up window displays, had been working out of St. Joseph, Mo., recently.

Gen. Fairchild Dies At Ft. Myer

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Gen. Muir S. Fairchild, 55 vice chief of staff of the United States Air Force, died unexpectedly Friday night of a heart attack while at his quarters at nearby Fort Myer, Va.

Gen. Fairchild was a native of Bellingham, Washington.

He entered the service as a second lieutenant in the aviation section of the signal officers reserve corps in 1918. He reached the rank of major general in 1942.

During the First World War he served in Italy and later on the French front with the French Air Forces.

Gen. Fairchild was pilot on a goodwill flight by U. S. planes around South America in 1926-1927.

He held a number of decorations, including the distinguished flying cross and the croix de guerre.

Gen. Fairchild became a four star general upon his appointment as vice chief of staff on March 27, 1948.

Mrs. Fairchild was with her husband when he was fatally stricken about 9:15 p. m. EST tonight.

Two weeks ago the general had undergone a thorough check at the Hot Springs, Ark., Army and Navy hospital and had been reported in good condition, Air Force officials said.

Americans ate an everage of 80 pounds of beef, 70 pounds of pork and six of lamb and mutton in 1948.

Brownie

The annual Tea, commerorating the Birthday of Girl Scouting in the United States was held at the Elks Club Saturday afternoon, from two o'clock until five o'clock. Girl Scouts, Brownie, Intermediate and Senior Scouts, with their leaders, troops from all parts of town were guests of the Sedalia Council of Girl Scouts, during the afternoon.

The Juliette Low representatives from each troop presented the troops donation to the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund.

This function has two purposes: To keep alive the memory of the Founder of Girl Scouting in the United States and to assist in the promotion of Girl Scouting and Girl Guiding throughout the world as the movement's contribution to world peace and good will. To carry out this second purpose, contributions are raised for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. The world friendship work gives real meaning to the fourth Girl Scout Law, "A Girl Scout is a friend to all and a sister to every other Girl Scout," and reflects our country's growing awareness to its international responsibilities. Mrs. Philip McLaughlin and Mrs. J. M. Bailey were co-chairman of the Tea. The Leaders and Girl Scouts from Broadway and Whittier, arranged the decorations for the Tea.

Assistants at Tea Table

Council members, friends and former council members, assisting at the tea table were: Mmes. J. A. Lamy, W. F. Keyser, Jos. Quinn, H. C. Salveter, D. Kelly Scruton, C. A. Wright, R. E. Gouge, H. F. Mrs. Frank Yeager, troop 31, Broadway, 5th grade, entertained members of her troop at her home Monday afternoon, to give the Girl Scouts an opportunity to complete requirements on the Cook Badge and Hostess' Badge. The girls had an equal share in preparing the meal, including the menu, table decorations, serving and cleaning up, all troop members were present.

Mrs. Frank Rouchka, leader of troop 20, 7th and 8th grade, Sacred Heart, afforded her troop members the opportunity to complete the Cook and Hostess' badge in the school cafeteria, Monday evening. This was a Mother, Daughter party. The troop members did all the planning, cooking and serving of the Chili and home made cake, making up the principal part of the menu. After the cleaning up was completed the entire group went to the Gym, where a game of volleyball was enjoyed, Mother against Daughter, the score has not been announced.

Juliette Low Party

FINGERPRINTS Don't Lie

By Rupert Hughes

Copyright 1950 by Rupert Hughes
Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Refusing to believe that fingerprint evidence is conclusive that her fiance Paul Moody killed her father, Azalea Palmer has engaged private detective Martin Queripel to investigate the case. After Azalea tells her story to the detective, she makes a few careless comments on the police investigation which at once arouses Queripel's interest.

• • •

XVIII

WHEN a weary twig of a tree released its fruit and let an apple thump to the ground at the feet of Sir Isaac Newton, it sent his mind along a path which led to the discovery of the law of gravity. It was thus that Azalea Palmer's next words gave the detective Martin Queripel what his French ancestors called "furiously to think."

Yet Azalea laughed more with scorn than humor when she said:

"What's to prevent that fingerprint man from saying that he found those fingerprints of mine on the telephone, and then accusing me of murdering my own father? It wouldn't be any more ridiculous than accusing Paul of it."

The young lawyer, Harley Kenyon looked at Queripel and smiled at Azalea's quaint notion; but Queripel's intense meditation changed to a look of startled wonder when Azalea added lightly:

"Why, didn't that very fingerprint man, when he finished with us and was leaving the room—didn't he call out to somebody in the room where my father's body was lying—didn't the fingerprint man shout at somebody: "Kelso, I told you to keep away from that telephone!"

Queripel winced as if struck, and said:

"You didn't tell me that before!"

"I never thought of it till just now when we were talking of that fingerprint man. Is it important?"

"It might be," said Queripel, not daring to tell her, hardly daring to imagine how important it might be.

To confuse the confusion—and it is out of confusion that order arises—Timothy O'Hea blundered in.

"Is it 'Kelso'—the man's name you're just after mentionin', Miss?"

"Kelso," she assented. "He was all over the place. He came in later and told Detective Fleming about how he'd found out that certain people had seen Paul go into the house, and force his way through the door in spite of my father's trying to keep him out. It was Kelso who was sent to arrest Paul. If you could have seen his ugly face light up when he got word to go arrest Paul at his studio! And Kelso took along the fingerprint man, who had sworn at him for touching that fatal telephone the murderer used to kill my father."

O'Hea interposed. "That Kelso is as bad as they make 'em. When the big blow-up comes in the police department, he'll be one of the first and worst. He's one of the vice squad graduates. And he goes about with a woman as bad as he is—Nelda Croft, she calls herself."

AT the mention of that name, Azalea flung up her head and seemed to be listening. And she was listening—to her memory.

"Nelda Croft?" she thought aloud. "I remember hearing the name when my father was talking to the butler once. The butler said, 'You're wanted on the telephone, sir, by Miss—Miss Croft.' I was in another room but I couldn't help hearing my father say: 'Remember this. I'm never at home—never! when you get a call from that blackmailing—'" She paused.

When Queripel and Kenyon and O'Hea exchanged glances now, it was almost as if their eyes were billiard balls caroming off one another for an important shot.

They had no theories as yet, but dancing about in their brains were the glittering elements of which theory is made.

There was so long a silence that Azalea rose and said:

"I've taken too much of your time. I'd better leave you a chance to use your brains. Could I ask what's the first thing you plan to do?"

• • •

QUERIPEL answered for Kenyon: "I imagine that the first thing for your lawyer to do will be to get himself accepted and recorded as Paul Moody's lawyer. He'll have to see Paul, of course, and get his consent to our working for him."

"Tell him it was my wish, and the only thing that will make me happy. I couldn't be happy while he is in danger. Tell him it is the only thing that will save me from despair. Shall I write it?"

"If he won't take our word," said Queripel, "I'll ask you to do just that. But I think we can make him listen to reason. Once we have his permission, I think that, while Kenyon here is mapping out the legal steps he has to take, I'll go over and see that fingerprint man in the Crime Laboratory, and look into his collection. I'll ask him about this man Kelso. I still believe that fingerprints don't lie. But it's just possible that they might be misquoted."

Azalea put out her hand to Queripel across the desk and he clasped it in both of his. It was like steel in velvet. She gave her hand to Kenyon, and he barely saved himself from bending over to kiss it. When she put out her hand to O'Hea, he stared at it in surprise and handled it as if it were a little bird. He fell over his feet as he rushed to the door to open it for her.

Worship Service For the Deaf

A worship service for the deaf people of the Sedalia area will be conducted Sunday evening at 7:30 in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Broadway and Massachusetts, by Richard Matern, student of theology at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis.

The entire service will be conducted both orally and in the sign language.

St. Patrick's Day Tea At J. Lamy Home

A St. Patrick's day tea was given Friday afternoon by the Council of Sedalia Garden clubs, at the home of Mrs. John E. Lamy, 814 West Fourth street, from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock.

Guests were members of the nine garden clubs and were received by Mrs. Lamy, hostess, Mrs. Oscar DeWolf, president of the council, Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, Mrs. Herbert Seifert, Mrs. J. C. Saunders, Mrs. F. M. Nicholas, Mrs. A. B. Potts, Mrs. H. L. Netherton, Mrs. Leonard Williams, Mrs. R. S. Haggard, Mrs. E. C. Cline, Mrs. Paul Read, Mrs. E. C. Martin and Mrs. Nathan Jones.

Huckleberry was used effectively in decorating the home. In the dining room the large round table was covered with an imported linen cloth, with a deep lace design around the edge. The center of the cloth was also lace and between was a wide band of exquisite cutwork. The table and cloth both had been given Mrs. Lamy by her grandmother, the late Mrs. C. E. Messerly, and the cloth had been made especially for the table. The table was centered with an arrangement of white snapdragons, white iris and fern in a silver bowl around which were tall lighted tapers in silver candelabra forming a V shape. In front of the flowers was a large punch bowl filled with lime punch. Carrying out the St. Patrick color scheme were tea cakes decorated in green and green mints. On the buffet huckleberry was used in tall silver vases.

Presiding at the punch bowl were Miss Lucy Bothwell, Mrs. Gilbert Jones, Mrs. W. J. Frost, Mrs. Carrie Hieronymus, Mrs. W. W. Murphy, Mrs. D. W. Heckart, and Mrs. Winston Ream.

Mrs. Frank Coffman was in charge of the dining room and was assisted by Mrs. C. H. Joy, Mrs Roy I. Coplen, Mrs. G. W. Walk and Mrs. Al Schreiner.

Music for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. J. W. Maunders and Mrs. Dan Robinson presided over the guest book.

Arrangements for the tea were made by Mrs. L. H. Hodges, chairman of the social committee and Mrs. Carrie Hieronymus, chairman of the program committee.

The tea was attended by about one hundred garden club members.

Mo-Pac Women to Have Tea Monday Night

The Missouri Pacific Women's club will have a membership tea in the women's lounge of the Elks home Monday night, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

All women members of all Missouri Pacific employes are invited.

Women Plan to Coordinate Activities

Plans for co-ordinating the activities of the various Missouri Pacific Women's clubs were a principal topic of discussion at the annual conference of Missouri Pacific Women's Club presidents which was held at Monroe, La., March 13 and 14, according to Mrs. Frank Hanigan, who represented the Missouri Pacific Women's club of Sedalia at the conference.

"Presidents of 36 clubs from cities in the 11-state area served by the Missouri Pacific Lines were at Monroe," said Mrs. Frank Hanigan, "and a thorough exchange of ideas gave all of us a keener insight into what our clubs can accomplish for our communities and thereby further the interests of our railroad."

A Common Interest

Each Missouri Pacific Women's club is entirely autonomous, Mrs. Frank Hanigan pointed out, but each has a common interest in that membership is drawn from among wives, sisters or mothers of Missouri Pacific employes, as well as from the ranks of the railroad's feminine workers. The annual conference is held to cement the bonds of friendship between the various clubs and to provide a forum to which each club may bring its problems for solution and, in turn, exchange ideas with each other.

In addition to the purely business sessions, all of which were held in Monroe, the entertainment feature of the two-day conference was a trip to nearby Natchez, Miss., where the annual garden pilgrimage is in progress. A tour of ante bellum homes and lush and colorful gardens was a feature of the trip.

Recently Married By Rev. Croxton

Miss Dorothy Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Campbell of Windsor and Clayton Huebner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Huebner of Ionia, were married recently in the home of the Reverend Thomas Croxton in a single ring ceremony.

The bride chose for the marriage a navy blue dress with black patented accessories. Mrs. James Van Noy was maid of honor and wore a kelly green suit with cocoa brown accessories. They both wore a corsage of pink carnations. Mr. James Van Noy was best man.

The couple is residing at 401 West Seventh street.

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

SUITS ARE THE TALK OF THE TOWN—and why shouldn't they be? There isn't anything more practical or comfortable to wear—provided you get the right type that has the lines that will do the most for you. The boxy lines have been perfected this season in such a way that they are more flattering than ever, and the coat can double as a topper. Most of them have just one button at the neck.

For those of you who prefer the fitted suits, there are some beautiful styles and you will naturally be wanting a topper to go with them.

Spend time and thought in selecting your accessories. They can make or ruin your suit you know. There is a gala array of colors and although it sometimes takes time to match them, it is time well spent. Easter is only a few weeks away and the longer you wait to make your selections, the less you will have to choose from.

'The Man Who Came to Dinner'

A scene in the first act of the play, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," presented by the Pettis Players, which will be repeated Wednesday night at Smith-Cotton high school, under the sponsorship of the Kiwanis club. (Robert Zoernig Photo)

Laughs will be frequent when the Pettis Players, Sedalia's own community theatre group, repeat their three-act comedy, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," on Wednesday night at Smith-Cotton Auditorium.

The role of Sheridan Whiteside, "the man," is taken by Michael J. Bogutski, who scored a hit when the play was first given on March 1st. Whiteside, an eminent man of letters, is on a lecture tour of the midwest when he injures his hip on the icy doorstep of his dinner hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Stanley, played by Otis W. Wiley and Mrs. Ted Gardner. The kindly Stanleys taken their distinguished guest back into their home and provide him with a doctor and nurse—whereupon he proceeds to disrupt the whole household.

Story of the Play

Repaying their hospitality in what his secretary, Maggie Cutler, played by Mrs. C. W. Stephenson, assures him of his "usual charming manner," Whiteside takes over the lower floor of the Stanley home, and even forbids the family to use the telephone or the front stairs. His constantly insulting remarks, his eccentric behavior and his equally eccentric stream of guests, soon drive the Stanleys to the breaking point. Conniving to break up a romance between his secretary and Bert Jefferson, a local newspaperman played by Frank F. Evans, Whiteside calls in the services of a glamorous actress, Lorraine Sheldon, played by Mrs. Ben Klein, and a famous English playwright and composer, Beverly Carlton, played by Scott Webber. The manner in which Lorraine is finally disposed of by Banjo (Jack Meyers), who can only be a prototype of one of the Marx Brothers, provides one of the highlights of the play.

Directors of Play

The play was directed by Mrs. John Metcalf and Michael Bogutski, and the supporting cast includes Bettye Ellsworth, Donald Harrison, Gayle Scruton, C. E. Alden, Mrs. William Ward, Mrs. Fred Rose, Ted Gardner, Marilyn Williams, Finney Bryant, Dusty Wiley, Bob Younger, Bob Fisher, Dick Riker, Jim Clevenger, Bill Taylor, W. D. Bruce and William Ward. The parts of choir boys are taken by Robert Rialti, James White, Albert Fox, Richard Shoemaker, James Satterwhite, Jerry Fox, Harry Lynn Satterwhite and Donald Hofheins.

The production is sponsored by the Sedalia Kiwanis Club.

Betty Lou Snyder Has a Party

Miss Betty Lou Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Snyder, 1523 East Broadway, entertained Wednesday evening with a party at her home.

The evening was spent in conversation and dancing.

Guests included Carolyn Bellmer, Billy Berry, Betty Bodine, Bill Bowers, Bonnie Brauer, Floyd Burton, Sonny Broyles, Bill Cline, Arthur Conley, George Corson, Pat Croy, Dan Doty, Don Dowdy, Jim Dowdy, Jerry Dowdy, Sue Thompson, Delores Turner, Jim Shy, Beth Whitfield, Ray Young, Tiny Young, Mary Ann Young, Bill Zoernig and Margie Scruton.

Refreshments of hot-dogs, cokes, and doughnuts were served throughout the evening.

Lots of Rules for Long Life Given by Aged Persons

By Elliott Chaze

DENVER, March 18—(AP)—With science bent on abusing and fusing the atom you perhaps have wondered at one time or another about your chances of living to a ripe old age.

So, barring the possibility of your being baked by a sunlike bomb, destroyed by germ warfare, or mowed down by unfriendly Martians, here are some tips on how to reach the age of 90 and upwards:

Mrs. Elizabeth Myers of Denver, 101 years old, is a disciple of the early-to-bed-early-to-break-fast school.

She lost her sight about five years ago, but is able to walk unassisted about her daughter's home, likes all kinds of food, drinks an occasional highball with the family. Her skin and hair are remarkably lovely and she says: "I never did much in the way of fussing over myself."

She believes a good code for living long and well is that of investing "a lot of love in your family—and not worrying any more than you have to."

Belives in Bees

Mrs. Mary Ferrier, 93, also of Denver, thinks that the fact somebody gave her a swarm of bees for a wedding present back in 1875, has helped keep her healthy.

"I like milk and honey and think they're wonderful health foods," she says.

Mrs. Ferrier, a teetotaller, lives alone and does all her own housework and cooking. She's a bit sheepish that during a minor illness she once drank a teaspoonful of wine each day for a week "to settle my stomach."

Jose Nicherson, 92, who runs a small ranch near Pagosa Springs, Colo., and who still mends fences and rides a cow pony, has been less careful of his stomach.

Chronic Pipe Smoker

The wiry, blue-eyed Nickerson, is a chronic pipe smoker and takes a nip "whenever I want it." He says that in his younger days he conducted a number of strenuous experiments with hard drinks and doesn't think he's any the worse for it. As for food, he favors plenty of raw beef, bloodsausage and bread.

"I've done a lot of my eating and sleeping outdoors," Nickerson says. "I think food goes down better and sleep does you more good in the fresh air."

Or take Mrs. Mary Lathrop, attorney at law, who frowns on cake and pie and coffee and tea, never had a smoke or a highball and sleeps seven or eight hours every night.

Mrs. Lathrop, who is only 85 and has practiced probate and real-estate law here just a little more than a half-century, perhaps doesn't belong in this survey at all. But if you're willing to discount her junior status, her advice is that "being raised in a Quaker family is a very healthy thing. My parents ate and lived simply—and I grew up that way."

Isn't Critical of Some

Another Denver woman, 99-year-old Mrs. Margaret Sharp, doesn't drink or smoke, but isn't critical of the habits of younger generations. Her observation on the modern way of life: "I think morals are getting worse because folks are getting smarter."

Lewis Cavender Kees, 93, of Englewood, Colo., smokes several cigars a day, walks a lot and on most days drinks one glass of beer at a neighborhood pub. He reads at least one verse in the Bible every night.

Mrs. Addie West, 90, of Denver, is convinced that parsnips played no mean role in bringing her through the years with a minimum of damage. She raises her own parsnips in the back yard, likes them with ham, sausage, bacon or fish. She walks to church every Sunday, thinks "it's nice to be a good walker."

If the Atoms Don't Get You

So, in summary, if you want to live a long time remember that you must:

(1) Smoke—or not smoke.
(2) Drink—or not drink.
(3) Eat simply—or eat anything you wish.
(4) Spend most of your time either outdoors or indoors.

If you follow this advice closely, and if your ancestors were a long-lived group, and if you haven't fallen heir to some chronic malady, you really have a fine chance of reaching 90.

That is, of course, if the atoms don't get you.

Great Minds Run In the Same Rut

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Great (movie) minds run in the same rut: three films, Republic's "State Police Patrol," Lippert's "Highway Patrol" and Columbia's "Prowl Car" all went into production on the very same day.

And further on the subject of names, RKO cast actress Sally Coroner as a hospital patient near death in "The Wall Outside."

Basketball Letters To 8 S-C Boys

Bill Holst Led In Scoring With 17 Points A Game

The basketball lettermen for Smith-Cotton high school were announced Friday. Eight boys earned monograms for the 1949-50 season. The eight boys gave top notch performance in the past season. The lettermen are:

Bill Holst, center; Ralph Walker, guard; Dale Ruffin, forward; Bill Brown, forward; Bill McCrary, guard; Marvin Lankenau, guard; Bill Morgan, forward, and Dean Edwards. Six of these boys are seniors and will graduate this spring, leaving only juniors, Morgan and McCrary as lettermen on next year's team.

Holst Averaged 17 Points

Bill Holst, the Tiger star center, led the team easily in the scoring department over the season, as he racked up 197 field goals and 89 free throws for a total of 483 points, giving him an average of 17 points per game. This is one of the best scoring records on the books for an individual high school player in Sedalia. Holst's average was considerably higher before the tournaments started, but he had some rough going in the torrid play which kept him from having an even better average. Ralph Walker took the second spot in team scoring with 257 points. This gave the classy Tiger guard an average of 8.9 points per game. He also led in the percentage of free throws made as he connected with 64 per cent of his charity tosses. The other two top Tiger scores were Dale Ruffin with 192 points and Bill Brown with 188 points.

Good Season

Although Sedalia had to be content with second place in the C.E.M.O. conference, they had a good season with 24 victories as against five defeats. The Tigers were one of the sharpest defensive outfits in the state as they held their opponents to a total of 936 points, an average of 32 points per game.

The Tigers also turned in a top offensive performance — with a total of 1,471 points for a game average of 51 points. Their offensive average suffered in the tourneys at the end of the year as it stood at almost 53 points before the regional. The Tigers trailed the Hannibal Pirates both in the pre-season tourney and the C.E.M.O. conference race. Sedalia had an 8-2 conference mark, while Hannibal won on a 10-0 mark. Sedalia lost three games to the Pirates during the entire season. Smith-Cotton had their worst tourney in the Clinton meet, as they came up with only the consolation. The Tigers went on to win the regional crown at Boonville and advanced to the state tournament. This was the first time in a long while that Sedalia has gone to the state fracas. In the state tourney Sedalia started off sharp by beating Springfield in the first round 38 to 34. Then in the quarter-finals Smith-Cotton met defeat at the hands of Clinton, who went on to take third in the state.

Next Year

The fact that Smith-Cotton will have only two lettermen back for next season makes the basketball prospect at the high school look rather dim. The situation may not be quite so bad though, as there will be a lot of good "B" team boys coming up to aid the Tiger cause. The hardest man to replace on the Tiger squad will be Bill Holst. However, Cooper, of the "B" team and Menefee appear to be the top candidates. Morgan and McCrary, the two underclass lettermen will be in the line-up next year with several other strong boys to fight for the other starting positions.

Babe Zaharias Paces Golf Meet

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 18—(AP)—The incomparable Babe Didrikson Zaharias today blasted out a 73 to stand six strokes ahead of the field at the three-quarter mark of the Titleholders' golf meet.

Her third-round tally on the torturous 6,619-yard Augusta Country club course was the second best of the tournament. It was just one stroke off her first round 72, the meet's best so far.

It made her 54-hole total a formidable 223.

If she can shoot a 75 tomorrow in the finale—and she will unless there is a bad slump—a new Titleholders record will be set. The present mark, a 299, by Peggy Kirk of Findlay, Ohio, was shot in 1949.

Claire Doran managed to hold second place with another hot round. Doran, who teaches Latin in a Cleveland high school, shot a 74 for a 229 total—a lag of six strokes.

Louise Suggs, National Open champion from Carrollton, Ga., moved into third place with today's 75 for a 232 total. Her playing mate, Carol Deringer of Tiffin, Ohio, is fourth with 233.

Marilynn Smith, Wichita, Kas., had a 76 today for 243.

Springfield Wins Central College Relays

FAYETTE, Mo., March 18—(AP)—Springfield high school won the Class A section of the Central college indoor relays today with a bare 5-point margin over second place East High of Kansas City. Raytown took the Class B trophy by an overwhelming score of 74 12/15.

The Class A finish (5 schools): Springfield 57 5/6, East of Kansas City 52 5/6, Maplewood-Richmond Heights 38 7/12, North Kansas City 30 9/12, and Lillis of Kansas City 10.

Class B (10 schools): Raytown 74 12/16, Edina 37 9/15, Warrenton 18, Excelsior Springs 17⅓, Liberty 14 2/15.

Big League Training Camp Briefs

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 18—(AP)— The Brooklyn Dodgers outslugged the Philadelphia Athletics 16 to 15 today in an exhibition game that produced five home runs.

Rookie third sacker Bobby Morgan's three-run homer in the ninth highlighted a Dodger rally that put the game on ice against pitcher Carl Scheib.

MIAMI, Fla., March 18—(AP)—Boston's Red Sox blew a six-run lead today and fell before the World Champion New York Yankees 15-9 in a free hitting, poorly pitched pre-season exhibition.

Frank Shea, who started for the Yankees, was wilder than the March winds as he gave up five walks and was belted for two home runs.

LOS ANGELES, March 18—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2 today for their second consecutive exhibition win over the steel city nine.

The Pirates outhit the Cubs 10-6 but two of the Chicago wallops were homers, each coming with a man on. They were hit by Roy Smalley and Andy Pafko.

OAKLAND, Calif., March 18—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians pushed across three runs in the ninth today to win 7-4 over Oakland of the Pacific Coast League before 6,290 baseball fans.

PASADENA, Calif., March 18—(AP)—Floyd Baker singled in the 11th inning with the bases loaded today to give the Chicago White Sox a 2-1 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

The win gave the Sox a .500 average in their eight exhibition games thus far.

Chico Pieretti, who relieved Jack Bruner with the bases filled and the score tied in the ninth inning, was the winning pitcher.

Wooten Retires From Organized Baseball

WINTER GARDEN, Fla., March 18—(AP)— Earl (Junior) Wooten, speedy center fielder sold to Kansas City by Chattanooga, announced today that he has retired from organized baseball.

Wooten, contacted by Chattanooga baseball officials at his home in Pelzer, S. C., said he would not report to Kansas City because of contract disagreements.

The former Washington outfielder said he had accepted a position with a textile mill at Pelzer as assistant athletic director in charge of baseball and basketball.

Sacred Heart Wins Cage Tournament

Grade School Team Beat Hughesville By Score Of 30-18

The Sacred Heart grade school basketball team turned on the heat and beat a strong and stubborn Hughesville grade school quintet to win the basketball trophy Friday afternoon in the Sacred Heart Grade School invitational tournament, by the score of 30-18. The Sacred Heart lads, playing their best game of the season, started fast and rolled up a 16 to 3 lead at the half. Hughesville bounced back and played the Sacred Heart boys even up in the second half, and as the final whistle blew the score stood 30-18, in favor of the grade school Gremlins.

High Scores

Tommy Adams with 10 points and Paul Mehl with 9 were the high scorers for Sacred Heart, while Wells and Dawson with 6 points each topped the Hughesville scoring. While the Sacred Heart team play in winning the finals was superb, Jimmy Dick's defensive and offensive play was outstanding. Dicky Stohr's rebound work, and Tiny Burke's passing gave the Gremlins the necessary edge to assure victory.

In their two previous meetings this season, Hughesville had one win and Sacred Heart one. With the ending of the tournament, Sacred Heart also closes its grade school volleyball and basketball activities.

Hughesville Girls Win

In the volleyball finals Friday afternoon, the Hughesville girls beat Houstonia by the score of 29 to 18. Houstonia found itself in the second half, but could not overcome the substantial lead Hughesville piled up in the first stanza. Schroeder of Hughesville, with 8 points and Blackburn of Houstonia with 6, were the leading scorers.

The Sacred Heart girls volleyball team proved too much for the LaMonte girls, as Sacred Heart girls won the consolation award by the score of 37 to 26. "Cappy" Bopp with 8 points and Carol Mettler and Betty Kline with 7 were high scorers for Sacred Heart, while King of LaMonte, with 7 tallies, was high for the LaMonte girls.

The St. Patrick boys put up a gallant stand against Warsaw as they dropped the boys basketball consolation by the score of 20 to 12 in favor of Warsaw. Tuters and Halloway of Warsaw with 7 points each and Wolf of St. Pat's with 6 were the high point men.

Big Success

While the grade school tournament was somewhat of a novel idea for the new Sacred Heart gym, there was every indication that the participating schools had lots of fun and that the tournament was a big success. The Sacred Heart grade school was host of the tournament and no admission was charged.

Sport Scraps

(By D. KELLY SCRUTON)

WRESTLING is another form of entertainment just as baseball, football, basketball and other athletic sports, but Wrestling has a way of giving added attraction to their schedules to encourage people to attend and get a "bang" out of an evening. An attraction is coming this week to the Pettis County wrestling show in Gorgeous George who has been topping the drawing cards to such entertainment.

Proving the statement he is a head line attraction, recently a sports magazine gave an accounting of men in sports drawing large sums of money over the past year. Gorgeous George was among the top five drawing down $154,000, of which a good percentage was taken over by the man with the long whiskers, last March 15.

A Hollywood entertainer, George did considerable wrestling on the Coast, before taking suggestions from several famous movie stars and radio entertainers that he could by turning "Gorgeous" become a real headliner. He went to extremes by hiring a valet, a chauffeur, and then getting his hair-do at leading beauty parlors over the country. Although, starting off to do it for the purpose of becoming an attraction, he has fallen to his own whims and actually is living his life in this manner.

Providing his standing in the entertainment world, he recently was in a motion picture shown at the Liberty Theatre, many times he is referred to by radio stars such as Jack Benny, Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra, Bob Hope and others. Even in a fiction story in Colliers magazine a couple of weeks ago, a reference was made to Gorgeous George.

So often has his name been referred to it has become a "household" reference.

Today in Kansas City two old friends will get together in Bob Hope and Gorgeous George. Hope is entertaining in the auditorium at Kansas City.

BASEBALL, not only is the talk on the lips of fans interested in Major Leagues, but it is also becoming a daily discussion around Sedalia as to what Sedalia and Central Missouri will have this year. Gene Kurash, Missouri State Semi-Pro Commissioner was in Sedalia the past week seeking information regarding the local set-up. Sedalia is to be the home of Missouri's Annual tournament again Kurash announced.

Already plans are gradually being made to give Sedalia a strong semi-pro baseball team, one which will be real competition for the State tournament and one which will gain the respect as is given the ball club at Holden, Mo. Holden in the past three years has gradually built itself into an organization which has a steady following of more than 1,000 fans each Sunday.

Kurash has been making a tour of Missouri arranging for District tournaments with the thought in mind of bringing to Sedalia the best in Semi-Pro baseball teams. "I do not want, and I do not intend to let weak teams enter this tournament. It must and will be built on a high standard so when a baseball fan goes to a game he can really enjoy good baseball each game he sees, instead of one good game and a possible 'slaughter' in another, or even two bad ones in an evening.

"That's another reason I am interested in Sedalia putting in the field a high class ball club like they did in years gone by. I am interested in District tournaments because I feel they will result in the weeding out of the weaker class of teams." Continuing Kurash said, "I don't like to waste time watching a lousy team and I don't expect to inflict such treatment on baseball fans who will attend the tournament."

Personally I like the attitude of Kurash on the tournament. I think he is endeavoring to build baseball for baseball and not a personal gain. He has already indicated the prize monies to be warded the winning teams will be increased over previous years, in accordance with the attendance at the games.

The 1950 tournament has been scheduled for the latter part of July with the actual dates to be announced later.

8000 Sandlotters To Be Recognized

WICHITA, Kas., March 18—More than 8,000 outstanding young sandlot baseball players will be recognized for performance from approximately 500 circuits being organized in the 1950 National Association of Leagues, the National Baseball Congress announced today. The 16 outstanding players in each affiliated league are to be awarded the N.B.C. All-League certificates.

In addition, the league champion of each circuit will be presented an elaborate trophy through the N.B.C. by the bottlers of Coca-Cola. Leading team of July standing will automatically qualify in its respective state championship tournament in July, preceding the 16th annual National tournament at Wichita, Aug. 18 to 31.

All players in affiliated leagues will be under the N.B.C. nationwide player contract system, unable to change to teams outside the league without release. A resume of each affiliated league including final standings and names of leagues, also team officials, will be presented in the following issue of the Official Baseball Annual and in The Sporting News.

Highlights of the National Association of Leagues may be obtained without cost of writing National Baseball Congress, Wichita (1), Kan. Complete details are in the 1950 Official Baseball Annual, published by the N.B.C., at news stands and sporting goods stores.

The semi-pro state tournament will be held in Sedalia the latter part of July.

Barber Leads Golf Tourney

By F. T. MacFeely

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 18—(AP)—Jerry Barber, likeable little man who has sold nearly all his fellow professionals on the golf glove he invented, gave them a show of record breaking golf today.

Always ready with a grin and friendly word, Barber was ready with birdies too. On a 32-33—65 turn of the 6,508-yard Hyde Park course, his seven-under-par score went nicely with his 71 of yesterday for the 36-hole lead in the Jacksonville open at 136.

Barber, who is playing out of Overland, Mo., had close competition from Bob Hamilton of Landover, Md. The veteran Hamilton tied the previous competitive course record of 66 set by Herman Keiser here three years ago.

Hamilton also had a starting 71 and halfway through the tournament trailed the leader by a single stroke.

Al Besselink, 25-year-old Detroit professional and former University of Miami golfer, bettered his opening 69 by a stroke and was tied with Hamilton for second place.

Leland Gibson of Kansas City, leader with Besselink yesterday, had his second 69 in a row for 138.

Sam Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., slammer, improved by two strokes his first round but still was well off the pace at 72-70—142. National Open champion Cary Middlecoff of Ormond Beach, Fla., took 73 strokes today and stood at 143.

NAIB Tourney Honors To Indiana Team

Central College Beat Tampa Squad For Third Place

By Skipper Patrick

KANSAS CITY, March 18—(AP)—Indiana State's Sycamores beat off a wild second half rally to defeat East Central Oklahoma State, 61 to 57, and cash in on their first National Intercollegiate (NAIB) Basketball championship tonight.

Central college of Fayette, Mo., took third place by trouncing the University of Tampa 80 to 67.

East Central's Tigers, trailing by 15 points at one time in the first half, wheeled back on the driving play of Stacey Howell, a Pawnee Indian, and Claudell Overton. They gave a capacity crowd of 9,700 one of the better games in the 12 years of the tournament in Municipal auditorium.

Tie Score 4 Times

The Oklahomans tied the score four times in the second half. They got their only lead at 42-41 on Bill Jordan's fielder with 13½ minutes remaining. But Clarence Walker, who in 1948 became the first Negro to play in the NAIB tourney, got three of his five field goals in the closing minutes to keep Indiana State on top.

The Missouri team, fired up and hitting sharply from the early minutes, continued its fine play after the intermission and was leading by 17 points, 57-40, with 5 minutes left.

Weren't Up To Par

Tampa never quit, but the Floridans' expert long shooters—Williams, George Montz and Jack Booros—weren't up to the task tonight.

The Florida Spartans kept within striking distance of the lead only for the first 12 minutes. They trailed 23-27 at that point. Williams, who did all of his scoring on 10 field goals, had bucketed a couple of long ones and Montz came through from medium range to close the gap.

Then Wayne Young, Cochran and Dean Ehlers got busy and stifled the Florida threat.

Montz had seven field goals and two free throws for 16 points. Ehlers with 15 and Young with 13 were other top scorers for Central.

K. C. Blues Open Against St. Paul

LAKE WALES, Fla., March 18—The youth movement has reached the Blues' training field and the situation is well in hand as Manager Joe Kuhel conditions a squad of 35 players for the American Association opener against St. Paul April 18 in Blues stadium.

There are a few veterans in camp, but kids like Gene Valla, second baseman; Jerry Snyder, shortstop and big Dale Long, first baseman, are in the limelight.

Reports from Kansas City indicate a brisk ticket sale for the opener. The Blues Fans club has promised the largest opening day crowd in American Association history.

Final Hockey Tilt Of Season Is Tonight

Mohawks Play St. Paul Saints In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, March 18—The final hockey game of the regular season in the United States league will be here Sunday night at the Pla-Mor arena, when the Mohawks entertain the St. Paul Saints. Kansas City has a playoff berth cinched and the post-season games will start two days after the regular season is over. St. Paul also will be in the playoffs. This is the seventieth match for the two clubs during the rugged, regular season. St. Paul and the Mohawks always stage a great clash and this match should be no exception.

Many Inquiries for Dill

Bobby Dill, St. Paul defense man, has had a lot of tough luck this season and each time he was injured it has been in a game with Kansas City. Dill received a broken nose, broken wrist, broken hand, and injury to his elbow and knee in previous matches with the Saints. But Dill is a good-natured cuss and he takes the bitter with the sweet. He is a great fan-favorite here and will be seen in action in the final match.

Goalie Jack McGill is another showman for the Saints. McGill and Sugar Jim Henry are the two top netminders in the league and it wouldn't surprise anyone here if either one of these are named to the all-star team. McGill and Henry have crossed each others paths in several previous matches and close games have resulted.

Tussle for the Honor

Ray Powell is in the thick of the battle for the league scoring championship for the second straight year and it's a cinch that his mates will be giving him a lot of help in hopes that Ray will again repeat. George Agar of Minneapolis is giving Ray a real tussle for the honor.

A bonus goes to the player for winning the scoring title and with it means an all-star berth. Ray is one of the best "feeders" to perform in the U. S. loop since its organization. Powell is content with passing rather than shooting. He's a great team player and his passing has enabled Gorlie Fashoway and Harry Groves to dent the net many times this season.

Records Set In Texas Track Meet

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 18—(AP)—Seven records fell, two were tied and Baylor won the university division of the Southwestern Recreation Track and Field meet today—the first time any school outside of Texas or Texas A. & M. had taken the title in so many years few remember.

The reason was that Texas and A. & M. both snubbed the meet this year, grumbling over a poor track last season when they lost some key men in mishaps.

While the university class was weak—with only one record being broken—the other divisions did all right for themselves.

The college freshman class, won by Oklahoma A. & M., set four records.

Time: 8:30 p. m. Wednesday

Gorgeous George, Hollywood, Calif., known as the Wrestling Toast from Coast to Coast, is coming to Sedalia on Thursday night, March 23 to meet Marshall Esteppe, the "Wrestling Postmaster" from Sturgeon, Mo. They appear on the wrestling show of the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion in the main event. Four beautiful girls are also on the card and will meet in two supporting matches.

Gorgeous George has been swamping the country in the wrestling sport and has proven to be even a stronger drawing card than the actual champions of the ring. His attraction as being gorgeous, a man who has his hair done in the best of beauty shops, has a valet to attend him at the wring side and has his own chauffeur, does not interfere with him as being a real he-man of the ring. He is rugged, he is tough, and he is a wrestler from the old school.

Plenty of Action Expected

Gorgeous, with all his fanfare will be going up against a well experienced wrestler in Marshall Esteppe who is famed for his "Australian drop kick," should produce plenty of action for the man of beauty. Esteppe is a well-known mat man of the local ring and it is certain the fans will be on his side during the event.

It is the first time the wrestler of attraction has appeared in the rings of the midwest and Sedalia was included in his bookings. He will be in the ring in Kansas City, Wichita, St. Joseph, Sedalia and Omaha, before continuing on east.

Two Women's Matches

Supporting the main event will be two matches involving women. The first even, or opening match, will be between Dot Dotson, Lakeworth, Florida, and Lillie Bitters, New Orleans. It will be one fall with a 30-minute time limit.

The semi-windup event brings together June Byers of Houston, Texas, and Violet Viann, of Kansas City for the best two falls out of three with a 45-minute time limit.

Howard Contowine of Kansas City, has been secured to be the referee in the ring. Contowine is a new official for the Sedalia matches and promoter Pearl Christy is hoping he will measure up to the expectations of the Sedalia mat followers.

Reservations are being made at Beverly's Snack Shop for ringside seats and those desiring to obtain their seats early can do so now.

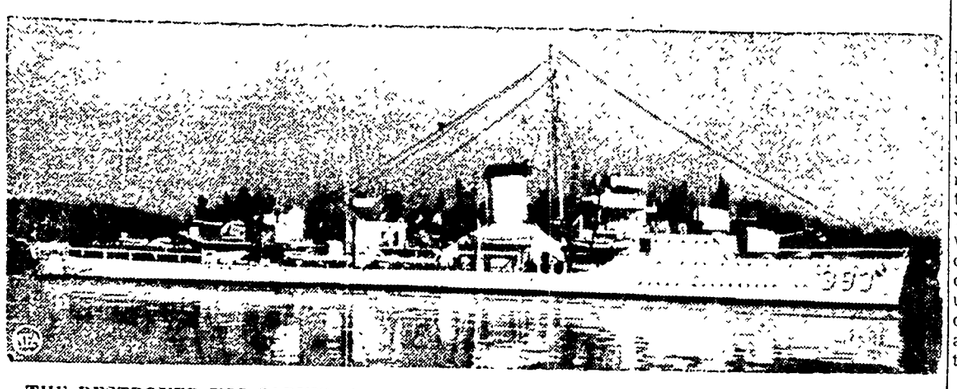
After 7 Years, an Obit for U.S.S. Jarvis

Battered But Brave, Sh e Sailed From Guadalc anal In 1942 to an End Now Told for the First Time



THE DESTROYER USS JARVIS: A profile like the Achilles was a brave ship's Achilles' heel.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—The mysterious disappearance of the only U. S. surface warship unaccounted for at the end of World War II has at last been cleared up on the Navy's records.

After seven years of patient detective work, Navy historians announce they have solved the riddle of the destroyer USS Jarvis, which sailed off into space Aug. 9, 1942, from the Coral Sea southwest of Guadalcanal, following the sea battle of Savo Island.

A Navy flier from the carrier Saratoga was the last friendly person to see the Jarvis, limping along in the pre-dawn haze bound for Australia. Six weeks later a terse Navy communique announced that intensive air and surface searches had failed to reveal any trace of her. Next of kin of the 246 officers and men on board were notified.

Ordinarily, a surface ship going down would have been sighted, would have left flotsam, or there would have been survivors to give an accounting of their ship. The Jarvis' position was well established in a small ocean area which was meticulously scanned by aviators and seamen. Yet she vanished without a trace. Up to now that's been all anybody knew.

* * *

The Jarvis was part of the task force assigned to the invasion of Guadalcanal. During the attack she purposely took a Jap torpedo in her side to protect the cruiser Vincennes. Her skipper, 39-year-old Lt. Comdr. William W. Graham, of Palmyra, N. J., refused to abandon ship although she was stopped dead and flames spurted and swept the forecastle.

In a few hours her crew had put out the fire and patched the engine. The destroyer Dewey towed the Jarvis to a shallow water anchorage. A check showed 14 men missing and seven wounded. As Comdr. Graham was putting the seven wounded aboard the flagship MacCawley, he told one of them he would head for Sydney, Australia, for repairs that night—Aug. 8—to avoid the almost certain Jap aid attack the next day.

Despite a 50-foot gash in her side, the loss of all her radio gear and many of her guns, it was felt sure the cripple could make Sydney. The mine sweeper Hover was ordered as escort, but was never able to rendezvous with the Jarvis. With his radio gone, it is assumed Comdr. Graham might not have been informed the Hovey would be his escort and left without it.

A few hours before the Saratoga scout plane saw the Jarvis for the last time, she was spotted by the destroyer Blue. The Jarvis refused aid proffered by the Blue and sailed on.

* * *

No successful clue to what happened after that was turned up until this year when a Navy historian who had been working on the problem for years, decided to re-examine the log book of a Jap torpedo squadron based on Rabaul.

Battle reports by several Jap pilots for that date made reference to an "Achilles-type" cruiser having been "blown to bits" and "sunk instantly." The historian established that the Jarvis, in profile, had a striking resemblance to the small New Zealand cruiser Achilles. With that new information here is how the unknown final hours of the Jarvis have now been pieced together:

Before being sighted by the Blue, the Jarvis had been attacked by a Jap destroyer that was part of a big enemy force. She escaped without further damage, which is probably why she didn't ask for help from the Blue. But the Jap destroyer had radioed the Jarvis' position and course to the Rabaul torpedo squadron.

* * *

At noon of the ninth, according to the Jap reports, torpedo planes and 16 "Zero" fighters attacked the Jarvis. Sixteen torpedoes were fired at her while the fighters strafed her decks. The final Jap report made no mention of survivors. But the first torpedo the Jarvis had taken at Guadalcanal had blasted away all life rafts and life boats.

An official Navy account now says:

"If the Japanese had not elected to throw nearly all of their available planes at the Jarvis they certainly might have done so at Admiral Turner's ships (off Guadalcanal) still frantically unloading troops and precious supplies for the Marines.

"There is also the possibility that, failing to find the Jarvis, the Japanese airmen might have continued on their course and attacked our few precious carriers, which had withdrawn to refuel. Thus, the Jarvis did not die in vain."

Intense Heat Fails To Consume Synthetic Cat

MINERVA, O., March 17—(AP)—A synthetic cat came out of a brick kiln today with its rear-end scorched, but still a bundle of flesh and fur.

It thereby, experimenters said, proved the greatest hot-foot story in the history of Minerva:

The tale of Miracle, a real cat which survived 36 hours in a kiln heated to 900 degrees.

Miracle's prefabricated counter—a sirloin steak wrapped in a sealskin hat—was submitted to a similar ordeal. At the end of 36 hours, the steak still was juicy and the hat fur soft.

One end was charred. That was the end farthest in the furnace, where the tail of the real cat presumably once lay. An inch and a half a Miracle's tail was burned off.

"Now," exclaimed the brick plant superintendent as the test was concluded, "maybe they'll believe we're not a bunch of liars."

The superintendent, Joe Bucola, was the first person to relate the tale of Minerva's fire-resistant cat. He was there, he said, when she staggered out of the kiln March 5 after locked in accidentally.

Miracle, minus part of her tail, also had singed fur, and her paws were badly burned.

Bucola and Dr. William Orr, a Minerva veterinarian, both stoutly defended the story of Miracle. Dr. Walter R. Krill, dean of the Veterinary College at Ohio State university, ridiculed it.

The doubting Thomases inspired Mrs. Twila Carman to devise the pre-fabricated cat. She is the Minerva correspondent for the Canton Repository, who related the tale to the world.

Said Mrs. Carman after examining the steak-and-fur cat today:

"I think this was a very severe test, for the cat is living tissue and living tissue would withstand the heat much better than the materials used in the test."

"Besides, I put the synthetic cat a good six inches into the kiln. The real cat could have hovered beside the door and acquired fresh air by bumping the door. This time, we had the door sealed."

Miracle's story prompted get-well cards and catnip.

"Miracle," herself, also took two positions on the whole thing: She either laid on her back, or sat on her burned-off tail and held all four feet in the air.

Underwriters Meet Monday

The Sedalia Association of Life Underwriters will hold a special dinner meeting Monday night, starting at 6:30 o'clock in the Ambassador Room of the Bothwell hotel, at which time a large crowd is expected. This meeting is being held for members and their invited guests, such as farmers, Sedalia business men, etc.

The principal speaker will be Robert E. Bray, instructor of Economics in Business at the University of Missouri. His topic will be based on the Chartered Life Underwriters Program, at which time he will discuss the C.L.U. program now being given at the university.

A film, "For Some Must Watch," dealing with life insurance will be shown.

Underwriters arranging the program are the following public relations committee: Dick Sklar, chairman, George Yeaman and John G. Crawford.

The annual festival of Up-Helly Aa in the Shetland Islands is believed by some to go back to Viking days.

Cantor Started in Show Business 40 Years Ago

By Mark Barron

NEW YORK, March 18—(AP)—Forty years ago today Eddie Cantor, the man with the banjo eyes and the big heart, started in show business. It was on March 18, 1910 when Cantor made his first paid stage appearance at the notorious miner's Bowery theater in the then roughest section of New York's tenderloin. Cantor felt he was a success because he got $5 cash for his performance and he did NOT get chased from the stage under a barrage of bottles and other missiles which the Bowery audience was in the habit of throwing at other performers.

On next Tuesday night Cantor will celebrate his 40th anniversary when he plays at Carnegie Hall where he will present a cavalcade of songs and anecdotes. It will be a personal revue presented in his own hilarious, particular and sentimental. He'll sing and dance the many favorite numbers which have made him a star in every entertainment medium from the "Ziegfield Follies" to the television and talking pictures of today.

Principal Guest

Principal guest at Cantor's Carnegie Hall performance, one of many that the 57-year-old comedian is making for students at universities and at concert performances throughout the country, will be Miss Catharine Luddy of 135 Baker street, Jersey City, N.J. Miss Luddy, Cantor told us the other day, was his school teacher at public school number one, on New York's lower east side.

"She is the only teacher I can remember who taught me in a proper school and she taught me everything I know in the way of education," Cantor said. "The education I learned from her is the reason that I can continue on my tour of these colleges and other institutions of higher learning. And I'm starting again on April 3 when I begin at William and Mary College in Norfolk, Va."

In his 40 years of show business, Cantor has gone through almost everything that an entertainer, a public spirited citizen, a comedian could experience.

Orphan at Age of Two

He was an orphan at the age of two and his grandmother managed to have him sent to Surprise Lake Camp, a summer outdoor place for youngsters. In his later years Cantor has spent his efforts to keep that same camp on a solid basis to benefit other city children who need outdoor life.

When Eddie was 14, he met Ida Tobias, "the belle of Henry street," and eight years later they were married although her family didn't approve. They became the parents of five daughters: Marjorie, Natalie, Edna J., Marilyn and Janet. They became grandparents when daughter Natalie gave birth to a son in 1939.

Cantor's comedy on radio and television combines tears and smiles, and he is an able, sure-fire ad libber. He thinks an insult is a primary basis for a laugh, as when he told the late Alexander Woollcott, the fat, erudite, critic-commentator, that he should observe the rule of "chins up, old boy."

Was a Singing Waiter

One of the first jobs of the banjo eyed comedian was as a singing waiter in Coney Island where he shuffled dimes off the floor while Jimmie Durante played the piano.

In his philanthropic activities, Cantor is the man who organized the "March of Dimes" which gathers contributions for the Warm Springs, Ga., fund for polio victims. He is the founder and sponsor of a camp committee which sends poor and undernourished boys to the country for outdoor vacations. He is active in both Jewish and Christian charities, appearing in more than 100 benefit concerts every season.

And now this star comedian, celebrating his 40th anniversary on the stage, is touring 40 colleges and universities throughout the nation while he lectures and performs for the youthful students—for whom he feels he has both a message and entertainment.

Boys Turn Up A Fugitive

Killer Had Been Hunted For A Three Years Period

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 18—(AP)—Schoolboy detectives today turned up a fugitive killer whom the nation's police had hunted for three years.

A keen memory, coupled with boys' liking for play in out-of-the-way places, did the trick.

The result is that William Raymond Nesbit, described by the FBI as one of the most dangerous criminals alive, again is behind bars. He had been sought since Sept. 4, 1946, when he escaped from the south Dakota penitentiary. He was serving a term for the murder of a fellow gangster who had threatened to squeal.

The St. Paul dispatch carried a story last Thursday about the hunt for Nesbit. The FBI had provided a picture of the man.

James Lewis, 14-year-old eighth grader in the Van Buren school, read the story. There was something familiar about the photograph. Wasn't it, he asked himself, the picture of that man he had seen living in the cave on Warner road, the one along the Milwaukee railroad tracks, just below the Indian mounds? He and the other kids had played around there many times.

James confided his suspicions to his chum, James Radek, 13. They were a little dubious at first. The picture was of a fatter man than the one they knew as Ray. Radek squeezed on the sides of the clipping, trying to make the face seem slimmer. The paper buckled. That did it. They boys decided Ray was the fugitive. The police were notified. Nesbit was arrested. He said he had lived in the cave for six months.

Stuffed Snow In Pipe

When Lewis went to the cave today to make a definite on-the-spot comparison of the man he knew as Ray, James Radek was not in the group of young investigators.

The cave dweller was not in sight when Lewis and his pals arrived. The question was, how to get him to come out? They had to compare his features with the picture Lewis had clipped from the paper. Lewis had the answer. The boys stuffed snow down the smokestack sticking through the cave's roof.

Nesbit came out to see what was wrong. The boys made their identification and ran for a neighboring tavern to telephone police. The officers came on the double quick. Nesbit was arrested. Although he carried a hunting knife, he offered no resistance.

Meanwhile, Radek was on his way to the cave with another group of boys. They arrived in time to see the police lead the quarry away.

Police found Nesbit's hide-out had a running spring inside. It could be closed off against the cold. It was well stocked with food.

The boys probably will split a $100 reward offered by the South Dakota penitentiary for information leading to Nesbit's capture.

Nesbit was committed to the South Dakota prison May 28, 1937. He had been sentenced to life imprisonment following conviction of murdering Floyd H. Parker of Los Angeles on Dec. 31, 1936. On Feb. 18, 1946, his sentence was commuted to 20 years. He escaped Sept 4, 1946. He was a trusty at the time, working in the home of a deputy warden.

Woman Dies On An Airliner

AMARILLO, Tex., March 18—(AP)—A woman died aboard an airliner today after writing careful instructions to the hostess on how to feed the baby son in her lap.

The woman, Mrs. Clifford Snow 32 was found dead when the plane landed here.

She also left a note for her husband, who works in the Kansas City Union station baggage department, telling him "this seems best." The 10-month-old boy was their only child.

Dr. Guy Owens, who was called to the airport, was quoted by the justice of the peace as saying he "surmised" that she swallowed an overdose of sleeping pills.

The woman's mother-in-law, Mrs. Harry T. Snow of Kansas City, and a sister. Miss Vernita Bowlin of Kansas City, said the victim long had suffered from sleeplessness and nervousness and had been under a physician's care in the past for overuse of sleeping pills.

Mrs. Snow was en route from Phoenix to Kansas City. She had been visiting a sister, Mrs. Beryl Fairbanks, for several weeks.

Mrs. Ivy Wilkinson, justice of the peace, indicated that she would not return a coroner's verdict until tomorrow.

The child was placed in charge of Mrs. Wilkinson. At the husband's request, Trans World Airlines arranged to send the infant home in care of a hostess tonight.

Discovery of the death caused a delay of nearly two hours and the plane was late arriving in Kansas City.

Mrs. Snow's mother-in-law said her son went to the air terminal to meet the plane at the scheduled time not knowing his wife had died.

They had been married for 13 years.

K. Of C.'s Going To Montrose

A Knight of Columbus group of officers of the Knight Sedalia Council 831 will go to Montrose this afternoon to confer the first degree of the order on a number of candidates of Montrose and surrounding territory.

Montrose is in the 12th district along with Sedalia and other communities in this vicinity. The District Deputy, Frank Mehl and the State Deputy, Bernard Gillis of Kansas City will be at this meeting.

The degrees will be conferred by the Sedalia teamed headed by Grand Knight Claude L. Boul.

All members of the Knights of Columbus are invited to attend the meeting. The group will leave Fourth street and Ohio avenue at 12:45 o'clock. The group is expected to return to Sedalia about 6:00 p. m.

Husband Slayer To Appeal Case

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 18—(AP)—Mrs. Yvette Madsen's attorneys said tonight they would appeal her sentence of 15 years in an American prison for shooting her airforce husband.

The Brooklyn beauty was convicted and sentenced by a U. S. court here today. The appeal will be made to the U. S. court of appeals in Nuernberg.

Mrs. Madsen, 22-year-old mother of two, asked her lawyer as they left the court:

"Will they let me see my babies before they take me away?"

The question went unanswered. The children are under the care of her mother in Brooklyn.

After breaking up several court sessions with hysterical outbursts of weeping and fainting, Mrs. Madsen was surprisingly calm at the verdict.

She was pale and thin. She trembled. But she held herself erect, and she walked dry-eyed out of the courtroom from which she had to be carried several times during the two-week trial.

A room filled to overflowing, mostly with American women, heard the verdict.

Mrs. Madsen shot her husband, Lt. Andrew E. Madsen of Oakland, Calif., the night of Oct. 20 when he followed her home from a party at which, the prosecution said, she angrily slapped their host for teasing her about her Brooklyn accent.

The defense never denied that Mrs. Madsen shot her husband. Her attorney entered for her a plea of innocent by reason of temporary insanity.

Mrs. Madsen herself objected to the testimony of a psychiatrist that she was psychopathic, exclaiming in court, "hang me if you want. Hang me. I don't care. But make him stop."

Stiffer Liability Rates To Young

BALTIMORE, March 18—(AP)—Liability insurance rates for automobile drivers under 25 years old will be increased about 20 per cent beginning Monday in 33 states, the District of Columbia and Alaska, the Baltimore Sun said in its editions for tomorrow.

And some older drivers will get a decrease in their payments of about 12 per cent, the newspaper said.

The increasing number of auto accidents involving young drivers was responsible for the hike in rates, as recommended by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters after a three-year survey, it said.

The states affected are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

Fired On Two U. S. Destroyers

SAIGON, Vietnam, March 18—(AP)—Daring Indochinese guerrilas last night hurled machinegun and mortar fire at two American destroyers anchored here, but did not score a hit.

The attack by the Communist-backed partisans punctuated reports that Ho Chi Minh's anti-French rebels are getting a flow of arms from Communist China and are preparing a major attack in an effort to overthrow the American-recognized regime of former Emperor Bao Dai.

As in Greece, Washington and Moscow are backing rivals in IndoChina.

Men of the U. S. destroyers, the Stickwell and Anderson, were called to battle stations during the half hour firing, but did not shoot a gun.

Visited Son at Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Rose, 1400 East Fourteenth street, have returned from Columbia where they were called by the illness of their son, Beverly, who is attending the University of Missouri.

He is confined to the Student hospital No. 2 with pneumonia. He is reported as somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Rose were accompanied to the hospital by Mrs. E. A. Rose, Beverly's grandmother.

Argentina averaged 260 pounds of meat per person in 1948, Uruguay 227.

Throng At Variety And Style Show

A capacity crowd filled the Smith-Cotton high school auditorium again Friday night for the second night of the Variety and Style Show sponsored by the Smith-Cotton Parent Teacher Association in cooperation with local stores.

"The Gay Nineties" was repeated by the Smith-Cotton high school students.

A very entertaining program was presented by pupils of the Harper School of Dance. A wide variety of dances were given with beautiful and appropriate costumes for each number, and several acts included both singing and dancing.

The spring styles were shown by Sedalians modeling fashions for men, women and children from Mrs. Human's Art Shop, Thrifty Shop, Russell Brothers, Flowers, Levi Strauss and Company, Drolich's St. Louis Clothing Store, and Jack's Mens Wear. Fashions included a wide range of attractive clothes for the Easter parade.

Bob Van Horn was master of ceremonies and music was by the Rhythmaires.

Ushers were high school girls in colorful formals. Those ushering Friday night were Bobbie Ann Dale, Carold Pile, Sherry Edwards, Norma Lee Woolery and Mary Ann Young, and on Thursday night were Carolyn Lance Marilyn Reed, Hazel Burkhalter and Jean Crecelius.

Mrs. A. J. Gregory, chairman, stated that this year's show was one of the most successful ever presented by the P. T. A.

Big Papers In South In Merger

ATLANTA, March 18 — (AP) — Two of the south's largest newspapers—the Atlanta Journal and the Atlanta Constitution—announced today they have agreed to merge.

Front page statements were published in both newspapers.

These said economic reasons figured largely in the move. Financial details were not disclosed.

The Journal is an afternoon and Sunday paper and the Constitution a morning and Sunday paper. They are the only dailies of general circulation in Atlanta.

The editorial policies will remain independent. Both newspapers will continue to publish and transact all business in their present plants.

To Raise Fund For Mercy Slayer

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 18—(AP)—Folks in the tiny suburban community of Coplay are going to make a door-to-door canvass to raise a defense fund for Harold Mohr, accused mercy slayer.

Mohr is the 36-year-old extannery worker who says he shot his blind, cancer-ridden brother, Walter, 55, because he pleaded to be put out of his misery. The victim had been hopelessly blind for 15 years. His face had wasted away until only his lips remained.

August Hobel, Jr., Coplay coal dealer and lifetime friend of the defendant, has called a meeting at town hall for 9:30 p.m. (EST) Monday night. Most of the community of 3,000 people is expected to attend.

Town-Country Defer Making Handbags

Have Several Reasons For The Decision Made

A decision was reached this week by the management of Town & Country Shoes not to enter into manufacture of handbags at this particular time. The company believes that it has made a very wise decision for several reasons.

This past week, William C. Mathieson, vice-president of the company, made contacts with several handbag manufacturers located in the east. He says that in every case, sales and production for these companies has declined drastically in the past few months, and it appears that the downward trend in volume for handbags has not, as yet, run its full course. A simple explanation for this trend according to Mr. Mathieson is that handbags are a luxury item, and women today are finding out that they can do without an extra handbag, whereas, they will buy an extra pair of shoes. Many tanners of upper leather who supply the handbag trade, as well as several of the large retailers who are volume users of Town & Country Shoes, all reaffirmed this trend, the local manufacturer reports.

Not Time to Expand

Town & Country definitely does not wish to start manufacturing handbags in Sedalia, and, after the venture may have achieved a good start, see it taper off into an operation of small consequence for the community, is the decision of the management. The company believes that with all facts taken into consideration, today is not the proper time to expand with the making of an article that unquestionably would be one of the first to be affected if retail sales in general should decline in the months ahead.

Instead, every attention will be directed to the manufacture of good shoes, and every effort continued to insure full time employment and production at the T & C shoe factory. Town & Country enjoyed a record year in 1949, having run through on full production schedule of over 40 hours a week without interruption or shut down, which is substantially ahead of the average work week and production schedules for some 44 factories in Missouri reporting to the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics for the same year.

Club Meets At Patrick Home

Mrs. Ellis Garrett entertained the Champion Striped College club Friday with Mrs. Lester Patrick, Mrs. Elmer Garrett as assisting hostesses. A contributive dinner was served to 22 members with Shamrock decorations and a favor for each.

The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Mrs. M. T. Dabner, in absence of the president, Mrs. Ernest Biggs. Mrs. C. E. Leiter led the group in singing "Song of Peace." Roll call was answered with "A buying habit that is costly." Mrs. Robert Rapp gave an interesting talk on "Pepper Uppers for Dull Meals." The club voted to give $5.00 to the Red Cross fund.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Erwin Shirley April 14th.

Commissioners In Condemnation Action

Three commissioners were appointed Saturday morning in circuit court for the city in relation to a petition filed by the city of Sedalia against Frank Adams and Venettie Adams for condemnation of right-of-way easement over lands.

The commissioners appointed were: R. M. Johns, Kennie Miller and J. W. Neal.

States Secret Orders Given

From Lewis Says Ousted Official Of The UMW

CANTON, Ill., March 18—(AP)—An ousted local official of the United Mine Workers asserted Friday that John L. Lewis secretly ordered his miners to ignore the Feb. 11 court order to end their nationwide coal strike.

Lloyd H. Sidener, 44, said Lewis passed the word down through his chain of command until it reached him.

Sidener said he received the order by telephone from Bernard Beasley of Canton, chairman of sub-district 2 of the Illinois UMW district. Bealey denied tshis.

Sidener was removed March 7 as president of local 7445, Canton. He charged in a complaint to the National Labor Relations Board that the union fined his $50,000 and in effect barred him from working. He said this was punishment for his efforts to get other miners to obey the court's no-strike injunction.

Sidener said in an interview that Lewis directed his 380,000 striking miners to disregard not only the court injunction but Lewis' own telegraphed plea for a resumption of coal digging. Lewis sent telegrams ordering the miners back to work after he was served with the court injunction.

Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech found the union innocent of contempt of court March 2. He said the government failed to present evidence to upport its charge that the union was responsible for the strike of its members.

"Passed to Rank and File"

Sidener said Lewis secretly passed a continue-strike order to state UMW presidents, who in turn notified sub-district board members, who passed it on to mine local presidents for the rank and file.

Sidener said Beasley telephoned him at 2 p. m. Feb. 11 and said: "John L. Lewis said the whistle blew once for Monday Feb. 13). Pull everybody. There'll be no maintenance and pumping crews at the mines."

Sidener said it was the policy at his mine that one blast of the whistle meant no work the next day and that three blasts meant the mine would operate.

Beasley denied he received or passed along any secret orders from Lewis or other union officials or urged a continuation of the strike. He said:

"I appeared at mass meetings as well as before individual meetings at which time the financial secretaries of the various locals read the (Lewis) telegrams. I addressed these assemblages and told them these were orders of the international union and the men should go back to work. They in turn told me they wouldn't do so without a contract."

Lewis could not be reached for comment. However, in a March 3 interview by Arthur Krock of the New York Times, he was quoted as saying any use of secret signals in his union was "nonsense." "If there were, why has no one in the industry, with spies all about, been able to detect and expose them," Lewis was quoted as saying.

"Even the greenest miner knows that when Lewis announces he wants the miners to end a strike 'forthwith,' he is just making a show," Sidener said. "The miners know they must wait the word of their locals and district officials, who get the word from Lewis or what Lewis really wants."

Slaughter HearingSet For April 17

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Former Rep. Roger C. Slaughter (D-Mo) will go on trial here next month, charged with violating the lobbying registration act.

Trial was set Friday for April 17 in federal district court.

Slaughter has said the charges were "politically inspired" and that they grew out of a feud between he and President Truman.

Slaughter failed to win renomination to the House in 1946 after Mr. Truman came out publicly for his opponent in the Missouri Democratic primary.

A grand jury in November 1948 alleged that after Slaughter lost his congressional seat he lobbied for the Chicago, Kansas City and Minneapolis Grain Exchanges without registering with Congress.

Slaughter has claimed he served only as a lawyer and thus was not required to register under the lobbying act.

Earlier this week, Federal Judge H. A. Schweinhaut refused to dismiss the indictment, overruling Slaughter's contention that the lobbying act is unconstitutional. Judge Schweinhaut also denied Slaughter's request for permission to examine the minutes of the grand jury which indicted him.

Hundred Dollar Week Man Asks Aid

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 17—(AP)—A man who paid an income tax last year on earnings of $100 a week came to the courthouse Friday to ask for financial help.

His last pay check was for $16 and he told officials he had used $13 of that to pay what he owed on his 1949 earnings.

His wife said he didn't have enough money left for breakfast this morning.

U.S. Pilgrims Set a Record In Rome

Holy Year Estimates Run From 15,000 to 300,000 American Visitors

PILGRIMS: In Rome to observe Holy Year, American visitors Mrs Katherine Sheridan (right) of Pasadena, Calif and Mrs Kathleen Walsh of Los Angeles walk down the steps of St Peter's, first of four basilicas each pilgrim must visit

By NEA Foreign Service

ROME, Italy—(NEA)—Rome is already alive with pilgrims here to observe Roman Catholicism's 25th Holy Year The celebration is held once every 25 years and is expected to attract 2,000,000 visitors from every part of the world

What each of the pilgrims must do is visit the four great churches of Rome First, he goes to St Peter's, where he crosses the threshold of the Holy Door, walled up by a slab of white marble between Holy Years This act symbolizes that the pilgrim has stepped into a new, cleaner life

Most pilgrims go, in order, from St Peter's to St Paul's-Outside-the-Wall to St John Lateran and finally to St Mary Major. In each of these four basilicas the penitent must say three Our Fathers, three Hail Mary's, and repeat three times the prayer, "Glory Be to the Father, to the Son and to the Holy Ghost As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be, world without end Amen"

* * *

Americans are more numerous in Rome this Holy Year than they were in 1925 the last Holy Year In December, 1924, when the Holy Door was opened to symbolize the beginning of the Holy Year of 1925 there was not a single American present at the observance Last December however, when the Holy Year of 1950 was officially inaugurated 166 Americans were witnesses

Similarly, Americans particularly women are flocking to the city They range in age from children to women like Mrs Katherine Sheridan an 80-year-old grandmother from Pasadena, Calif Mrs Sheridan traveled to Italy on a slow freighter making the voyage from California in 27 days

The Catholic Travel League of the American Express Company, which is organizing pilgrimages, estimates that 15,000 Americans will visit Rome in '50

'That may sound small," says David Lee of the League, referring to other estimates that have ranged as high as 300 000 "but bear in mind that that would still be the all-time high as far as American pilgrims are concerned"

Another big travel agency, Thomas Cook & Son places the figure at 50,000, and adds that the only thing that will hold the number down is lack of space Practically all existing ship space on boats to Europe this summer says a Cook spokesman is booked up And space is getting increasingly tight already for boats scheduled to sail in the fall

* * *

Besides ship travel hundreds of pilgrims are coming to Europe by plane One airline Air France, has inaugurated special flights which permit pilgrims to stop over in France, where they can see France's religious shrines on their way to Rome Air France also will begin special three-weekly flights from Paris to Lourdes on April 6

Hotel reservations in Rome, naturally are at a premium Authorities are erecting hostels—tent cities—in outlying sections, but the probability is that few Americans will want such rugged accommodations

A central committee controlling hotel space, have been careful to keep price increases at a minimum guarding against gouging of desperate pilgrims At a medium-priced hotel, a visitor can obtain food and lodgings for 2800 lire ($4 50) a day

But at some of Rome's exclusive hotels prices range as high as $15 to $20 a day, with the service typically continental and luxurious

Crossroads Comment

By now every taxpayer in Sedalia has had opportunity to review the "TIME" brochure of the City of Sedalia, mailed to them from the office of Mayor Julian H. Bagby who is concluding his term.

This is a most attractive and informative description of the city's accomplishments, prepared by William Hert, the mayor's representative. He spent many weeks obtaining pictures which so vividly portray to the taxpayers what they are getting in service for their tax money.

There have been four years of progress under the present administration. Pictures tell a positive story. Many services are too often taken for granted but this brochure presents the accomplishments for all to read. It is a novel presentation that no doubt will be copied by other towns.

Running the business of a $17,000,000 corporation is not an easy job. To be mayor is not an honorarium to be passed about by the voters nonchalantly. To be a real mayor requires more than political brains. Many have belabored Mayor Bagby as a staunch Democrat; and he is strictly that. But Mayor Bagby is more than a Democrat; he is a keen business man successful in private enterprise; and the City of Sedalia has profited by his ability.

Some of us have not always agreed with Mayor Bagby on projects he has undertaken. But what business man over a four year period in his own establishment has had 100% agreement of the stockholders? Will one please step forward to claim the crown.

Viewing the past four years in broad perspective, Sedalians can scarcely deny that Mayor Bagby's past term has been one of achievement. The record of "TIME" is in each household today for all to read.

Women will play a major role in the city campaign, judging from the manner in which fair-sex Republicans spark-plugged a precinct meeting at Mark Twain school on the eve of St. Patrick's Day.

The affair was planned almost overnight but those attending found a well-arranged program awaiting them: reception committee passing out shamrocks; refreshment committee serving delicious chili, a variety of pies, coffee; musical and recitation program.

And the best talks were made by the women. They just ran the show—and it was good.

City Chairman George Miller by his remarks indicated that the Republicans were going to appeal to the women and young voters of the city, not so much from a party standpoint but from that of good government. He believes the Republican party's candidates can deliver good government to the people of Sedalia.

The tone of this meeting suggested that Republicans were going to appeal to the intelligence of the voter rather than stage a fire, brimestone and character-assassination campaign against anyone suspected of being a Democrat.

This should be encouraging to the voters—keeping a campaign on the level of decency.

There's almost universal acceptance of the conclusion John L. Lewis won a major victory in settlement of the coal strike. Another conclusion just as acceptable is the fact that with all the gains obtained for the hard-working miners they'll have to work four or five years before they regain the pay losses suffered by periodic work stoppages the past year.

—O—

Coach John L. Lewis is the hero today. His team won. The cheering section is unconcerned over the crippled players who will nurse their injuries for many months to come. The team won, that's the thing. In the meantime the spectators are going to have the price of their coal season tickets raised.

—O—

Collegiate athletics should take a tip from Lewis' scheme. Every time the team wins, raise the admission price.

Of course it's silly to contemplate such a racket because sponsors of athletic performances would soon price themselves out of business. Yet Lewis and the coal miners don't seem to realize such a thing could happen to them. Nevertheless it is happening; and not only in the coal business. Even a nation can price itself out of business.

To reach a desired destination, it is not always wise to follow a by-pass. A recent Florida-bound road experience substantiates in part an old truism: "He who would arrive at the appointed end must follow a single road and not wander through many ways."

—O—

I never thought much about living long enough (until 2000 A.D.) to participate in the wondrous prosperity and $12,000 salaries predicted for the next century. But the family informs me one of our great-great-grandparents lived to be 104.

So I began figuring maybe I could extend my own longevity if I started now to moderate my immoderations.

But, having established this goal, I failed to take into account the discouraging predictions of a famed Harvard anthropologist, Earnest A. Hooton who in a recent Redbook magazine article, takes a sharp look at the human body of 2000 A.D. Says he:

"In 2000, apart from the horde of proliferating morons, the commonest type of normal male will be taller and more gangling than ever, with big feet, horse-faces and deformed dental arches. The typical women will be similar—probably less busty and buttocky than those of the present generation. These spindly giants will be intelligent, not combative, full of humanitarianism, allergies and inhibitions. There will also be a strong minority of towering heavy-weights—melon-shaped, with knock-kneed shanks, small hands and feet and sociable dispositions."

What a prospect! This puts one into a state of confusion whether to strive to become a horse-face in 2000 A.D. or just be satisfied living in the present jack-ass era which doesn't require too much self-abnegation.

—O—

While emphasis is on the political phase of the April 4 election, voters should remember other measures up for consideration. One is increase in the school levy for the teachers' fund for two years. The need for this has existed a long time, and has been explained repeatedly.

Another is the proposed new road law for Missouri which will require a two cent gasoline tax increase. It should be approved by a "Yes" vote April 4. This law will provide many city and rural road benefits and not tap the motorists' pocketbook as much as he might think.

A two-cent gasoline tax increase will cost only about 3 cents a day if you are an average motorist and drive about 10,000 miles a year. Many do not drive that much. The average motorist gets about 15 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and 10,000 miles thus would consume 667 gallons. A 2-cent tax would total $13.34. Traveling over broken down highways will cost you more than that in repair bills.

A peculiar thing I noticed on a recent trip to Florida was the price of gasoline in the various southern states. It was four or five cents higher there than in Missouri which has a two-cent state tax; yet the southern states have a state tax of 6 and 7 cents, and in Louisana NINE cents.

In Arkansas where regular gas was selling for only 23 cents, the state tax is 6½ cents which means Arkansas motorists pay 4½ cents more state tax than in Missouri yet pay one cent less for regular than in Missouri.

This week, however, in Sedalia the price of regular gas was reduced one cent from 23.9 to 22.9 which could be interpreted as a generous gesture on the part of the oil companies meeting the public half way on the anticipated two cent tax increase.

As it stands now, if the people vote a 2 cent increase it will only cost 1 cent more. Maybe by the time the new road law is passed the gasoline price will be reduced another 1 cent and the public won't pay any more tax at all.

Revolutionary War Hero at Long Last Will Be Immortalized

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—A forgotten hero of the Revolutionary War, an unspectacular money lender, will soon be immortalized not far from Washington, Lincoln and Jefferson. He was Haym Solomon, the little Jewish patriot who raised the money to fight the Revolution but died penniless without ever receiving a dime back from the government whose freedom he financed.

Now, after all these years, a memorial is about to be erected in Solomon's honor. This was authorized by Congress 12 years ago upon a motion by Guy Gillette, then Congressman but now Senator from Iowa.

It was left up to private citizens, however, to raise the subscriptions, so the project lay dormant until this year. Now a Haym Solomon memorial society has been formed to raise the money, and the chief thing remaining is to have the commission of fine arts approve a design.

NOTE—At one time George Washington pulled Solomon out of a synagogue to scrape up the cash to meet the army payroll. Solomon also paid Jefferson's and Madison's board bills so they could attend the first continental Congress.

Senator on Rampage

Stormiest figure on Capitol Hill is North Dakota's fearless Senator "Wild Bill" Langer who roars at the Senate like an enraged bull moose, is not afraid of the political odds and kicks his heels at Senate tradition.

No one can predict what Langer will do next, but the Democrats are still burned up over his latest surprise. Out of the clear blue, Langer recessed the Senate the other day right in the middle of its proceedings.

Since the Democrats are steering the Senate, it is majority leader Scott Lucas of Illinois who is supposed to set the quitting time—not Langer, who is a lone-wolf Republican. For a moment, however, not a Democrat was on the floor. And Langer, glancing in both directions, saw his chance to move for a recess. As no one objected there was nothing the presiding officer could do but recess the Senate.

As the bells rang out this news, Lucas stormed into the Senate chamber where Langer was grinning like a boy who had let school out early. Ignoring Langer, Lucas marched up to Senator Pat McCarran, Nevada Democrat, who had just poked his head in the door to see what was happening. As judiciary chairman, McCarran was in charge of the pending legislation, and it was his responsibility to keep a watch on it.

"I have told you at least six times that you should have somebody on the floor at all times to watch this," Lucas stormed at McCarran. "Your committee is in charge of this legislation."

"Don't you think it would be a good idea if we had a majority leader present once in awhile?" McCarran snorted back.

Angrily, Lucas stalked off. "I guess I'll have to sit here 24 hours a day," he muttered.

Fantastic Soviet Radio

The American embassy staff listening to the radio in Moscow hears a fantastic story about what goes on in the U.S.A.

The radio report gives a version of life in the United States which the Kremlin hopes the Russian people will believe. Here are a few samples:

"In the American towns, one man in seven is starving, and three-quarters of the population do not make a minimum income and cannot make ends meet. . . The position of the unemployed is most ghastly. . . Millions of American farmers are leading an impoverished life, wandering about on the roads of the United States. . . The impoverished U.S. masses are turning to Soviet Russia. . . Tens of millions of American people live in terrible slums. . . Only the rich can afford proper medical care in the United States. . . Enormous unemployment, stark misery and the specter of hunger compel thousands of Americans to travel up and down the country all the time to find occasionally some menial work."

This is an accurate sample of Soviet broadcasting as picked up by American intercepts.

Inside story behind this fantasy is that the Kremlin is desperately trying to take the minds of the Russian people off their own low standard of living and create distrust of the fabulous United States.

Even with the Soviet's new price cuts, the Russian worker must labor 117 hours before he can buy a pair of shoes that would cost $5, or the equivalent of half a day's work by an American workman. Low-grade stewing beef that costs 19 cents a pound in an American chain store goes for $5 a pound in the Soviet—above the reach of the low and middle classes.

Other price comparisons are: A man's suit that sells for $27 in the U.S. costs $277.25 in the Soviet; a woman's dress, $8.95 here and $111 there; a table radio $38.95 here and $272 there; women's shoes, $5 here and $87.50 there; and a wrist watch, $30 here and $100 there.

Ironically, in this Soviet "workers' Utopia," a loaf of black bread, the staple of life, still costs 2-½ times what it did in 1940, though luxury items like caviar and good vodka have dropped to prewar price levels.

God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea;

Though the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. Selah.

There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God, the holy place of the tabernacles of the most high.

God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved; God shall help her, and that right early.

The heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved; he uttered his voice, the earth melted.

The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.

Come, behold the works of the Lord, what desolations he hath made in the earth.

He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire.

Be still and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth.

The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.

"God is Our Refuge"

130

Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O Lord.

Lord, hear my voice; let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplications.

If thou, Lord, shouldest mark iniquities, O Lord, who shall stand?

But there is forgiveness with thee, that thou mayest be feared.

I wait for the Lord, my soul doth wait, and in his word do I hope.

My soul waiteth for the Lord more than they that watch for the morning: I say, more than they that watch for the morning.

Let Israel hope in the Lord: for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption.

And he shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities.

Music Modes

It must be conceded that music can and does many wonderful things to our emotions and their related elements. It soothes a troubled mind, it brightens many a heart and it gives birth to thousands of different feelings and attitudes. Music is ever present in this complex society that we now live in. It is heard on the millions of radios every hour of the twenty-four day and its continuously surging and thriving in the hearts and minds of millions of the earth's peoples.

Music is becoming now in this era more than just art. It has that distinction, to be sure, but it is surely occupying more an unpredictable place in the very lives of the world's stockholders.

Treasured Memories

The old familiar tunes that were popular years ago bring back treasured memories. The French song, "Lili Marlene," no doubt brings to mind the days and months of the World War I for many a veteran of that world conflict. This is only one example of such musical recollection. The long months that went together to fill the chronological years of World War II also bring back to mind the things that were taking place about that time. Then of course every human being of average age has something very important and dear to him that he can and does connect with some musical composition. It is also strange and indeed gratifying to learn that some one else has had the same emotional feelings that you have experienced, and it is expressed in a musical sense.

A short but comprehensible glance at the parade of popular songs that have thrived in the past years can offer substantial pictures of the attitudes that were in vogue in the corresponding years. Let's start back at the beginning of that vibrant, bouncing, two beat toddling child of American jazz, Dixieland music. This New Orleans product was the honest and sincere expression of the people that originated it. It was happy and carefree music sometimes and then sad and melancholy at other times. It was a music that flowed directly from the hearts of the people that played it and to the people that loved it.

On Through the Years

And so it has been on down through the years. The music of this year (excluding "Mule Train," "The Call of the Wild Goose" and other such musical monstrosities) reflects the feeling, the emotions that are churning in our hearts and in our souls and in our lives.

In an actuality the musical interpretations and the contributions that are offered up by the hundreds of composers are the musical representations of the sensations of the composers or arrangers feelings.

This can be simply exemplified in the example of Sigmund Romberg and his near classical works in the never filled field of semi-classical music. Romberg's tunes can be readily recognized by an average music lover. There is something that Romberg possessed in his musical make-up that tabbed his works identifiably similar. It was that something that gave Romberg's compositions that made them easy to associate with the composer. It is remarkable that such an element could be present and so varied in so many musical authors.

As it has been averred here music runs a parallel with the attitudes of the respective times. But the biggest mystery of the present time is what emotional and musical value is there in some concoctions over the nation's networks of radio stations. Certainly there must be variety, but there must be an incessant pounding and cracking of bull whips and then have the audacity of calling it music. For music to be of any value it must be creative and must have the basic and essential component called emotion.

THE WILL TO BE WELL

Yesterday we saw that the first step toward deliverance from fears and anxieties was to desire to be free. We may subconsciously desire the attention and sympathy which our maladies bring. If some people couldn't talk about their ills, just what would they talk about? You remember, the definition of a bore as "a man who talks about his rheumatism when you want to talk about yours." Talking about one's maladies focuses attention on one's self, even though that self is a shabby, shattered self. Still, the center of interest is the self; and when one is self-centered, he will use any means to gain attention.

So Jesus went straight to the heart of self-centeredness when He confronted the sick with this question: "Wilt thou be made whole?" "Do you really want to be well? If not, I cannot do a thing for you." The will to be well had to be there. Dr. Everett C. Drash of the University of Virginia told me that he operated on a schoolteacher for tuberculosis, and she died. But there was no apparent reason for her death until her relatives found among her papers a statement to a friend that she was convinced she would die. Her lack of faith had killed in her the will to live.

That brings us to the third step: (3) Will to be well. Throw your will on the side of deliverance. Just as there is a will to believe, so there is a will to be well. In contrast to the schoolteacher who died for lack of will to be well, there is the case of a mother who died of tuberculosis and left six small children. Her sister stepped in to take care of the children, and she, too, caught the infection. She, too, was slated to die, for this happened in the days before modern science had begun to cope successfully with this plague. Instead, she willed to live and raise that family. It was her life task, and she would perform it. She had one of the children stand in the corner of her room each day, so that she could see the child and say to herself, "I must live to raise this family." She did live, and she raised the family, and today is one of the most radiant and useful persons I know. Whether you seek deliverance from illness or from fear, will to be well.

My Father, I cannot will to be well unless I am reinforced at the center of my being. For I am inwardly flabby. Help me, then, to take the strength of Thy will into the weakness of my own. In Jesus' name. Amen.

The Sermon on the Mount

"Judge Not, That Ye Be Not Judged"—

Fourth of a five-part Lenten series reprinting Christ's Sermon on the Mount.)

Mat. 6:16-34; 7:1-5,

Moreover when ye fast, be not, as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance; for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

But thou, when thou fastest, annoint thine head, and wash thy face;

That thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.

Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal:

But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt and where thieves do not break through nor steal.

For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

The light of the body is the eye; if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light.

But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the light is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness!

No man can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?

Behold the fowls of the air; for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?

Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit to his stature?

And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin:

And yet I say unto you, That even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?

Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed?

(For after all these things do the Gentiles seek:) for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things.

But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.

Take therefore no thought for the morrow; for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.

Judge not, that ye be not judged.

For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye?

Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

Soil Preparation Is Key to Success

You can't bake a prize cake with poor ingredients and it's just about as difficult to have a successful garden without proper preparation of the soil. So here are some tips learned in long years of experience. The first step—spading up the ground—sounds simple. But there's a right way and many wrong ways to do it. First, spade DEEPLY, using a straight-edged spade or fork. A pointed spade leaves scalloped depressions in the ground, where water collects. Second, spade systematically in straight lines, rather than haphazardly. Avoid turning the soil over completely. Old grass or weeds thus turned under form a layer of insulation" that prevents new plant roots from getting food from the soil beneath them. Turn your soil over at an angle of about 45 degrees. After thorough spading, your ground should have a good dose of organic fertilizing material. This can be manure, compost or peat moss. Whichever you use, work it in well. Besides enriching the soil the fertilizer helps break up the lumps, which interfere with root growth. If you are working on a bed for flowers or vegetables, avoid packing a solid layer of organic material on the bottom of the bed. Next step in preparing your ground is to apply a top dressing of some complete chemical fertilizer, such as 4-12-4; 4-8-7; 5-8-7 or 5-10-10. Consult your garden supply dealer on this, as soil requirements differ in various areas. Chemical fertilizer can generally be applied at the rate of five pounds to 100 square feet of garden area. A little goes a long way. Finally, rake over newly spaded areas to eliminate roots, stones, air pockets and to provide a good, smooth and seed bed for the germination and growth of your plants. You'll get the pay-off on all this preliminary work later in the season.

LaMonte Baptist Church Brotherhood Met

The Brotherhood of the LaMonte Baptist church held an open meeting, Tuesday night at the church. A contributive supper was served before the meeting. Rev. Clyde Faulkner had charge of the meeting and introduced Jesse Shephard of Warrensburg, who led in the song service, after which he gave a short talk on the work of the Brotherhood. Rev. Harvey, pastor of the Warrensburg church discussed the choir of the Bible work at Columbia.

After a special number, the meeting was closed by prayer. There were 33 members and 9 guests present.

Coal Production On the Increase

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—Bituminous coal production jumped to 13,200,000 tons in the first week after the United Mine Workers went back to the pit with a new contract March 6 the National Coal Association estimated Friday.

Production in the corresponding week of 1949 was 10,682,000 tons.

In the week ended March 4 this year, with the miners on strike, production was only 3,075,000 tons.

The 13,200,000 figure for the week ended March 11 was the highest since the week ended Nov. 19, when it was 14,150,000.

Fixing Furniture Damage

REFINISHING DETAILS

BY BOB SCHARFF
Written for NEA Service

In every home there is a piece of furniture that is basically good enough to deserve refinishing. But not all surface damages require refinishing.

A scratch in a varnished surface can be removed by putting a little turpentine in it with a sharpened match end or a fine brush. Special furniture "scratch sticks" of a wax-like compound shaped like a pencil are available and do a good job of hiding scratches.

White spots caused by water or hot dishes, don't require a refinishing job. They may be removed by rubbing lightly with a piece of flannel dampened with spirits of camphor or a drop or two of ammonia.

Dents in wood can be reduced to some extent by first removing the finish from around the dented area with turpentine and then laying on a bit of damp wool cloth or blotting paper for several hours.

Heat (not too much) should be applied to the paper or cloth with a warm iron. Sandpaper the area when dry and finally, varnish or other finish should be applied, followed by wax or polish.

Deep burns in furniture should be erased by sandpapering. Then to fill the indentation thus caused, use stick shellack softened with heat. A steel knife may be used to spread the shellac smoothly, and a razor blade to smooth it off. Sandpaper and refinish. Defects and other holes can be treated in the same manner.

For a complete refinishing job, the old finish must be removed, the wood sanded smooth, and new finish applied. To remove an old varnish surface, apply a thin coat of paint-and-varnish remover with the grain, using a cheap two-inch brush. Cover an area 1½ to 2 square feet at a time.

When the varnish bubbles up, scrape it off with a three-inch scraper. For cleaning curved surfaces, use a stiff wire brush and piece of burlap. After the old finish has been removed, clean the entire surface with denatured alcohol.

Shellac surfaces can be removed with alcohol applied with a cloth.

When the surface is dry, sandpaper it completely smooth. If the wood is open-grained and tiny holes are visible, fill the pores with pastewood filler applied according to manufacturer's directions. When purchasing the filler, be sure to get a color that will blend with the wood.

To apply the new finish, the varnish is brushed on with long, smooth strokes, directly from the can. Leave the furniture piece in a dust-proof place, allowing at least 24 hours to dry.

When dry rub down with a cloth saturated with linseed oil and then dipped into powdered pumice. Rub with the grain until the gloss is gone. Repeat varnishing and rubbing two more times. Then apply varnish for the fourth time, and when dry, rub gently with cloth dipped into linseed oil and then into powdered rottenstone.

Continue rubbing until surface is smooth. Finally, apply several coats of furniture wax or polish.

Q—What can be used to take wax off furniture?—A. J. S.

A—You can use either turpentine or naptha, remembering of course that naptha is more inflammable than turpentine.

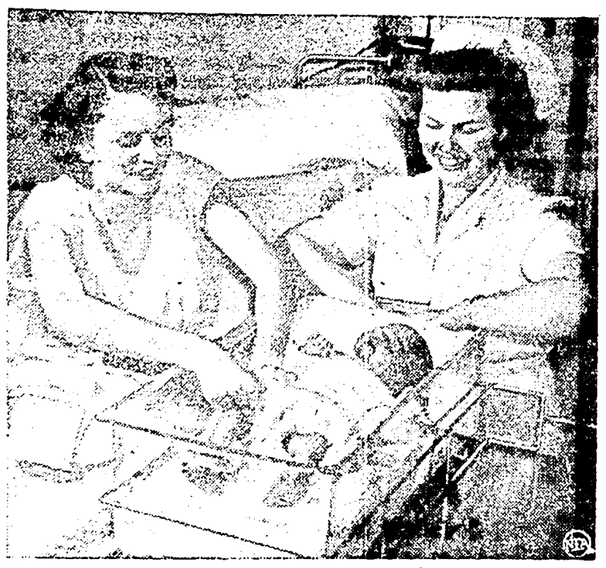
Hospitals Copy Idea from Grandma's Day; Mothers and New Babies Now 'Rooming In'



AT HOME IN THE HOSPITAL: Mrs. Jean Norton shares her bed with junior when she slides over the table-top basinet in the "rooming in" unit at Franklin Hospital, San Francisco.

By NEA Service

SAN FRANCISCO —(NEA)— Maternity care is taking a step back to grandmother's day, when babies were born at home and shared life with mother almost from birth.

The difference is that the hospital is replacing the home with "rooming-in" units, in which mother and child share the same quarters throughout the confinement period after the first 24 hours.

This return to old-fashioned theory actually represents one of the newest practices in obstetrical care and is beginning to gain acceptance across the nation. It is typified at Franklin Hospital in San Francisco, where the fifth "rooming-in" unit in the U.S., just opened, is attracting the interest of many other West Coast hospitals.

* * *

Far more scientific than home methods, the new unit is a streamlined ward decorated in pinks and blues and partitioned off into glass cubicles. A nurse at her desk in the center of the ward is able to observe each mother and child at all times.

In keeping with the "natural approach," babies are fed on demand rather than according to an arbitrary schedule; many doctors now concede there is strong relationship between natural feeding and an infant's emotional development.

Most of the time, junior is right next to his mother's bed in a transparent, bed-high table basinet. The basinet slides on runners to facilitate diaper changing and bathing operations which are performed by the mother rather than in a "dormitory" type nursery.

There is also a sound-proof "banishment chamber" in which the baby can test his lungs without disturbing anybody.

* * *

"Rooming in" is a break for fathers, too. No longer need he wait in the corridor for a momentary peek at his child through the plate glass of a nursery window. In the new-style units, he washes his hands, dons a sterile gown, and takes his place at the head of the family during visiting hours in the temporary glass house.

In praise of the new theory, Dr. Philip A. Reynolds, a noted Los Angeles obstetrician, reported to the California Medical Association:

"Under former routines, the mother of a first-born baby . . . leaves the hospital without acquiring any of the skills and experiences needed for its care at home, and without having become accustomed to the physical and emotional reaction of her baby. In rooming-in she becomes well-acquainted . . . with a multitude of things so easily taken for granted by nurse and physician, but which to her are tremendous mental hazards. The transition from hospital to home is easy."

Donnell Files For Reelection

JEFFERSON CITY, March 18—(AP)—U.S. Senator Forrest C. Donnell made it official Friday. He filed for renomination to a second term on the Republican ticket.

Donnell announced last fall he would be a candidate. His campaign manager, Frederick Stueck of St. Louis, brought his formal declaration of candidacy to the secretary of state's office today.

So far Donnell has only nominal primary opposition. There have been no indications that he will have any serious challenge. Two perrennial candidates —William McKinley Thomas and Herman Heiman Grosby, both of St. Louis — are the only other Republican candidates.

The Republican situation is in sharp contrast with the tangled Democratic primary race for senator. There the president's candidate, state senator Emery W. Allison of Rolla, is competing with Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., Franklin E. Reagan and James W. Hopkins, all of St. Louis. All but Reagan have paid their $100 filing fees.

City Officials Attack Bill

WASHINGTON, March 18—(AP)—A bill to limit government control over natural gas was attacked by officials of 10 cities Friday as a "billion dollar windfall for oil millionaires."

They spoke out as Republicans and Northern Democrats in the senate teamed up in an effort to defeat the bill, now up for debate.

Mayors of Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, St. Louis, Denver and Birmingham joined with officials from Chicago, New York, Detroit and Lynchburg, Va., in the fresh assault on the legislation.

Used State Car For Own Use

SANTA FE, N. M., March 18—(AP)—The latest exploit of ex-Missourian Ingram Pickett brought him a suspended jail sentence and a $50 fine.

The seven-foot State Corporation Commissioner was charged with using a state-owned motor car for personal use.

Pickett, who is campaigning for the Democratic nomination for governor, had invited the charge.

He told District Judge David W. Carmody he deliberately took a state car from Santa Fe to Aubuquerque for his wedding March 11 "to prove to the people that state cars can be and are used for private purposes.

In suspending the 30-day jail sentence and the fine, Judge Carmody warned the former Bethel, Mo., man not to make public comment on the case.

Pickett brought national attention to himself several weeks ago when he established himself at the capitol so as to be the first in line to file for the Democratic nomination.

Proposed Road Law Endorsed

KANSAS CITY, March 18—(AP)—The Highway Engineers Association of Missouri Friday unanimously endorsed the rural road law upon which Missourians will ballot in a referendum election April 4.

The action was taken at the closing session of the organization's 42nd annual convention.

In addition to "definitely, determinably and unequivocally" endorsing the proposal, the organization took a slap at opposition to the measure.

The resolutions declared that "the organizations responsible for this opposition to this road law, namely: The Automobile Association of Missouri, the Missouri Petroleum Association and the Bus and Truck Association of Missouri are motivated by selfishness and greed and are palpably and culpably displaying disloyalty to the great state of Missouri and its citizens and their allegations are positively false and they are definitely guilty of intentionally broadcasting misinformation."

Not one but three romances highlight the melody and mirth of the new technicolor multi-star musical, "On The Town," which starts today at the Fox theatre. Here are Frank Sinatra with Betty Garrett, Jules Munshin with Ann Miller, and Gene Kelly with Vera-Ellen in the lilting story of three gobs and their gals on a song-and-dance spree in New York town.

John Garfield and Jennifer Jones in a scene from "We Were Strangers." Co-hit on the same program is "Bomba on Panther Island." This program starts today at the Uptown Theatre.

The Weaver Brothers and Elviry return to the Liberty screen today in one of their happiest hillbilly hits, "Jeepers Creepers." Roy Rogers is also featured. The second mountain mirth and melody feature is "O, My Darling Clementine" which stars Roy Acuff with his Smoky Mountain Boys, The Radio Rogues, Happy "Pappy" Cheshire and a host of radio favorites.

Mackenzie's Column

By Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Soviet Prime Minister Stalin, first deputy vice prime minister Molotov and other prominent members of the Moscow hierarchy have been preaching the gospel that, after all, it is possible for Communism and Capitalism to live together in peace and harmony.

They have hammered at this thesis persistently despite the fact that it is in direct contradiction of one of the cardinal tenets of Lenin's own creed. He said there isn't room enough for both isms in the world and that capitalism must be killed.

There has been vigorous tub-thumping in the Red camp. Clearly they have been trying to attract the attention of the western world.

Well, they've attracted it. So on the basis that only fools and dead men never change their minds, let's assume for the sake of analysis that Moscow isn't trotting out another wooden horse to sell us. Let's assume that Bolshevism may have changed its views on this matter (though I don't believe it has) and that it feels there still is room in the world for non-Communist governments.

Fish or Cut Bait

If this assumption were correct it would mean that the Muscovites want to end the cold war and get peace. If they wanted peace they obviously would be prepared to make concessions and cooperate with the democracies in establishing peace.

Yesterday U. S. Secretary of State Acheson made a major statement of American policy at the University of California, telling Russia exactly how she could achieve peace. In effect he called on Moscow to fish or cut bait in this matter.

At the same time he told his audience bluntly:

"I fear, however, that I must warn you not to raise your hopes.

"No one who has lived through the post-war years can be sanguine about reaching agreements in which reliance can be placed and which will be observed by the Soviet leaders in good faith."

Acheson's Requests

Among the steps which Acheson called upon Russia to take was joining with the western allies in drawing up peace treaties for Japan, Germany and Austria, without trying to make them satellites. Russia should stop using her military forces to maintain Red governments in the satellites.

The Soviet Union should quit its obstruction in the United Nations so that the organization could function normally. And Moscow should join in establishing atomic control and limitation of armaments.

The secretary dealt with one of the chief bones of contention when he declared that Russia must stop using Communist apparatus to overthrow established governments "with which the Soviet government stands in an outward state of friendship and respect." Acheson didn't specify. But this obviously would include all countries which are suffering from the fifth column activities —America, Britain, France, Italy and where not.

Must Treat Diplomats Better

Russia also must quit kicking American diplomats about and treating them as "criminals." And moreover there must be a halt to Moscow's scheme of distorting the picture of the outside world to their own peoples. Here Acheson condemned the Soviet propaganda which pictures capitalist encirclement and "a United States craftily and systematically plotting another world war."

That's strong mustard for Moscow to swallow. Small wonder that Secretary Acheson isn't sanguine about reaching agreements "which will be observed by the Soviet leaders in good faith."

There is no real evidence, as far as I can see, that Moscow has any intention of halting the drive to communize the world. It is the essence of present day Communism.

Moscow's attitude toward Acheson's statement will illuminate this point.

Labor Party Member Dies

LONDON, March 18 — (AP) — Adam S. McKinlay, a labor party member of the House of Commons, died of a heart attack Friday at his home in Dumbartonshire, Scotland.

His death cut to five the overall majority of the Attlee government in the house elected February 23. It will force the first by-election — election to fill a vacancy—of the new session of parliament.

South Abell Club Meeting

The South Abell 4-H Club met at the Community Hall on March 8. The meeting was opened by the leader, Howard Brown, who led the members in the National 4-H Club Pledge.

Demonstrations were given by Joan Riley, Ruth Ellen Riley and Elmor Van Dyke. The project meetings were then held, after which the meeting was adjourned for recreation.

Refreshments were served by Ed Schwartz and Frank Van Dyke families.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Motorists going abroad may now drive their cars aboard an ocean liner, park them in a garage and drive ashore on the other side of the Atlantic. The garage on the motor liner Batory of the Gdynia American Line is reached by a special ramp from the dock. The usual practice in shipping cars abroad is to lift them with a derrick.

Here's a different kind of family farm power. Tubular Powerline Design eliminates the tractor frame. You SEE clearly . . . on both sides. There is less dead weight . . . more active power . . . more real pull.
Raised rear axle and offset final drive give you high clearance for tall crops, yet hug-the-ground stability of sturdy, low-set drive wheels. Weight of both the transmission and differential over the rear axle plus non-freezing liquid in rear tires give traction enough to match the big 125-cu. in. engine.

The Dratted Game Of Ice Box Checkers

By H. C. L. JACKSON

LAST EVENING WHEN, on hushed feet, we hied us to the refrigerator, and opened the door, in search of some sort of succulent little snack to save us from 10 p m starvation, what happened? Out sprang a pint of milk. We managed to catch it before it bashed floor, but the shock was so great that, having returned the dinged bottle to the refrigerator, we shut the door again, and went in the living room and sat down in our favorite chair, the appetite just plain scared out of us But

H C L. Jackson

As we sat there, we rather mumpily considered several phases of that dratted game you might call Ice Box Checkers.

Obviously, the purpose of Ice Box Checkers is to try to jump two quarts of milk, a bottle of stuffed olives, a half pint of cream, a jar of mayonnaise, and get at the bottle of coke cowering back there in the King Row.

If you can do it without breaking anything, you win If you do break anything, believe us, you lose Now:

* * *

THERE MAY BE families in this world with wallets so round that they can afford refrigerators big enough so the game of Ice Box Checkers doesn't have to be played by a mere male on larceny bent, but——

We doubt it.

We remember a man who kept buying bigger and bigger refrigerators for his wife, but he doloroustly told us that even though he had one large enough so he could stand in it—and he was six feet tall—and keep cool on a blistering summer day—he couldn't, because his wife had had it just as crammed full as the wee-bit one with which they started their married life.

Consequently, the average one-car, one-horse refrigerator-family has to keep on playing Ice Box Checkers:

When you fill the lower section of the refrigerator with milk, cream French dressing, maraschino cherries, ginger ale, and those mysterious dishes—usually with a knob on top—which contain the leavings of recent family meals and are lurking there before they reappear on the table under some other guise, and—

When you have to jump over and past and around them to get at whatever tidbit you seek—and it always is at the back—there's a checker problem even Einstein would flunk.

* * *

THERE ARE PARTICULAR phases to this indoor pastime that are particularly irksome to particular persons:

Hap, for example, confesses that he howls a properly suppressed howl when he reaches to the rear of the refrigerator for a bottle of beer and scoops up, on his cuff, some of that currant jelly that quivered on last evening's menu.

Sam breaks out in resentment against modern efficiency each time he starts scooping for a bit of old cheese and finds he's gotten himself a hunk of iron-hard butter.

Pete silently explodes—one of the horrors of Ice Box Checkers is that, due to the fact that it is played without the knowledge of the Lady of the House, no audible plaints are possible—Pete silently explodes when he exhumes a likely-looking dish only to find it partly filled with what once was creamed salmon. But:

* * *

AS WE CONSIDERED these phases last evening, we were gracious enough to give thanks that, at least, this isn't the worst season of the year in which to play Ice Box Checkers and that

The Watermelon Season!

We know of nothing so truculently against being stabbed in a refrigerator as a watermelon. Put one of those things in storage and right away it goes berserk. And worse than that!

It even brings out the evil in the nature of the other things with which it is housed Whyy, a little half-pint cream bottle, usually gentle and amiable, if cuddled against the curving side of a watermelon, becomes a menace! Oh, well, we spend too much time on this subject, we fear.

What the average man should have is a clear and comprehensive chart by which he could steer a moderately safe course between the Scylla of fresh eggs and the Charybdis of a piece of lemon pie to that remote and restful haven where lurks the object he's seeking Only—

No chart is possible. Because the obstacles keep changing their positions from day to day. Even from hour to hour!

What yesterday, was at the port side front, today is on the starboard side, half way back and what was firmly anchored in the front row now is balancing nervously amidships

It all depends on the most recent whim of the Little Woman

We know that what we've said sounds pretty baffling, but we'll call every kitchen-snatchin' husband in creation to support our statement that it isn t half as baffling as the game of Ice Box Checkers, itself!

P.S. Dear Mr. Sedalia... if you agree that the new Shelvadors have banished the game of "Ice Box Checkers"...the next move is up to you!

P.P.S. Dear Mrs. Sedalia ..we confidently predict that once you've seen and priced the beautiful new 1950 Shelvadors you'll never be happy with any other refrigerator!
